- Contestants on Have a go! have to ... learn a new skill.
- Vicky's teacher has been an opera singer for ...
- Vicky thought that the most difficult thing was ...
- She was surprised at the end of the programme because ...
- Ben thinks the most important part of being a magician is ...
- He says that he can't do ...
- He's planning to ...

b Read about the contestants again. Find all the words/phrases in bold in 1a.

Have a go! is a new reality TV show where members of the public have just four weeks to learn a new skill before they perform live in front of a studio audience. Here's how last week's contestants felt about the experience.

Vicky, opera singer

Four weeks ago I didn't have a clue how to sing opera. I'd never sung in public in my life, apart from karaoke, and I'd never dreamed of singing onstage. Luckily I had a fabulous teacher, Irene, who's been an opera singer for over twenty years. She's very good at encouraging people and I was determined to make the most of the opportunity. At first I found it impossible to breathe and sing at the same time, but the more I practised, the better I got. The hardest part was learning the words, which were in Italian! I was useless at learning languages at school and I was terrified of forgetting the words. Fortunately I was able to give a good performance – and I couldn't believe it when they told me I'd won! It shows that if you put a lot of effort into something, you can achieve your goals.

Ben, magician

I used to love magic when I was a kid, but I had no idea how to do any magic tricks. So when I had the opportunity to become a magician I jumped at the chance. My teacher, Silvio, is a very talented magician and he knows how to do some really amazing tricks. The most important part of being a magician is misdirection – making people look where you want them to. I found some of the tricks quite easy to learn, but I'm no good at doing card tricks – they always seem to go wrong! Before I went onstage yesterday I was incredibly nervous, but I managed to do all the tricks without messing them up. I was disappointed that I wasn't able to win, but I did my best and really enjoyed taking part in the programme. I'm going to continue doing magic – and I'll always be popular at kids' parties!

6 a Read about Zoe and Vince. Did Zoe enjoy appearing on Have a go!? If not, why not?

b Read about Zoe and Vince again. Put the verbs in brackets in the correct form.

Zoe and Vince, ballroom dancers

ZOE I was quite good at ¹ dancing (dance) at school and Vince knows how ² (salsa), but neither of us had a clue how ³ (do) ballroom dancing. Our teacher, Evelyn, spent four weeks trying to teach us a three-minute dance sequence. I was able to ⁴ (learn) the dance quite quickly, but Vince found it difficult ⁵ (remember) all the steps and he had no idea how ⁶ (catch) me correctly. We practised and practised, but unfortunately it all went wrong on the night. Halfway through the dance Vince missed a catch and I fell onto the floor. We managed ⁷ (carry on) and finish the dance, but I was really upset that Vince had messed up our big opportunity to become famous. I didn't think he'd be so hopeless at ⁸ (dance) in public. My friends had a good laugh about it, though!

7 a Rewrite these sentences using the words in brackets.

a collection lonely loneliness bullying be addicted to c Read the article. Which of the ideas that you discussed in 2a are mentioned in the article?

The lonely generation?

These days, millions of people organise their lives on social networking sites like Facebook, Google+ or Twitter, and many of them can't go a day – or even an hour – without checking for status updates. But what effect is this having on society and how is it changing the way we see our friends?

The scientist Robin Dunbar suggests that the largest number of active social relationships a person's brain can deal with is 150. However, most people have hundreds, sometimes even thousands, of Facebook friends, partly because making friends online is so easy. When you receive a friend request, you just click 'Confirm' and you have a new person to add to your collection of online friends. But do you really want to be friends with the person, or are you just trying to appear more popular? To illustrate the point, the Burger King chain of restaurants in the USA offered to give people a free burger if they deleted 10 friends from their Facebook page. Amazingly, over 530,000 people did just that, which shows how little some people value many of these online friendships.

Experts are also concerned that spending so much time online is making children feel lonelier than ever before. According to a children's charity in the UK, the number of calls they receive about loneliness from teenage boys has gone up by 500% compared to five years ago. The charity also reports that online bullying is also increasing. In another report, a third of people at university said they spent too much time communicating online and not enough in person. So it's not surprising that young people who are addicted to social networking sites find it harder to form strong, long-lasting relationships. For them, to be offline is to be disconnected from their network of friends, which can be very hard to cope with.

Of course, you don't have to be at school or university to use social networking sites. Many professional people use networking sites like LinkedIn to make work contacts. And of course being part of a global professional network means that people can make the most of opportunities anywhere in the world. So if you're a designer working in Dublin or an engineer who's moving to Egypt, the online community is one of the most effective ways to help your career.

Social networking sites are one of the most amazing success stories of the internet and Facebook now has over a billion users all over the world. However, the effect these sites are having on our friendships is changing our society forever.

Vocabulary bad weather and natural disasters
Grammar the passive

Q&A Natural disasters

A Tsunamis are caused by earthquakes under the ocean, or they can also be caused by a landslide or a volcano erupting. A large quantity of water is pushed to the surface of the ocean, creating waves. In the deep ocean these waves are small, but they get bigger and more dangerous as they get closer to the coast because the ocean is less deep there. The tsunami in South Asia in 2004 destroyed a large number of coastal towns and villages and about a quarter of a million people were killed.

B A drought is caused by not enough rainfall, and of course we can't control the weather – not yet, anyway. Droughts often happen because all the trees have been cut down in a particular area. This means the rainwater evaporates because it isn't held in the ground by the trees. So part of the solution is to plant more trees. In north Africa, tens of millions of trees are going to be planted in the next decade, which may help to reduce the number of droughts in the region.

C If this happens, the sea level will rise around the world and a lot of towns and cities on the coast will be flooded. This is a frightening thought because over half the world's population live near the coast and many of these places will be destroyed.

D It's still not possible to make an accurate prediction of the place, time and strength of an earthquake. However, it is possible to predict which places are going to be hit by an earthquake sometime in the future. A recent report identified the five most likely places for future earthquakes as the Caribbean, Chile, Indonesia, Japan and North America.

E Yes, it is. The world's temperature has been measured accurately for about 150 years and it shows that on average it has increased by about 1.5°C. Also, eight of the ten hottest years have been recorded in the last two decades, which is very good evidence that this increase in temperature is being caused by man-made climate change.

HELP WITH GRAMMAR The passive

- 4 a Look at these sentences. Then answer questions 1–4.

ACTIVE	Earthquakes under the ocean cause tsunamis.
PASSIVE	Tsunamis are caused by earthquakes under the ocean.

- What is the subject of each sentence?
- What is the object of the active sentence?
- In which sentence is the focus on: tsunamis? earthquakes under the ocean?
- In which sentence do we use by to say what does the action (the agent)?

- b Look at this sentence. Then choose the correct phrase in the rule.

Droughts often happen because all the trees have been cut down.

- We often use the passive when we know/we don't know who or what did the action.

- c Look at the passive forms in bold in the article. Write them in the table.

4 a Before you read, check these words with your teacher or in a dictionary.

conscious estimate a park ranger harm a lifeguard attach

- Look at the title of the article. What do you think happened to Jesse?
- Read the article. Were you correct?

Saving Jesse's Arm

Lucy Atkins describes the battle to save the life of a young boy.

At about 8 p.m. on July 6th, eight-year-old Jesse Arbogast was playing in the sea in a National Park near Pensacola, Florida. It was the end of a perfect day at the beach with his uncle and aunt. Then disaster struck. Jesse was attacked by a two-metre-long male shark, which bit off his right arm from the shoulder and also took a bite out of his leg. By the time his uncle and aunt pulled Jesse out of the water, he was unconscious and had already lost a lot of blood.

While Jesse's aunt was giving the boy the kiss of life, his uncle, Vance Flosenzier, ran into the sea and disappeared under the water. Amazingly, he managed to catch the 90-kilo shark and pull it out of the water onto the beach. Although this might sound impossible, never underestimate a man's strength when a family member's life is in danger.

At that moment two park rangers arrived to help the family and one of them shot and killed the shark. Then he held open the shark's mouth while a volunteer firefighter reached down its throat and pulled out Jesse's arm.

A few minutes later, a helicopter took the boy and his arm to nearby Baptist Hospital, Pensacola, where Dr Ian Rogers and his medical team managed to reattach Jesse's arm in an eleven-hour operation. The doctors knew the operation had been a success when Jesse's fingers turned pink. Of course, after such a terrible accident nobody wants to be over-optimistic, but the medical team are hopeful Jesse will have full use of his arm in the future.

Although Jesse's story is terrifying, it would be incorrect to think that sharks are always so dangerous. Apparently this type of attack was very unusual and sharks are usually harmless to humans. "Shark attacks are very uncommon," agrees JR Tomasovic, chief ranger at the Pensacola park. "You could go ten years without seeing another." However, he says that people shouldn't be irresponsible and should only swim on beaches where there are lifeguards.

5 Read the article again. Tick the true sentences. Correct the false ones.

- The shark bit off part of Jesse's arm.
- Jesse's uncle pulled the shark out of the water by himself.
- Jesse's uncle shot the shark and then got Jesse's arm from inside it.
- Jesse might be able to use his arm normally in the future.
- The park ranger said shark attacks are very common.

Just Juice

Can giving up food really improve your health?
Joanne Fullerton spent a week at a retreat centre to find out.

When I arrived at the Just Juice Retreat Centre, I was feeling a bit nervous. I was going to do a seven-day fast, drinking only fresh organic fruit and vegetable juices. I'm the type of person ¹that eats three meals a day and can't wake up without a cappuccino, so the idea of living on juice for a week was rather terrifying.

After checking in, I was taken to the guest house ²where everyone was staying. Louise, the woman ³who I was sharing a room with, had been on the retreat four times and she looked healthier than anyone I'd ever met. According to Rachel Carr-Hill, the woman ⁴whose fasting programme we were following, going without food is one of the best things we can do for our health. The food ⁵that we usually eat contains toxins ⁶which stay in our bodies and stop our digestive system working properly. When we fast, our body doesn't have to digest food, so it has time to get rid of these toxins.

The first day started with yoga at seven o'clock and then we had 'breakfast' – a big glass of carrot juice. We spent the day listening to talks about health, having massages and relaxing, with a different juice meal every three hours. On the second day I had an awful headache and felt as if I was getting a cold. Apparently this was a normal reaction because my body was starting to get rid of the toxins. On day three my headache was much worse and this was also ⁷when I started getting really hungry. I began daydreaming about cheeseburgers, pasta, chocolate – anything but more juice. However, by day five the hunger had gone and I felt more relaxed than I'd been for years. At the end of the retreat I'd lost three kilos and felt like a new woman. Now I'm much more careful about what I eat – but I still can't live without my morning cappuccinos!

Present Perfect Simple active and passive for recent events

- Remember: we use the Present Perfect Simple for giving news about something that happened a short time ago, but we don't say exactly when.

4 a Look at these sentences from the news stories. Then answer the questions.

At least forty people have been arrested.
The UK has failed to meet its targets.

- Which verb form in bold is in the Present Perfect Simple active? Which is in the Present Perfect Simple passive?
- How do we make the Present Perfect Simple active and Present Perfect Simple passive?

b Look at the words in blue in the speech bubbles. What is the difference in meaning between these words? Where do they usually go in sentences?

TIP • We only use still in negative sentences with the Present Perfect Simple: Some of the items still haven't been examined.

c Check in GRAMMAR 9.2 p149.

Vocabulary body movements and responses; connecting words Skills Reading: a magazine article; Listening: a TV interview

WHY DO WE CRY?

Although we don't enjoy crying, it's actually very good for us. The tears that are produced when we're upset contain large amounts of different chemicals that are related to stress, and crying reduces the amounts of these chemicals we have in our body. This is why we always feel better after a good cry. It's also thought that crying evolved to show other humans that we are unhappy or in pain and we need help from other people in our group.

WHY DO WE YAWN?

When we're tired or bored, we don't breathe very deeply and not enough oxygen is carried to the brain. A yawn takes in more oxygen and increases your heart rate by 30%, making us feel more awake. So if people yawn when you're talking to them, don't get too upset. Despite appearing rude, they could be yawning so they can listen more closely to what you're saying. It is also thought that yawning evolved to help groups of early humans stay awake and notice danger, which may also be why we often yawn when someone else does.

WHY DO WE LAUGH?

Even though most people think we laugh because something is funny, that's usually not true. In fact, laughing at something funny accounts for only 15% of all laughter. More frequently, laughter is a way of bonding with another person or a group, and it's 30 times more common to laugh in social situations than when we're alone. It is believed that humans developed the ability to laugh so that we could signal to other humans that we're playing, or that danger has passed.

WHY DO WE SCRATCH?

The obvious answer is that we have an itch and so we automatically scratch it. Of course, we know the itch will come back in a few minutes and scratching will probably make it worse. In spite of this knowledge, we still can't stop ourselves from scratching. It seems that scratching turns off parts of the brain that are connected to unpleasant feelings and memories, and it also stimulates the parts of the brain that make us happy – which is why it feels so good!

WHY DO WE BLUSH?

People usually blush because they're embarrassed, particularly if they have broken a social rule, for example, getting someone's name wrong. Blushing has evolved to show the other person that we know we have done something wrong, and that we're sorry about this. Interestingly, scientists have shown that people are more likely to forgive you if you blush. However, people might not forgive you so easily if you don't blush at all!

For Better, For Worse

When Olivia first started going out with Tony, I thought it would never last. Two months later, she told me they were getting married. I thought she should put the wedding off for a few months until she knew Tony better. As soon as he had proposed to her, Olivia called me and said, "He really is the one." She'd said the same thing about her last three husbands, but I didn't like to point this out to her.

When Olivia asked me to be her bridesmaid, I tried to get out of the whole thing because I didn't want to see her make the same mistake again. However, I couldn't come up with a good excuse, so there I was again, standing outside the church wondering how much Olivia's parents had spent this time. A typical wedding in the UK costs about £20,000 and lasts six hours, so that's about £3,300 an hour. Olivia must be a very expensive daughter to have.

At the church Olivia introduced me by saying, "This is Ginny. She's been a bridesmaid at all my weddings." And indeed I had. I hoped that Olivia and Tony would never split up, which could cost another £15,000 – the average cost of a divorce if you have to go to court. Fortunately, Olivia got over her last three divorces quickly and is still friends with all her ex-husbands.

So what are their chances of a successful marriage these days? The week before Olivia's wedding I came across a newspaper report which said that the number of divorces in the UK is still going up, while the number of people getting married is falling. I looked some figures up and found out that in 1971 there were 459,000 weddings in the UK, but in 2009 there were only 231,000 – the lowest figure since 1861. And as for divorce, where you live makes a huge difference. For example, the divorce rate in the UK is about 45%, but in Italy it's only 12%.

When my husband and I were leaving the reception, Olivia came up to say goodbye and said, "You two have never fallen out, have you? How can I make this marriage last?" Well, Olivia, what can I say? Move to Italy!

HELP WITH VOCABULARY Phrasal verbs (3)

4 a Read about the four types of phrasal verbs.

- TYPE 1 phrasal verbs don't have an object. You two have never fallen out.
- TYPE 2 phrasal verbs always have an object. This is always after the phrasal verb. Olivia got over her divorces quickly. Olivia got over them quickly.

- TYPE 3 phrasal verbs always have an object. If the object is a noun, you can put it in the middle or after the phrasal verb. I looked some figures up. I looked up some figures.

If the object is a pronoun, you must put it in the middle of the phrasal verb. I looked them up. not I looked up them.

- TYPE 4 phrasal verbs have three words and always have an object. The object is always after the phrasal verb. I tried to get out of the whole thing. I tried to get out of it.

b Work in pairs. Look at the other phrasal verbs in bold in the article. Are they type 1, 2, 3 or 4?

c Check in VOCABULARY 10.4 p150.

5 Look at the words in brackets. Where can they go in these sentences? Put a tick or a cross in the gaps.

- Jeanette never got X over ✓ . (her divorce)
- He always puts off until the last minute. (his homework)
- You can't put off any longer. (it)
- Dylan didn't want to go, but he couldn't get out of . (it)
- Look up in a dictionary. (these words)
- If you don't know the answer, look up . (it)
- I came across when I was cleaning. (this)

HELP WITH LISTENING /t/ and /d/ at the end of words

- We don't usually hear /t/ or /d/ sounds at the end of words when the next word starts with a consonant sound.

9 a Look at these sentences. Circle each t and d in bold that you think you will hear. Cross out the ones you don't think you will hear.

Wendy, first of all, we should d start with the most obvious question. When did our ancestors start getting married to each other? Well, I'm pleased that things have moved d on a bit since then. And what about wedding rings? Where did they originate?

b CD3 7 Listen and check your answers.

c Look at Audio Script CD3 6 p169. Listen again and notice when we say and don't say /t/ and /d/ at the end of words.

10 a Think of a wedding you've been to. Make notes on these things.

- when and where
- the ceremony
- the bride and groom
- the reception/meal
- the other guests
- other interesting points

b Work in groups. Take turns to describe the weddings. Which wedding do you think was the most interesting?

QUICK REVIEW Phrasal verbs Make a list of five phrasal verbs. Work in pairs and swap papers. Take turns to say a sentence that includes a phrasal verb on your partner's list. Listen to your partner's sentences. Are they correct?

1 Work in groups. Discuss these questions.

- When did you last stay with relatives or friends? Why did you visit them? How long did you stay?
- When was the last time relatives or friends came to stay with you? Were there any problems? If so, what were they?
- What are the best and worst things about staying in someone else's house or flat?

2 a VIDEO 10 CD3 8 Look at the photos. Then watch or listen to the conversations. Answer these questions.

Conversation 1

- How long has Ella been asleep?
- How long does Rebecca say that Ella and Mike can stay?
- Why does Rebecca suggest that Ella should talk to Charlie?

Conversation 2

- How long were Mike and Ella away for?
- How far away does Mike's brother live?
- Why can't Mike phone his parents on his mobile?

b Work in pairs. Try to fill in the gaps in Ella and Mike's questions with these words.

jumper car washing machine landline breakfast laptop

- Can I make myself some _____?
- May I use your _____?
- Do you mind if I borrow a _____?
- Is it OK if I use your _____ to upload some photos?
- Would you mind if I borrowed your _____ some time this week?
- Do you think I could use your _____ to call my parents?

c Work in the same pairs. Try to match these responses to the questions in 2b. Which are: giving permission? refusing permission?

- Yes, of course. Go ahead. The phone's in the front room, by the window.
- Yes, of course you can. Help yourself. You know where everything is.
- No, not at all. They're in the bottom drawer in our bedroom.
- Sorry, it's only insured for Rebecca and myself.
- Actually, I was just going to put some washing in.
- Sorry, I left mine at work.

Asking for, giving and refusing permission

3 a Look at the ways of asking for permission in bold in 2b. Which verb form comes after each phrase: infinitive, Present Simple or Past Simple?

- Can I + infinitive ...?
- May I + _____ ...?
- Do you mind if I + _____ ...?
- Is it OK if I + _____ ...?
- Would you mind if I + _____ ...?
- Do you think I could + _____ ...?

b Choose the correct way to give permission for these questions. After which other phrase in 3a do we say No, not at all, to give permission?

- A Can I make myself some breakfast?
B Yes, of course./No, not at all.
- A Do you mind if I make myself some breakfast?
B Yes, of course./No, not at all.

c Look at sentences 4–6 in 2c. Answer these questions.

QUICK REVIEW Asking for, giving and refusing permission Choose a partner, but don't talk to him/her yet. Imagine you're staying at your partner's house/flat. Think of three things you want to do there. Work in pairs. Take turns to ask for, give or refuse permission.

Vocabulary and Speaking

Things people do at work

- 1 Match a word/phrase in A to a word/phrase in B. Then check in VOCABULARY 11.1 p152.

A	B
have a lot of work	conferences sort out	responsibility organise	unsocial hours
do	people's problems go	for an audition
run	overtime
be responsible	for the finances
	a department deal with	of a company arrange	shifts
work	customers/clients
be in charge	meetings

- 2 a Write the names of two people you know who have jobs. Think what these people do in their jobs. Use phrases from 1 or your own ideas.
- b Work in groups. Tell each other about the people you chose in 2a. Ask follow-up questions if possible.

Listening

- 3 CD3 13 Gabi is a PA (personal assistant) for On The Box, a company that makes TV programmes. Listen to Gabi talking to Fiona, an actress. Answer these questions.

- Where is Gabi's boss, Max?
- Where is Fiona?
- What has happened to Fiona?
- What is Gabi going to ask Max to do?

- 4 a Work in pairs. Try to fill in the gaps in these sentences from Gabi and Fiona's conversation with one word.

- I can't come to the meeting on Monday.
- I was in a car _____.
- I won't be able to walk on it for a _____.
- I've already had one _____.
- I'm having another operation on _____.
- I still want to be in the _____.
- They're going to start filming _____.
- You must talk to _____.

- b CD3 13 Listen and check.

- 5 a CD3 14 Look at the photo. Gabi is talking to Max the next day. Read sentences a-h. Then listen and put these sentences in the order Gabi says them.

- She said that she'd been in a car accident. 1
- She said she still wanted to be in the programme.
- I told her that she had to talk to you.
- She told me that she'd already had one operation.
- She said that she was having another operation on Friday.
- I told her they were going to start filming soon.
- She told me she couldn't come to the meeting on Monday.
- She said she wouldn't be able to walk on it for a month.

- b Match sentences 1-8 in 4a to sentences a-h in 5a.

- b Look again at the sentences in 5a. Then choose the correct words in these rules.

- We always/never use an object (me, her, etc.) with say.
- We always/never use an object (me, her, etc.) with tell.
- We have to/don't have to use that after say and tell in reported speech.
- Pronouns (I, he, etc.) and possessive adjectives (my, his, etc.) usually/never change in reported speech.

TIP • The modal verbs could, should, would, might and ought to don't change in reported speech.

- c Check in GRAMMAR 11.1 p153.

- 7 CD3 15 PRONUNCIATION Listen and practise the sentences in 5a. Copy the stress, weak forms and contractions.

She said that /ðæt/ she'd been in a car accident.

- 8 a Gabi also took some other messages for Max yesterday. She is now giving Max the messages. Write what she says in reported speech. Use the verbs in brackets.

- MR HALL I must talk to Max. (say)
Mr Hall said (that) he had to talk to you.

undercover

Undercover's success is no secret

Undercover is already the best drama we've seen on TV this year. It stars Eva West as Kat Winters, an undercover cop who works for the SCS (Serious Crime Squad). If you didn't see the last episode, here's what you missed.

EPISODE 4: plot summary

Kat is working undercover as a salesperson at a London art gallery owned by Rupert Wilde, who the police believe is an international diamond smuggler. After Kat had worked in the gallery for a while, Rupert and his wife, Gloria, invited her to have dinner with their family in their luxury flat above the gallery. Just before dinner, Kat managed to put a bug in the phone in Rupert's private study. However, she didn't know that Gloria had seen her leave the study.

Verb patterns (2): reporting verbs

4 a Look at the verbs in bold in the review and underline the verb form that follows them. Then write the infinitive form of the verbs in bold in the table.

invite	+ object + (not) + infinitive with to offer	(+ not) + infinitive with to admit	+ verb+ing

b Check in VOCABULARY 11.4 p152.

After dinner, Rupert's son, Dom, offered to give Kat a lift home. While they were in the car, Dom admitted being madly in love with Kat. She was rather shocked by this, particularly when Dom refused to drive her home until she promised to go out on a date with him. However, Kat needed an opportunity to find out more about the Wilde family, so she agreed to have dinner with Dom on Tuesday evening. Dom suggested meeting at the gallery at seven.

The next day, two other SCS cops, Glenn and Darren, sat in a van outside the art gallery listening to Rupert's phone calls. They heard him call Hendrik Petersen, a famous Dutch artist. Hendrik agreed to deliver three of his statues to Rupert's warehouse at 7.30 p.m. on Tuesday, and reminded Rupert to bring the money in used ten-pound notes. Rupert warned Hendrik not to tell anyone about their plan and threatened to kill him if anything went wrong.

HELP WITH LISTENING Missing words

In informal spoken English we often miss out words when the meaning is clear.

7 a Read the beginning of episode 5 of Undercover. Notice the missing words in brackets. What kind of words do we often miss out?

DARREN [Are you] Sure this is the place, Glenn?

GLENN Yeah. [The] Warehouse on Tudor Street.

[At] Seven thirty.

DARREN [It] Looks closed to me. [Do you] Want a cigarette?

GLENN No, thanks, mate. [I] Gave up last week.

DARREN Yeah, right. [Have you] Heard from Kat recently?

b Look at Audio Script CD3 21 p172. Listen to the first two parts of episode 5 again. Notice the missing words in brackets.

8 Work in pairs. Look again at Audio Script CD3 21 p172. Take turns to say sentences 1-10 in bold in reported speech.

Darren agreed to wait and see what happened.

9 a Work in pairs. Decide what happens at the end of episode 5 of Undercover. Try to include all the characters. Make notes on your ideas.

b Work in groups of four with another pair. Compare ideas and discuss the best way to end the episode.

c Tell the class your group's ideas. Which ideas are the best, do you think?

QUICK REVIEW Reporting verbs Work in pairs. Who were the characters in the TV drama Undercover? What can you remember about episodes 4 and 5? Use reporting verbs (invite, admit, etc.) where possible: A Dom invited Kat to have dinner with him. B Yes, and he also admitted falling in love with her.

1 Work in pairs. Discuss these questions.

- Which three people do you phone the most? What do you talk about?
- Do you ever talk in English on the phone? If so, who do you speak to?

2 a VIDEO 11 CD3 22 Look at the photo. Ella has got a new job as a PA at Getaway Holidays. Watch or listen to two phone conversations. Then answer these questions.

- Why can't the first caller talk to Tanya Wilson?
- Why does he want to talk to her?
- How long is he going to be in the UK?
- Where and when is Andy going on holiday?
- Why does he want Ella to contact someone at The Times?
- What else does he want Ella to do?

b Work in pairs. Compare answers.

c Read about Alain Robert. Match these topics to paragraphs 1–6.

- a A childhood adventure
- b The real Spider-Man 1
- c Danger and police
- d A terrible fall
- e Why he likes climbing
- f Three amazing climbs

d Read the article again. Answer these questions.

- 1 Why did he climb up the side of the building where his family lived?
- 2 Why were the doctors wrong?
- 3 Why is his style of climbing so dangerous?
- 4 Why does he usually get arrested?
- 5 What did he do for the first Spider-Man movie?
- 6 What happened after he climbed the Jin Mao Building?
- 7 Why does he climb?

The real Spider-Man

1 Alain Robert has climbed about 100 of the world's tallest buildings, including the Empire State Building in New York, the Eiffel Tower in Paris and the Petronas Twin Towers in Malaysia. It's not surprising people call him 'The real Spider-Man'.

2 Alain began climbing on the cliffs near where he lived in Valence, France. One day, when he was 12, he got home and realised that he'd forgotten his keys. So he climbed up the side of the building and into his family's flat through the window – which was eight floors up. That was when he decided to become a professional climber.

3 In his teens he climbed all the difficult mountains in the Alps and found them "rather disappointing". However, he did have a few bad falls. In 1982 he fell 15 metres and was in a coma for five days. Doctors said he'd never climb again. Alain was back on a mountain after only six months.

4 In 1994 he climbed his first skyscraper, in Chicago, and realised he enjoyed doing what seemed impossible. He climbs without ropes or protective equipment – just with his hands and feet. He's always very careful, of course, but admits that the danger is part of the attraction. Also he usually climbs without permission, which means he often gets arrested. "That's no problem," says Alain. "I prefer staying in prison to staying in hospital."

5 For the release of the first Spider-Man film in 2002, Alain climbed the tallest skyscraper in Venezuela wearing a Spider-Man costume and was watched live on TV by over 10 million people. He also climbed the 88-storey Jin Mao Building in Shanghai in 2007, again dressed as Spider-Man, after which he was arrested and held in prison for five days. And in 2011 he climbed the tallest building in the world, the 828-metre Burj Khalifa Tower in Dubai, in just over six hours.

6 However, Alain doesn't climb buildings just to provide entertainment for the public. For him, climbing is a form of relaxation, but there's also a deeper meaning to what he does. "It gives me a sense of what is important on Earth," he says. "When you're facing your own death, money is not that important."

Work in groups of four. Read the rules. Then play the game!

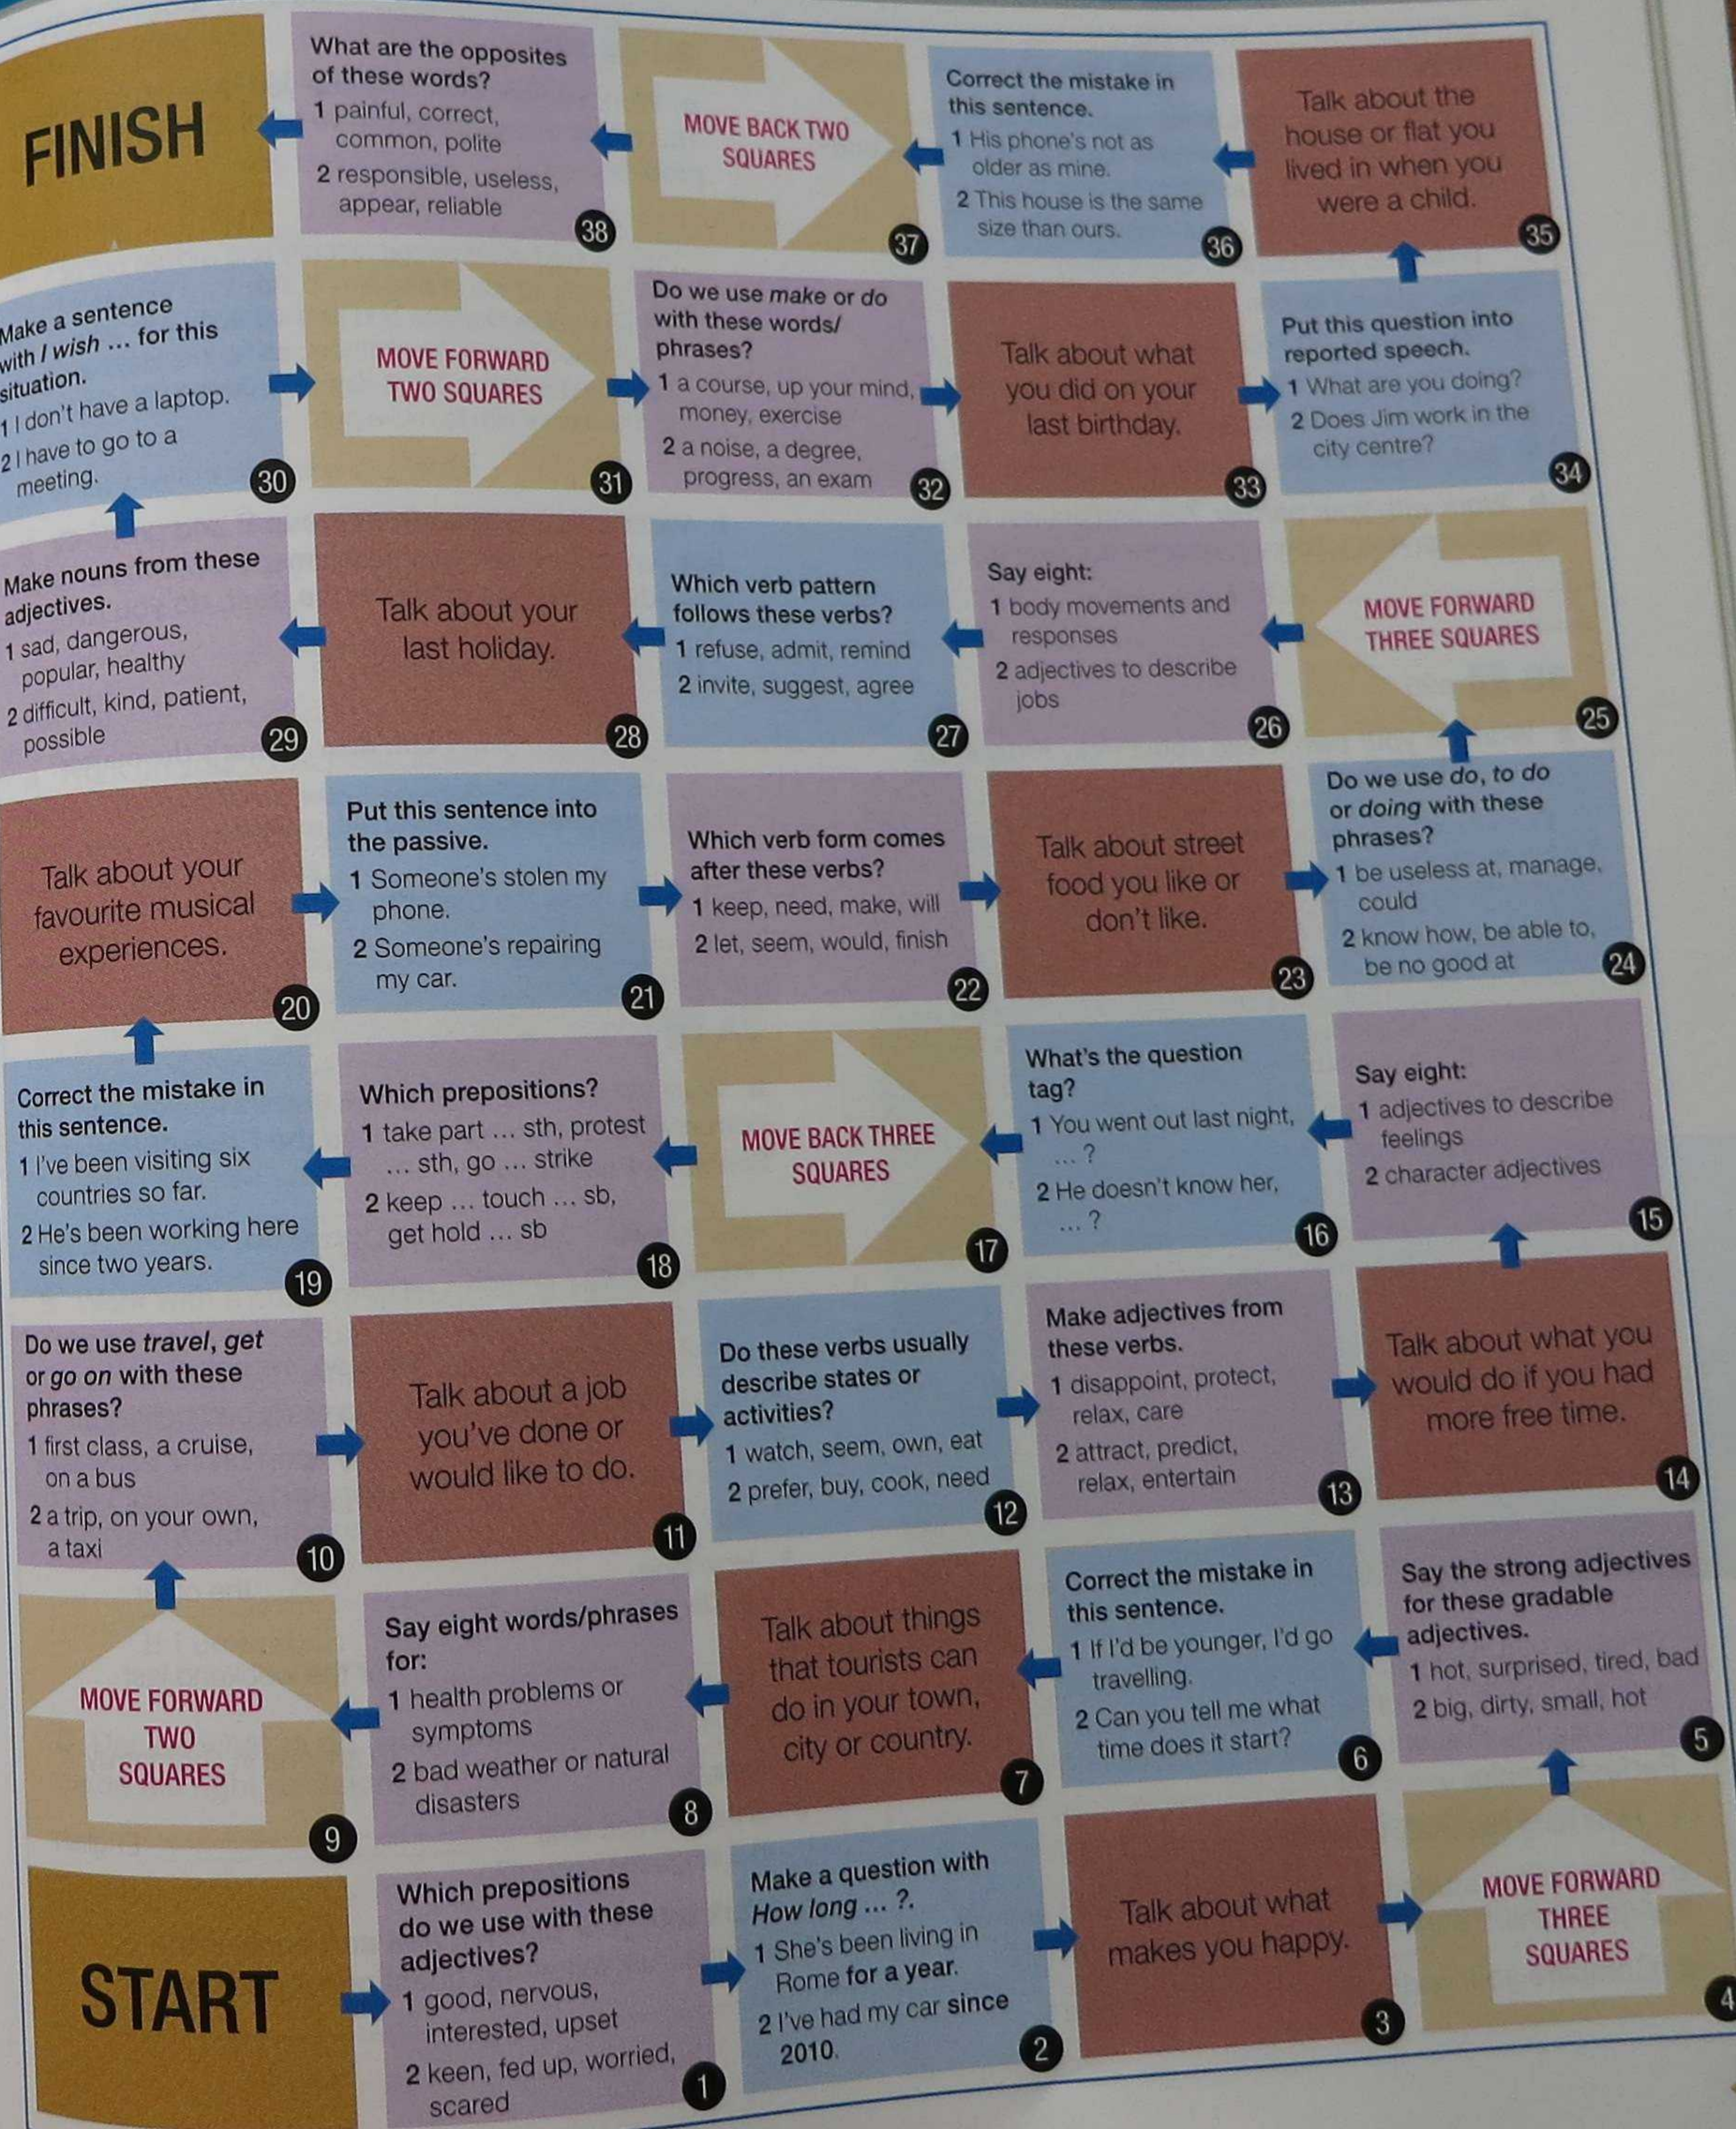

Rules

You need: One counter for each student; one dice for each group.

How to play: Put your counters on START. Take turns to throw the dice, move your counter and read the instructions on the square. The first student to get to FINISH is the winner.

Grammar and Vocabulary squares: The first student to land on a Grammar or Vocabulary square answers question 1. The second student to land on the same square answers question 2. If the other students think your answer is correct, you can stay on the square. If the answer is wrong, you must move back to the last square you were on. If a third or fourth student lands on the same square, he/she can stay on the square without answering a question.

Talk about squares: If you land on a Talk about square, talk about the topic for 30 seconds. Another student can check the time. If you can't talk for 30 seconds, you must move back to the last square you were on. If a second or third student lands on the same square, he/she also talks about the same topic for 30 seconds.

The top ten reasons for happiness

1 YOUR GENES

Some people are simply born happier than others. In a study of 4,000 adult twins, differences in their genes were the main reasons for their different levels of happiness.

2 BEING MARRIED

All studies show that married couples are happier than single people. Just living together without being married doesn't have the same effect.

3 FRIENDS AND FAMILY

People with large families and lots of close friends are usually happier than people who have a lot of money and live on their own.

4 NOT WANTING MORE THAN YOU'VE GOT

People who expect to have a successful career, lots of money and the perfect relationship aren't as happy as people who accept what they've got.

5 HELPING OTHERS

Studies by psychologists in different countries show that when you help other people, it's not only good for them, it also makes you feel happier.

6 RELIGION

Four out of five studies show a positive link between religion and happiness. Very religious people usually live longer too.

7 BEING ATTRACTIVE

Attractive people believe they're very happy - maybe because they also have good genes and are therefore healthier. Cosmetic surgery does not have the same effect!

8 GROWING OLD

Studies show that old people are happy as often as young people and are unhappy less often. This is probably because they spend more time doing the things they enjoy.

9 MONEY

When you're poor, money can buy you some happiness. However, when people have enough money to live comfortably, more money doesn't make them happier.

10 INTELLIGENCE

Surprisingly, this has very little effect on happiness. Being able to get on well with people is much more important than how intelligent you are.

- b Work in groups. Discuss these questions.

- Are the reasons in the article true for people you know? Give examples if possible.
- Do you disagree with anything in the article? If so, why?
- Are there any other reasons for happiness that you think should be in the article?

1C 8 p11

- a Work with your partners. You are going to start a club for your school, university or local community. Discuss what sort of club you would like to start. Use one of these ideas or your own.

drama singing and dancing books animation film art sports nature TV English food and drink travel video games cycling hiking

- b Work with the same partners. Decide on these things. Make notes on what you have decided.

- the name of the club
- what people are going to do in the club
- when, where and how often you'll meet
- why people should join your club
- how you're going to advertise the club
- any other ideas

- c Work in new groups or with the whole class. Take turns to talk about your club. Use your notes and ideas from b.

- d Decide which of the other clubs you want to join. Which club is the most popular?

2D 8 p21

- a Work on your own. Imagine you have this problem. Then think of one thing you've tried to do to solve the problem.

Your husband/wife goes out with friends a lot in the evenings. You often have to work late and he/she is usually out when you get home, so you have to cook dinner and eat on your own. You'd like him/her to stay at home more often in the evenings so you can spend some time together.

- b Work with a student from group A and group B. Take turns to explain your problems, show concern and give advice. Whose advice is the best, do you think?

I've got a bit of a problem.

Oh, dear. What's the matter?

My husband/wife goes out with friends a lot ...

- c Tell the class the best piece of advice you received.

6A 11 p47

- a Work on your own. Read about a problem you have. Think of three ways you can deal with the problem and decide what will happen if you choose each of these options.

You work for a big company that has offices all over the country. You're very good at your job and you like your colleagues, but your new boss, Colin, never gives you any interesting work. Your old boss, Maria, is now Colin's manager.

look for another job → might have to move house

- b Work with a student from group A and group B. Take turns to talk about your problem and your options. Discuss what will happen if you choose each option. Your partners can also suggest other options.

If I look for another job, I might have to move house.

Why don't you ... ?

If I do that, ...

- c Decide what to do. Does your group think you've made the right decision?

ACCOMMODATION AND FOOD

stay in school buildings; share a room with 3 people; food provided by school

FREE TIME

go swimming, diving or snorkelling to the coral reefs; climb volcanoes with a guide

OTHER INFORMATION

Many of the children are from poor families so your work will make a real difference in their lives.

- b Work in your groups. Close your books. Take turns to tell your group about the holiday.

- c Choose which holiday you'd like to go on. Give reasons for your choices.

- d Tell the class which holiday you've chosen. Which holiday is the most popular?

4A 10 p31

- a Work on your own. Think of your best ever musical experience. Make notes on what happened. Use these ideas or your own.

- what the experience was (a concert, a club night, etc.)
- where and when this happened
- where you were living at the time
- what you were doing around that time (work, studies, etc.)
- who you were with on that day
- the main events of the story
- what you did afterwards
- any other interesting information

- b Work in your groups. Take turns to talk about your experience. Ask questions to find out more information. Which experience is the most interesting?

1D 7 p13

a Work with your partner. Write questions with question tags to check information you think you know about six other students in the class.

SILVIO → You live near the school, don't you?

ISMAY → You didn't study here last year, did you?

b Ask the students your questions. Is your information about them correct? Ask follow-up questions if possible.

Silvio, you live near the school, don't you?

Yes, I do.

Whereabouts exactly?

c Tell the class two things you found out about other students.

9C 9 p75

a Work on your own. Think of two things that you've done that are true and two things that are false. Write one or two words only to help you remember each thing.

b Work in your groups. Take turns to tell the group your things from a. You can ask each person one question about each thing. What is each person lying about, do you think?

c Tell the class who was the worst liar in the group. How did you know he/she was lying? Who was the best liar in the group?

a Work in your groups. Create your own superhero! Choose your hero's superpowers. Use these ideas or your own.

has super strength/speed can read minds has X-ray vision can become invisible can fly can travel in time can turn into an animal is indestructible can breathe underwater

b Make notes on these things.

- your superhero's name and where he/she lives
- how he/she got his/her superpowers
- what he/she wears
- what his/her normal life is like
- any weaknesses he/she has
- his/her enemies

c Work with students from different groups. Take turns to describe your superhero. Which is the best?

VOCABULARY

1.1 Weekend activities 1A 1 p6 visit relatives have a lie-in go to concerts/gigs/festivals chat to friends online have a quiet night in do yoga

meet up with friends tidy up the house/the flat go to museums/art galleries do exercise have people round for dinner go out for a drink/meal

TIP • In the Language Summaries we only show the main stress (•) in words and phrases.

have a lie-in when you stay in bed longer than usual in the morning: I often have a lie-in on Sundays.

have people round for dinner invite people to your house to have dinner: We're having Tom's parents round for dinner on Saturday.

tidy up the house/flat put things back in the places where you usually keep them: I usually tidy up the flat before I go to work.

TIPS • A relative is a person in your family (an aunt, a grandparent, a cousin, etc.). Your parents are your mother and father only.

• A gig is an informal word for a concert: I went to an amazing gig last night.

• We also use chat or have a chat to mean 'talk to someone in a friendly and informal way': He's chatting with some friends. I had a chat with our new neighbour.

1.2 Likes and dislikes 1B 1 p8 phrases to say you love or like something

I (really) love ...
I'm (really/very/quite) interested in ...
I (really) enjoy ...
I'm (really/very/quite) keen on ...
I think ... is/are great/brilliant/wonderful.

phrases to say something is OK

I think ... is/are all right.
I don't mind ...

phrases to say you don't like something

I (really) hate ...
I don't like ... at all.
I can't stand ...
... (really) get(s) on my nerves.
I can't bear /bear/ ...
I'm not (very) keen on ...
... drive(s) me crazy.
I think ... is/are awful/terrible/dreadful.

TIPS • I can't stand and I can't bear mean 'I hate'.

• Great, brilliant and wonderful all mean 'very good'. Awful, terrible and dreadful all mean 'very bad'.

• We can use pronouns, nouns or verb+ing with the phrases for likes and dislikes: I really love it. I can't stand football. Waiting in queues really drives me crazy.

1.3 Adjectives (1): feelings 1C 1 p10 relaxed /rɪ'læksd/ happy because you aren't worried about anything: Adela felt very relaxed after her holiday in Spain.

nervous /nɜːvəs/ worried because of something that is going to happen: I always get nervous before I speak in public.

pleased happy or satisfied: I'm pleased you like the present.

embarrassed /ɪm'bærəst/ feel stupid because of something you did or something that happened: I felt so embarrassed when our son said he didn't like the food.

angry having a strong negative feeling about someone and wanting to shout at them or hurt them: I was really angry at him for crashing the car.

annoyed a bit angry: I get annoyed when I have to wait in queues.

fed up annoyed or bored because you have done something for too long: I'm fed up with working so hard.

disappointed unhappy because something is not as good as you wanted it to be, or because something hasn't happened: They were disappointed that only ten people came to their party.

stressed worried and not able to relax: He's very stressed about his new job.

calm relaxed and peaceful: I always feel very calm after yoga.

upset unhappy or worried because something bad has happened: She was very upset when she lost her job.

scared frightened: I'm really scared of spiders.

satisfied pleased because something has happened in the way that you want: She was very satisfied with her students' work.

confused when you can't think clearly or understand something: Matt was confused and didn't know what to do.
shocked very surprised and upset: I was shocked by the news of his death.

glad happy and pleased: I'm glad you enjoyed the meal.

concerned worried: I'm very concerned about the environment.

depressed unhappy and not able to enjoy anything: He became very depressed when he lost his job.

TIPS • We use -ed adjectives to describe how people feel: I was very disappointed when I got my exam results.

• We use -ing adjectives to describe the thing, situation, place or person that causes the feeling: My exam results were disappointing.

1.4 Prepositions with adjectives 1C 6 p11

- We often use prepositions with adjectives. The most common prepositions for these adjectives are in bold. Other prepositions that we can also use with these adjectives are in brackets ().

happy with (about) interested in nervous about (of) keen on worried about surprised by (at) upset about (by) fed up with (of) pleased with (by, about) scared of (by) bored with (by, of) frightened of (by) annoyed at (with, by) bad at satisfied with (by) embarrassed by (about) concerned about (by) angry about (at) something angry with (at) someone

TIP • After prepositions we use a noun, a pronoun or verb+ing.

GRAMMAR

1.1 Question forms 1A 5 p7

AUXILIARIES

- We usually use an auxiliary (does, are, did, has, etc.) to make questions.

	question word	auxiliary	subject	verb
PRESENT SIMPLE	How often	does	Fiona	teach	yoga classes?
PRESENT CONTINUOUS	What	is	Fiona's son	doing	at the moment?
PAST SIMPLE	What	did	Fiona	do	last Sunday?
PRESENT PERFECT SIMPLE	How many songs	has	Maxie	written	?

- We use the auxiliaries do and does to make questions in the Present Simple: Who do you work for? What does he do in his free time?
- We use the auxiliaries am, are and is to make questions in the Present Continuous: Where am I going? What are you watching? What's he doing?
- We use the auxiliaries have and has to make questions in the Present Perfect Simple: Where have you been? Has he called yet?

SUBJECT QUESTIONS

- Most questions with auxiliaries ask about the object of a sentence: A How many songs has Maxie written? B He's written about 25 songs.
- Subject questions ask about the subject of a sentence: A What makes her husband happy? B Cooking makes him happy.
- We don't use do, does or did in Present Simple and Past Simple subject questions: Who visits them most weekends? not Who does visit them most weekends?
- Subject questions have the same word order as positive sentences.
- We can make subject questions with Who, What, Whose and Which.

QUESTIONS WITH PREPOSITIONS

- We often put prepositions at the end of questions: How many countries has he been to? Who does Caroline go to art galleries with?
- TIP • We don't usually put prepositions at the beginning of questions: What are you talking about? not About what are you talking?

REAL WORLD

1.1 Question tags 1D 4 p13

- We usually use question tags (don't you?, etc.) to check information that we think is correct.
- We usually use the auxiliary in question tags: You live next door to Lisa, don't you?
- We only use pronouns in question tags: Barbara went to Liverpool University, didn't she?
- If the main verb is positive, the question tag is usually negative: It was a great match yesterday, wasn't it?
- If the main verb is negative, the question tag is usually positive: You haven't ordered any food yet, have you?

- We often use short answers (Yes, I do. No, I don't., etc.) to say that the information is correct.
- When the information isn't correct, we often use actually after the short answer to sound more polite, then give more information: A You've been diving, haven't you? B No, I haven't, actually. It sounds a bit too dangerous to me.

- TIPS • We can also use Yes, that's right. to say that the information is correct: A You're from London originally, aren't you? B Yes, that's right. / Yes, I am.
- If the main verb is in the positive form of the Present Simple or Past Simple, we use don't, doesn't or didn't in the question tag: Jim lives in the USA, doesn't he?
- We say aren't I? not amn't I?: I'm late, aren't I?

1.2 Positive and negative verb forms, words and phrases 1B 5 p9

	positive	negative
PRESENT SIMPLE	I know	you don't want
PRESENT CONTINUOUS	you're waiting	I'm not feeling
PAST SIMPLE	I waited	I didn't get
PRESENT PERFECT SIMPLE	I've seen	she hasn't flown

I DON'T THINK ...; THERE IS/ARE NO ...

- We often make negative sentences with I don't think ...: I don't think that's right. not I think that isn't right. I don't think I could do that. not I think I couldn't do that.
- We can use no to make negatives with there is/there are: There aren't any traffic jams. = There are no traffic jams. There isn't a better way to travel. = There's no better way to travel.

WORDS AND PHRASES

positive	negative	positive	negative
love	hate	everyone	no one always	never	all	none
usually	hardly ever	both	neither

- TIPS • We can say don't always/usually/often, but not don't sometimes/hardly ever/never.
- We can say everyone or everybody and no one or nobody.
- We don't usually use double negatives. We say: I didn't see anyone. not I didn't see no one.
- We use plural verb forms with both: Both of my sisters have got cars. We use singular verb forms with neither: Neither of them likes driving.

have a nightmare have a frightening dream: I had a terrible nightmare last night.

be a light/heavy sleeper be someone who wakes up easily/doesn't wake up easily: Carla's a very heavy sleeper – nothing can wake her up.

have a nap have a short sleep in the day: My dad always has a nap after lunch. Also: take a nap

GRAMMAR

2.1 be able to, be supposed to, be allowed to, modal verbs (1) 2A 4 p15 can, must, have to, should and ought to are modal verbs.

We use can and be able to to talk about ability or possibility: People can get their best ideas when they're doing nothing. We're able to continue working when we're travelling.

We use be supposed to to say a person is expected to do something: In the UK people are supposed to have a break every four hours.

We use be allowed to and can to say we have permission to do something: Some French employees are allowed to begin their weekend at 3 p.m. on Thursday. In some American companies, employees can sleep whenever they want.

We use must and have to to say something is necessary: Rob says he must take more time off work. Lots of people have to take work home.

We use should and ought to to give advice: People should only work 35 hours a week. We ought to spend more time relaxing.

TIPS • We can use have to or have got to to say that something is necessary: I have to work tonight. = I've got to work tonight. Have got to is very common in spoken English.

Must and have to have very similar meanings in their positive form: I must go. = I have to go. Have to is more common than must.

We can't use must in the past. To say something was necessary in the past, we use had to: I had to go to three meetings yesterday.

POSITIVE, NEGATIVE AND QUESTION FORMS

We use the infinitive after can, must, have to, should, ought to, be able to, be allowed to and be supposed to.

Can, must, should and ought to are the same for all subjects.

positive	negative	question
I can go.	I can't go.	Can I go?
You must go.	You mustn't go.	(Must you go?)
He should go.	He shouldn't go.	Should he go?
We ought to go.	We ought not to go.	(Ought we to go?)

We make negatives and questions of have to by using the auxiliaries do and does: I don't have to go.; Does she have to go?, etc.

We make negatives and questions of be able to, be allowed to, be supposed to by changing the form of the verb be: He isn't able to come. You aren't allowed to go. What are we supposed to do?

TIP • We don't usually use ought to in its question form. We usually use Do you think ... instead: Do you think I ought to call him?

MUSTN'T OR DON'T HAVE TO

We use don't have to to say something isn't necessary: You don't have to wear a suit to work, but you can if you want to.

We use mustn't to say something is not allowed: You mustn't send personal emails from the office. You can only send work emails.

TIP • To say something wasn't necessary in the past, we use didn't have to: I didn't have to work yesterday. not ~~I hadn't to work yesterday~~

2.4 Gradable and strong adjectives; adverbs 2C 7 p19

Strong adjectives already include the idea of very, for example, brilliant means 'very good'.

gradable adjectives	strong adjectives
good	brilliant, fantastic
bad	terrible, awful /'ɔːfəl/tired	exhausted /ɪɡ'zɔːstɪd/, shattered
big	huge /hjuːdʒ/
difficult	impossible frightened	terrified
surprised	amazed
tasty	delicious /dɪ'lɪʃəs/
small	tiny /'tɪni/
cold	freezing
hot	boiling
beautiful	gorgeous /'gɔːdʒəs/
big	enormous interested	fascinated angry	furios /'fjʊːrɪəs/
happy	delighted
dirty	filthy /'fɪlði/

We can use the adverbs fairly, very, extremely and incredibly with gradable adjectives, but not with strong adjectives: very good not ~~very fantastic~~; incredibly hot not ~~incredibly boiling~~, etc.

Fairly is less strong than very. Incredibly and extremely are stronger than very.

We can use absolutely with strong adjectives, but not gradable adjectives: absolutely terrified not ~~absolutely frightened~~, etc.

We can use really with both gradable and strong adjectives: really tired, really exhausted, etc.

TIP • These strong adjectives also mean very good: amazing, excellent, fabulous, incredible, marvellous, superb, terrific, wonderful.

2.2 Present Continuous and Present Simple 2B 4 p17

We use the Present Continuous for things that:

a are happening at the moment of speaking: I'm blogging from a busy street food market. I'm sitting in one of Mexico City's busy parks.

b are temporary and happening around now, but maybe not at this exact moment: Now I'm writing a book about street food. We're working in Mexico for a few days.

c are changing over a period of time: My blog is becoming more popular every year. More and more people are visiting Thailand on holiday these days.

We use the Present Simple for:

a habits and routines with always, sometimes, never, every day, every year, etc.: I always try the street food wherever I go. I come here every year.

b things that are permanent, or true for a long time: I live in London. People still eat a lot of street food in Indonesia.

c verbs that describe states (be, have got, want, etc.): The country's capital has got some fantastic street food. If you want to make the perfect burrito, start with a freshly-made flour tortilla.

ACTIVITY AND STATE VERBS

Activity verbs talk about activities and actions. We can use activity verbs in the Present Simple and the Present Continuous (and other continuous verb forms): I watch TV every evening. I'm watching TV now. Typical activity verbs are: watch, talk, spend, eat, learn, buy, cook, take, happen.

State verbs talk about states, feelings and opinions. We don't usually use state verbs in the Present Continuous (or other continuous verb forms): I like burritos. not ~~I'm liking burritos~~.

Learn these common state verbs.

'be and have' verbs	'think and know' verbs	'like and hate' verbs	senses	other verbs be	think	like	see	hope have (got)	know	love	hear	seem own	believe	hate	taste	need belong	understand	prefer	smell	cost remember	want	touch	agree forget			weigh mean			contain

TIPS • We often use can with verbs that describe the senses to talk about what is happening now: I can hear a noise outside. I can't see anything.

Some verbs can be both activity verbs and state verbs:

I'm having dinner at the moment. (activity)

They have two children. (state)

What are you thinking about? (activity)

I think football is boring. (state)

We often use still with the Present Simple and Present Continuous to mean something that started in the past and continues in the present: People still eat a lot of street food in Indonesia. I'm still waiting for him to call me.

Present Continuous

We make the Present Continuous positive and negative with: subject + be + (not) + verb+ing

I'm (not) working at the moment.

You/We/They are/aren't writing a blog.

He/She/It's/isn't becoming more popular.

We make Present Continuous questions with: (question word) + am, are or is + subject + verb+ing

What am I doing here?

Who are you/we/they talking to?

Is he/she/it working today?

Present Simple

For I/you/we/they, the Present Simple positive is the same as the infinitive.

For he/she/it, we add -s or -es to the infinitive: he lives; she goes; it works.

We make the Present Simple negative with:

subject + don't or doesn't + infinitive

I/You/We/They don't live here.

He/She/It doesn't work.

We make Present Simple questions with: (question word) + do or does + subject + infinitive

Where do I/you/we/they live?

Does he/she/it work?

REAL WORLD

2.1 Showing concern, giving and responding to advice 2D 4 p20 showing concern

Oh, dear. What's the matter? Oh, I'm sorry to hear that.
I can see why you're upset. Yes, I see what you mean.
Oh, how awful! Oh, dear. What a shame.

giving advice

Have you tried talking to him about it?
Perhaps you ought to spend more time together.
Maybe you should sleep in separate rooms.
Why don't you talk to her about it?
I'd take her out for a really nice meal.

responding to advice

Yes, you could be right. Yes, that's a good idea.
Well, it's worth a try, I guess. I might try that.
I've tried that, but ...

After Have you tried ... we use verb+ing: Have you tried talking to him about it?

After you ought to ..., you should ..., Why don't you ..., and I'd (= I would) ... we use the infinitive: Perhaps you ought to spend more time together.

We often use What should I do? or What do you think I should do? to ask for advice.

a package holiday /pækɪdʒ/ a holiday where everything is included in the price: A lot of British people go on package holidays to Spain every summer.

TIPS • Travel is usually a verb. When we want to use a noun, we usually use journey or trip: How was your journey/trip? not How was your travel?

• Get has many different meanings in English: get back = arrive back; get a taxi = take a taxi, etc.

• You can also get on/off a bike, a scooter and a motorbike.

• By + time means 'at or before': I'll get there by 2.30. = I'll get there at 2.30 or earlier.

3.3 Word building (1): suffixes for adjectives and nouns 3C 5 p27

• We sometimes make adjectives from nouns, or nouns from adjectives, by adding an ending (a suffix), for example happy → happiness.

adjective	noun	suffix	noun	adjective	suffix kind	kindness	-ness	danger	dangerous	-ous sad	sadness		adventure	adventurous lazy	laziness		fame	famous patient	patience	-ce	comfort	comfortable	-able confident	confidence		knowledge	knowledgeable important	importance		fashion	fashionable difficult	difficulty	-y	nature	natural	-al honest	honesty		tradition	traditional modest	modesty		music	musical popular	popularity	-ity	health	healthy	-y active	activity		noise	noisy possible	possibility		tourist	touristy

TIP • When the adjective or noun ends in -t, -y or -e, we sometimes have to change the spelling: patient → patience, lazy → laziness, nature → natural, etc.

GRAMMAR

3.1 Present Perfect Simple 3A 3 p23

- We use the Present Perfect Simple for experiences that happened some time before now, but we don't know or don't say when they happened: I've worked in the USA and in Europe. We've been away together a few times. To give more information about an experience we use the Past Simple: I really enjoyed my time there too. Each time there was a problem back at the hotel.
- We use the Past Simple to say when something happened: My wife and I started working in the hotel industry 19 years ago. Three days ago a guy set off on his own into the mountains.
- We use the Present Perfect Simple for something that started in the past and continues in the present: I've lived in this country for about three years. We've had this place since 2008.
- We use the Present Perfect Simple for something that happened a short time ago, but we don't say exactly when: I've just been to Banff to pick him up from the hospital. My wife's gone to see some friends off at Manchester airport.

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE

- We make the Present Perfect Simple positive and negative with:
I/you/we/they + 've, have or haven't + past participle
he/she/it + 's, has or hasn't + past participle
I/You/We/They 've/haven't worked in Canada.
He/She/It 's/hasn't been to South America.

QUESTIONS

- We make Present Perfect Simple questions with:
(question word) + have or has + subject + past participle
How long have I/you/we/they lived here?
Has he/she/it been there before?

FOR AND SINCE

- We use for with a period of time (how long): I've lived in this country for about three years.
- We use since with a point in time (when something started): We've had this place since 2008.

TIPS • We can also use for with the Past Simple: I lived in Colombia for six years. (I don't live there now.)

• We don't usually use during with the Present Perfect Simple: I've been here for a week. not I've been here during a week.

BEEN AND GONE

- Go has two past participles, been and gone.
- We use been to mean 'go and come back': I've just been to Banff to pick him up from the hospital. (I'm back at the place I started from now.)
- We use gone to mean 'go, but not come back yet': My wife's gone to see some friends off at Manchester airport. (She's not back yet.)

ADVERBS AND TIME PHRASES

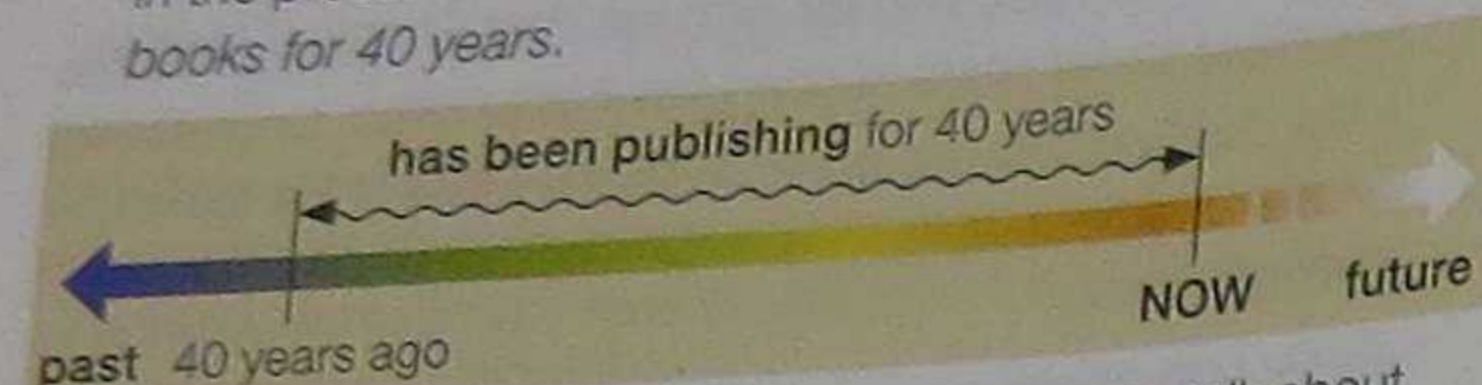

- We can use these words/phrases with the Present Perfect Simple: never, ever, recently, lately, before, this week, just, yet, already: I've never been to Russia., etc.
- We must use the Past Simple with phrases that say a definite time (two years ago, in 1997, last week, at 10 o'clock, etc.): I went there two years ago. not I've been there two years ago.
- We use just to say something happened a short time ago. We don't use just in negative sentences: Jo's just phoned. Has Jo just phoned? not Jo hasn't just phoned. We put just before the past participle.
- We use yet to say something hasn't happened, but we think it will happen in the future. We don't use yet in positive sentences: He hasn't finished it yet. Have you finished it yet? but not I've finished it yet. We put yet at the end of the sentence or clause.
- We use already to say something happened some time in the past, maybe sooner than we expected. We don't use already in negative sentences: We've already seen it. Have you already seen it? but not I haven't already seen it. We put already before the past participle.
- Recently and lately mean 'not long ago': I haven't been to London recently/lately.
- After this is the first time, this is the second time, etc. we use the Present Perfect Simple: This is the first time we've been here. not This is the first time we are here.

TIP • We also use the Present Perfect Simple with this week/month/year, etc. and with this morning, this afternoon, etc. if it is still that time of day. Compare these sentences:

- A Have you seen Bob this morning? (It is still morning.)
B Did you see Bob this morning? (It is now afternoon or evening.)

3.2 Present Perfect Continuous and Present Perfect Simple 3B 5 p25

- We usually use the Present Perfect Continuous to talk about an activity that started in the past and continues in the present: The company has been publishing guide books for 40 years.

- We usually use the Present Perfect Simple to talk about a state that started in the past and continues in the present: The book has been a best-seller since it was published in 1973.

TIPS • We often use the Present Perfect Continuous with verbs that talk about longer activities: learn, rain, try, play, work, read, wait, etc.: I've been learning English for five years.

- We don't usually use the Present Perfect Continuous with verbs that talk about short actions: start, find, lose, break, buy, stop, etc.: I've started a course. not I've been starting a course.
- With some verbs, both verb forms are possible: I've lived/been living here for five years. He's worked/been working in Australia since 2011.

Present Perfect Continuous

- We make the Present Perfect Continuous positive with:
I/you/we/they + 've or have + been + verb+ing
he/she/it + 's or has + been + verb+ing
They've been travelling since 1972.
The company has been publishing guide books for 40 years.
- We make the Present Perfect Continuous negative with:
I/you/we/they + haven't + been + verb+ing
he/she/it + hasn't + been + verb+ing
I haven't been sleeping very well lately.
He hasn't been working here for very long.

TIPS • We often use the Present Perfect Continuous to talk about the activity we have been doing: I've been doing my homework. (We don't know if the homework is finished or not.)

• We often use the Present Perfect Simple to say an activity is finished: I've done my homework. (The homework is finished now.)

HOW LONG ... AND HOW MANY ...

We usually use the Present Perfect Continuous to say how long an activity has been happening: Their television company, Lonely Planet TV, has been making programmes since 2004.

We usually use the Present Perfect Simple to say how many things are finished: Lonely Planet has published over 650 guidebooks since the company began.

Questions with How long ... ? and How many ... ?

- We make Present Perfect Continuous questions with:
How long ... ? with:
How long + have + I/you/we/they + been + verb+ing
How long + has + he/she/it + been + verb+ing
How long have you been waiting here?
How long has Lonely Planet been publishing guide books?
How long has Lonely Planet been publishing guide books?
- We make Present Perfect Simple questions with:
How many ... ? with:
How many + have + I/you/we/they + past participle
How many + has + he/she/it + past participle
How many countries have you visited?
How many books has Lonely Planet published?

TIP • We can also make questions with the Present Perfect Simple and How much (+ noun) ... ?: How much money have you spent so far?

REAL WORLD

3.1 Asking for and making recommendations 3D 3 p28

asking for recommendations

Do you know any good places to stay/eat?
What's the best way to (get around)?
What else is worth seeing?
What about (places outside Delhi)?
Have you got any other tips?

recommending things

It's probably best to (use rickshaws).
I'd recommend (the trains).
You should definitely see (the Red Fort).
That's well worth seeing.
You really must go to (Agra) to see (the Taj Mahal).

not recommending things

Don't bother going to (the museums).
It isn't really worth visiting. (I don't think).
Don't drink anything with ice in it.
I wouldn't eat any salads.

responding to recommendations

That's good to know.
That sounds good.
Thanks, that's really useful.
Yes, I've heard that before.

- After It's (well/not) worth ... we use verb+ing: That's well worth seeing.
- After Don't bother ... we use verb+ing: Don't bother going to the museums.
- After I'd/I wouldn't ... we use the infinitive: I'd recommend the trains.

play live /laɪv/ play in front of an audience: Have you ever seen the Rolling Stones play live?
be onstage be on a stage in a concert hall or a theatre: What time are the band onstage?

TIPS • We can also use tour as a verb: My favourite band are touring at the moment.

- We can also use live to talk about TV programmes or sporting events that we can see at the same time as they are happening: The World Cup final is shown live in over 160 countries.
- We often use a venue /'venju:/ to talk about a place where bands or singers play concerts: There are lots of great venues in London.

4.2 Adjectives(2): character 4B 1 p32

Adventurous people like visiting new places and having new experiences.
Talented people have a natural ability to do something, like paint, write, play music, etc.
Sensible /'sensɪbəl/ people can make good decisions based on reasons and facts.
Sensitive people are able to understand other people's feelings and problems, and help them in a way that does not upset them.

Brave people are not frightened in dangerous or difficult situations.

Determined /dɪ'tɜːmɪnd/ people want to do something very much and don't allow anything to stop them.

Reliable /rɪ'laɪəbəl/ people always do what you want or expect them to do.

Independent people don't want or need other people to do things for them.

Organised people plan things well and don't waste time.

Stubborn /'stʌbən/ people won't change their ideas or plans when other people want them to.

Ambitious /æm'bɪʃəs/ people want to be very successful or powerful.

Confident people are sure that they can do things successfully or well.

Pessimistic people always think that bad things will happen in the future.

TIP • Someone who is optimistic is an optimist. Someone who is pessimistic is a pessimist.

4.3 Guessing meaning from context

4C 3 p35

- Sometimes you can guess the meaning of a word by:
 - deciding which part of speech it is (noun, verb, adjective, etc.).
 - understanding the rest of the sentence and the general meaning of the text.
 - recognising a similar word in your language, or another language you know.

- wandered (regular verb) walked around slowly: Have you ever wandered around an art gallery?
- well-known (adjective) famous: We looked at paintings by well-known artists.
- bizarre /bɪˈzɑː/ (adjective) strange: Nothing is too bizarre for this museum.
- highlight (noun) most interesting part: The highlight of this museum is Imelda Marcos's massive shoe collection.
- appear (regular verb) seem: The sculptures appear to be frozen in time.
- carriages /ˈkærɪdʒɪz/ (noun) parts of a train that people travel in: There are 930 trains with over 14,000 carriages.
- peckish (adjective) a bit hungry: Are you feeling a bit peckish?
- set up (irregular phrasal verb) started (for a business, company, museum, etc.): The museum was set up by a man called Hamburger Harry.

TIP • Be careful of words/phrases that are 'false friends' in your language. For example, sensible in Spanish means sensitive and fast in German means almost.

GRAMMAR

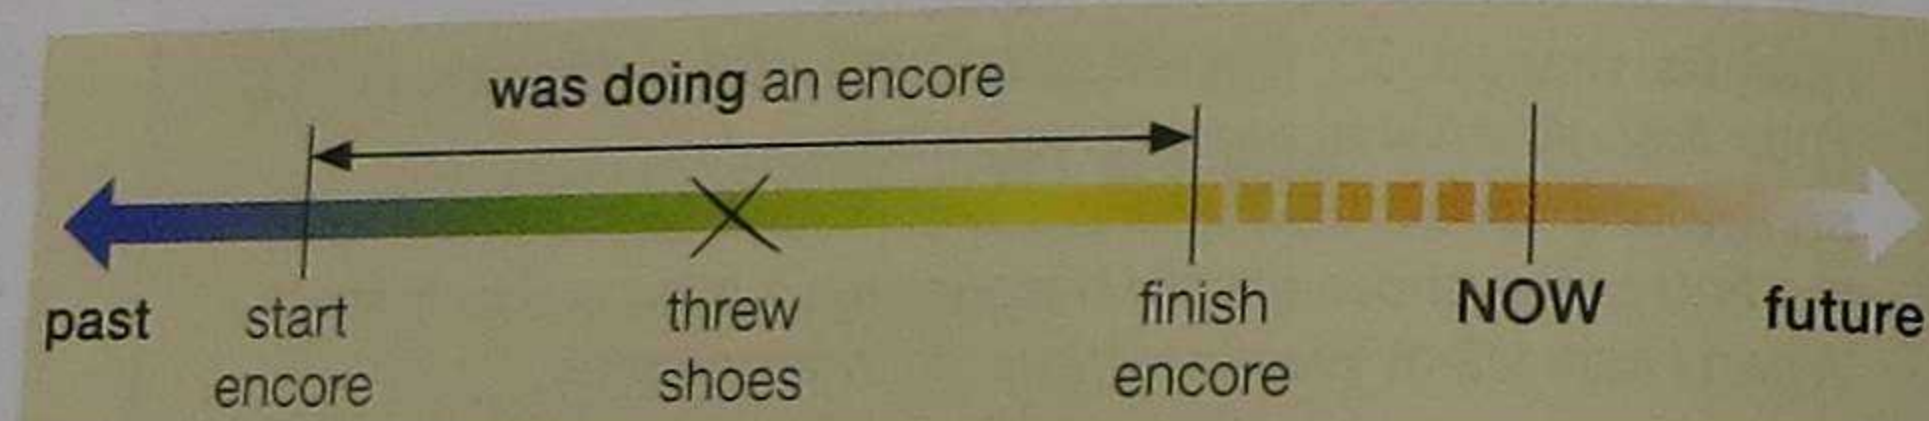

4.1 Past Simple and Past Continuous 4A 5 p31

- We use the Past Simple for:

- a single completed action in the past. My boyfriend bought tickets to see her play live. Then I moved to London.
- a repeated action or habit in the past. I listened to her second album all the time. I practised for hours every day.
- a state in the past. My boyfriend wanted to sell it on eBay. I loved dance music.

- We use the Past Continuous for:

- an action in progress at a point of time in the past. Five years ago I was living in New York. Twenty minutes later I was standing in front of 1,000 people.
- the background events of a story. All the fans were singing along. All the clubbers were dancing and having a good time.
- an action in progress when another (shorter) action happened. While I was playing my last track, the manager came over and congratulated me. While she was doing an encore, she threw her shoes into the crowd. Look at this diagram.

TIPS • We can also use the Past Continuous when the longer action is interrupted: While we were having a picnic, it started to rain.

- We can use when or while with the Past Continuous: He phoned me when/while I was waiting for the train. We don't usually use while with the Past Simple: ~~While he phoned me, I was waiting for a train.~~

Past Simple

- We usually make the Past Simple positive of regular verbs by adding -ed or -d to the infinitive: work → worked, live → lived, etc. There are no rules for irregular verbs. There is an Irregular Verb List on p175.

I stayed at home and watched TV.

- We make the Past Simple negative with: subject + didn't (= did not) + infinitive
He didn't go to work yesterday.
- We make Past Simple questions with: (question word) + did + subject + infinitive
What time did he call you?

Past Continuous

- We make the Past Continuous positive and negative with: subject + was, were, wasn't or weren't + verb+ing
I/He/She/It was/wasn't working when you called.
We/You/They were/weren't living in Australia in 2010.
- We make Past Continuous questions with: (question word) + was or were + subject + verb+ing
Was I/he/she/it waiting for you?*
What were you/we/they doing at 2 p.m. yesterday?

4.2 used to 4A 6 p31

- We can use used to or the Past Simple to talk about repeated actions, habits or states in the past:
I went/used to go to a lot of gigs.
I listened/used to listen to her second album all the time.
Back then I was/used to be one of Lady Gaga's biggest fans.
- We can't use used to to talk about one action in the past:
That night she sang for over two hours. not That night she used to sing for over two hours.

TIP • We can only use used to to talk about the past. To talk about habits or repeated actions in the present, we use usually + Present Simple. Compare these sentences:
I used to work at the weekend. (I don't work at the weekend now.)
I usually work at the weekend. (I work at the weekend now.)

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE

- We make positive sentences with used to with: subject + used to + infinitive
He used to live in Dublin when he was a teenager.
- We make negative sentences with used to with: subject + didn't + use to + infinitive
We didn't use to go clubbing very often.

QUESTIONS

- We make questions with used to with: (question word) + did + subject + use to + infinitive
Did you use to go out a lot when you lived in New York?*
Where did you use to live when you were young?

TIPS • Used to is the same for all subjects: I/You/He/She/We/They used to live in Ireland.

- Notice how we spell the negative and question forms: didn't use to not didn't used to; did you use to not did you used to.

- In the negative we can say didn't use to or never used to:
I never used to go to gigs when I was young.

- The short answers to yes/no questions with used to are: Yes, I did./No, I didn't.; Yes, he did./No, he didn't., etc.

4.3 Past Perfect 4B 5 p32

- When there is more than one action in the past, we often use the Past Perfect for the action that happened first.

second action (Past Simple)	first action (Past Perfect)
Cho joined the expedition after He also read messages that Ed calculated that	Luke had gone back to the UK. people had sent him. he'd walked about 6,000 miles.

- Compare these sentences:

- When I turned on the TV, the programme started.*
First I turned on the TV, then the programme started almost immediately.
- When I turned on the TV, the programme had started.*
First the programme started, then I turned on the TV.

TIPS • If the order of past events is clear from the context, we don't usually use the Past Perfect: We had dinner, watched TV and then went to bed.

- We don't always use the Past Perfect with before and after because the order of events is clear: We (had) finished eating before they arrived. I went home after the meeting (had) finished.

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE

- We make the Past Perfect positive with: subject + had or 'd + past participle
They had planned to do the whole walk together.
- We make the Past Perfect negative with: subject + hadn't + past participle
He hadn't been to the Amazon jungle before.

TIP • The Past Perfect is the same for all subjects: I/You/He/She/It/We/They had already arrived when John got home.

QUESTIONS

- We make Past Perfect questions with: (question word) + had + subject + past participle
What had he done before he became an explorer?

TIPS • The short answers to Past Perfect yes/no questions are: Yes, I had./No, I hadn't., etc.

- We often use the Past Perfect after realised, thought, forgot and remembered: I realised I'd left my wallet at home.

- We often use by the time, when, as soon as, because and so to make sentences with the Past Perfect and Past Simple: The party had finished by the time he arrived.

- We use the same adverbs and time phrases with the Past Perfect as we do with the Present Perfect Simple: Tracy had just/already finished it. See GRAMMAR 3.1 p133 for more information on adverbs and time phrases.

REAL WORLD

4.1 Softening opinions and making generalisations 4D 3 p36

- Sometimes English speakers soften the way they express their opinions so that they don't sound rude or offensive.
- We often use these phrases in bold to soften our opinions:

Some of them can be quite aggressive at times.

On the whole, most fans just want to see a good game.

Footballers tend to earn rather a lot of money.

That's not very sensible behaviour, is it?

Generally speaking, most footballers are just normal people.

Perhaps some people can take it a bit too seriously.

- After tend to we use the infinitive: He tends to be a bit mean.
- Rather, quite, not very and a bit usually come before an adjective: They can get quite/rather/a bit noisy at times.
- We often put generally speaking and on the whole at the beginning of a sentence: Generally speaking/On the whole, most football fans aren't violent at all.
- We often use not very + positive adjective to criticise someone or something politely: That's not very sensible behaviour. (That's stupid behaviour.)
He wasn't very polite. (He was rude.)

check out (regular phrasal verb) go to a place to see what it is like: You should check out The Museum of Bad Art.

displayed (regular verb) organised in a way that they can be seen by the public: 749 pairs are now displayed in the museum.

sculptures (noun) a piece of art made out of stone, wood, metal or concrete: He placed about 300 life-size concrete sculptures of real people on the sea bed.

miniature /ˈmɪniətʃə/ (adjective) very small, particularly for something that is usually much bigger: Why not take him to visit the largest miniature railway museum in the world?

track (noun) The long pieces of metal on the ground that a train travels on: The museum has 13,000 metres of track.

impressive (adjective) admired and respected, often because it's special, important, or very large: It's an impressive sight.

Language Summary 5

VOCABULARY

5.1 Homes 5A 1 p38

HOMES AND BUILDINGS

an apartment block

a cottage /kɒtɪdʒ/

a detached /dɪ'tætʃt/ house

a terraced /'terɪst/ house

TIP • We can say an apartment block, an apartment building or a block of flats.

PARTS OF A HOME

a balcony

a garage /'gærɑːʒ/

a loft

a study

stairs

• We can also say upstairs and downstairs to talk about the floor above or below where we are now: I think you left your wallet upstairs. If you're going downstairs, can you make some tea?

LOCATION in the city centre in the country in the suburbs

in a quiet/lively/friendly neighbourhood in a residential area on the ground/first/top floor

a suburb /sʌbɜːb/ an area where people live outside the centre of a city: They lived in a suburb of New York. People who live in the suburbs have to commute into the city.
a neighbourhood /'neɪbəhʊd/ the area of a town or city that is around someone's home: I live in a quiet neighbourhood.
lively /'laɪvli/ a lively neighbourhood has a lot of places to go (cafés, restaurants, clubs, etc.) and a lot of interesting things happening in it: We live in a very lively neighbourhood.
a residential area a part of town with a lot of houses or flats, but no offices, big shops or factories: My parents live in a residential area just outside the city centre.

TIPS • In the UK the suburbs often have a lot of detached houses and are usually quite expensive places to live.

• the ground floor [UK] = the first floor [US]; the first floor [UK] = the second floor [US], etc.

• We can also say a ground-floor flat, a top-floor flat, etc.

5.2 Phrasal verbs (2) 5B 2 p40 clear sth out tidy a room, cupboard, etc. and get rid of the things in it that you don't want any more: I'm going to clear out the garage this weekend.

sort sth out arrange or organise things that are not in order or are untidy: I need to sort out my notes – I can't find anything!

give sth away give something to someone without asking for money: I didn't need my old TV so I gave it away.

throw sth away or throw sth out put something in the rubbish bin that you don't want any more: A What should I do with this lamp? B Throw it away/out, it's broken.

take sth out remove something from a place: Can you take the rubbish out for me, please?

tidy (sth) up make a room or place tidy by putting things back in the place where you usually keep them: I always tidy up before I go to bed.

put sth away put something in the place where you usually keep it: Don't leave your clothes on the floor – put them away.

come back return to a place: John's on holiday, but he's coming back tomorrow afternoon.

go through sth carefully look at things to find something or to see if you want to keep them: I went through everything in these boxes and threw away a lot of junk.

throw away/out put away

5.3 Verb patterns (1) 5C 4 p43

• When we use two verbs together, the form of the second verb usually depends on the first verb: start singing; decided to make; can't celebrate; tell their children to make; make it shine, etc. This is called a verb pattern.

start	like	begin	love	keep	+ verb+ing (doing)
enjoy	finish	mind	prefer hate	continue decide	remember	forget	try	+ infinitive with to (to do) start	like	begin	love	need would like	want	plan	prefer hate	continue	learn	seem can	might	could	should	+ infinitive (do) would	will	must	would rather tell	ask	help	allow	teach	+ object + infinitive with to (sb/sth to do) would like	want	pay
make	help	let			+ object + infinitive (sb/sth do)

TIPS • The verbs in blue in the table have more than one verb pattern. Both verb patterns have the same meaning: I started to write an email. = I started writing an email.

• In British English, like/love/hate + verb+ing is more common: I like/love/hate watching golf. In American English, like/love/hate + infinitive with to is more common: I like to watch golf.

GRAMMAR

5.1 Making comparisons 5A 5 p39

COMPARATIVES AND SUPERLATIVES

- We use comparatives (bigger, more expensive, etc.) to compare two things.
- We use superlatives (biggest, most expensive, etc.) to compare three or more things.

1-syllable adjectives; 2-syllable adjectives ending in -y adjective	comparative	superlative old	older	oldest small	smaller	smallest nice	nicer	nicest

big	bigger	biggest
noisy	noisier	noisiest

TIPS • When the adjective ends in -e, we only add -r or -st: safe → safer, safest.

• When the adjective ends in consonant + vowel + consonant, we double the final consonant: thin → thinner, thinnest.

• When a two-syllable adjective ends in -y, we change the -y to -i and add -er or -est: funny → funnier, funniest.

5.4 Materials 5D 1 p44

rubber metal cardboard plastic

leather

paper

cotton

wood

tin

glass

steel

other 2-syllable adjectives; long adjectives

adjective	comparative	superlative spacious	more spacious	most spacious amazing	more amazing	most amazing patient	more patient	most patient expensive	more expensive	most expensive

• Good, bad and far are irregular: good → better, best; bad → worse, worst; far → further/farther, furthest/farthest.

• The opposites of more and most are less and least: It's a bit less expensive than the Redland house. It's the least expensive place we've seen.

• We use much, far or a lot before a comparative to say there's a big difference: That place was much/far/a lot noisier than the other two.

• We use slightly, a little or a bit before a comparative to say there's a small difference: It seemed slightly/a little/a bit bigger than where we live now.

TIPS • We use the, possessive 's or a possessive adjective before a superlative: It had the most amazing view. He's Peter's best friend. That's their oldest daughter. The most common form is 'the + superlative'.

• When we compare two things we use than after the comparative: The back garden was far smaller than I'd expected.

• We can also use more and most with nouns: It's got more space. It's got the most rooms.

OTHER WAYS TO MAKE COMPARISONS

- We can use the same + (noun) + as to say two people or things are the same: It's the same size as our house.
- We can also use as + adjective + as to say two people or things are the same: It was as small as the one we've got now.
- We can use similar to + noun to say two people or things are nearly the same: It's very similar to where we live now.
- We can use not as + adjective + as to say two people or things are not the same: It's not as big as the other two places.
- We can also use different from + noun to say two people or things are not the same: It was different from anything else we've seen.

TIP • We can say different from or different to: It was different from/to anything else we've seen.

5.2 The future: will, be going to, Present Continuous 5B 6 p41

- We use will when we decide to do something at the time of speaking: OK, I'll throw those away.
- We use be going to when we already have a plan or an intention to do something: I'm going to sort out the rest of them at the weekend.
- We use the Present Continuous when we have an arrangement with another person: He's picking them up tomorrow evening after work.
- We use be going to for a prediction that is based on present evidence (something we can see now): It's going to break the first time she uses it!
- We use will for a prediction that is a personal opinion and is not based on present evidence: But you'll never listen to them again.

TIPS • When we use the Present Continuous for future arrangements, we usually know exactly when the arrangements are happening. They are the kind of arrangements we can write in a diary: I'm having dinner with Richard on Saturday.

• For how to make the positive, negative and question forms of the Present Continuous, see GRAMMAR 2.2 p131.

• We can also use be going to to talk about future arrangements: What are you going to do tomorrow?

will

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE

- We make the positive and negative forms of will with: subject + 'll, will or won't (= will not) + infinitive
I'll give you a ring next week.
He won't talk to anyone about it.

TIP • Will/won't is the same for all subjects: I/you/he/she/it/we/they will/won't do it.

QUESTIONS

- We make questions with will with: (question word) + will + subject + infinitive
Will you use that old printer again?
What will he decide to throw away?

TIPS • We often use Do you think ...? to make questions with will: Do you think your sister will like this dress?

• We often use probably or definitely with will: He'll probably/definitely call you back tomorrow.

• We often use might to mean 'will possibly': I might finish it this weekend.

• We also use will to talk about future facts and for offers: I'll be 45 next birthday. I'll help you clear out the study.

be going to POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE

- We make the positive and negative of be going to with: subject + am, are or is + (not) + going to + infinitive
I'm/m not going to keep this jumper.
You/We/They're/aren't going to use it again.
He/She/It's/isn't going to work any more.

QUESTIONS

- We make questions with be going to with: (question word) + am, are or is + subject + going to + infinitive
When am I going to see you again?
Are you/we/they going to move house?
What's he/she/it going to do tomorrow?

TIP • With the verb go, we usually say I'm going to the cinema, not I'm going to go to the cinema. But both are correct.

REAL WORLD

5.1 Explaining what you need 5D 3 p44 saying you don't know the name of something

I'm sorry, I've forgotten what it's called.
I don't know what it's called in English.
I can't remember what they're called.
I'm sorry, I don't know the word for them.

describing what something is used for

It's a thing for (making soup).
It's stuff for (getting marks off your clothes).
You use it when (you get coffee on your shirt).
You use them to (mend your clothes).

describing what something looks like

It's a type of (liquid).
They're made of (metal).
They've got (a hole in the end).
They look like (headphones).

checking something is the right thing

Is this what you're looking for?
Do you mean (a blender)?
Oh, you mean (stain remover).

- We often use stuff to talk about uncountable nouns we don't know the name of.
- After It's a thing for ... and It's stuff for ... we use verb+ing.
- After You use it/them ... we use the infinitive with to.

make an excuse give a reason to explain why you did something wrong (often used in the plural): You need to stop making excuses and be more responsible.

make up your mind make a decision: I can't make up my mind where to go on holiday.

make progress get closer to achieving or finishing something: We haven't finished yet, but we're making good progress.

make an appointment arrange a time and place to meet someone, particularly a doctor, dentist, etc.: I've made an appointment to see the doctor.

make a mess of something (informal) do something badly or make a lot of mistakes: I made a mess of my exam. I only got 23%.

do the housework do things like washing, cleaning, etc. in order to keep the house clean and tidy: I can't stand doing the housework.

do someone a favour do something to help someone: Could you do me a favour and help me with my homework?

do the washing-up

do the washing

TIPS • We often use make for 'food' words: make lunch, make dinner, make a cake, etc.

• We often use do for 'study' words: do homework, do a degree, do an exam, etc.

• We usually use do for jobs connected to the house: do the cleaning, do the washing, etc.

• do the washing-up [UK] = do the dishes [US]

6.2 Reflexive pronouns 6B 7 p49

- We use reflexive pronouns (myself, yourself, etc.) when the subject and object are the same people: It's important that they are allowed to enjoy themselves.
- We use by myself, by yourself, etc. to mean alone: This means children spend most of their free time studying by themselves.
- We also use reflexive pronouns to emphasise that we do something instead of someone else doing it for us: We should also encourage children to work things out themselves.

subject pronouns	reflexive pronouns	subject pronouns	reflexive pronouns
I	myself	it	itself
you (singular)	yourself	we	ourselves
he	himself	you (plural)	yourselves
she	herself	they	themselves

TIPS • Some verbs that are reflexive in other languages aren't reflexive in English, for example meet, relax and feel.

• We can say on my own, on your own, etc. instead of by myself, by yourself, etc.: I enjoy living by myself/on my own. We don't say by my own.

• Notice the difference between themselves and each other:

Nicky and Alice are looking at themselves.

Nicky and Alice are looking at each other.

6.3 Synonyms 6C 6 p51

- We often use synonyms when we are speaking or writing so that we don't repeat words.

choose	pick	concerned	worried satisfied	content	frightened	scared
lucky	fortunate	make a decision	make up your mind
behave	act	try to do	have a go at doing notice	spot	talk to someone	chat to someone by chance	accidentally	nice	pleasant attitude	approach	enormous	huge sure	certain	pleased	glad deal with	cope with	wonderful	brilliant show	reveal	terrible	awful

TIP • Many synonyms in English have small differences in meaning or use. For example, chat to someone is more informal than talk to someone.

GRAMMAR

6.1 First conditional 6A 5 p47

- Look at this first conditional. Notice the different clauses.

if clause (if + Present Simple)	main clause (I'll, will or won't + infinitive)
If I start teaching again,	I'll be exhausted after a year.

- The first conditional talks about the result of a possible event or situation in the future.
- The if clause talks about things that are possible, but not certain: If I start teaching again, I'll be exhausted after a year. (maybe I will start teaching again). The main clause says what we think the result will be in this situation (I'm sure I will be exhausted after a year).
- The if clause can be first or second in the sentence: I'll be exhausted after a year if I start teaching again.
- We make first conditional questions with: (question word) + will + subject + infinitive + if ... : What will you study if you do another degree?
- We often use might in the main clause to mean 'will perhaps': You might not get in this year if you don't apply soon.
- We can use unless to mean 'if not' in the first conditional: Unless I do it now, I'll be too old. = If I don't do it now, I'll be too old.

6.2 Future time clauses 6A 6 p47

- We can also use sentences with before, as soon as, after, until and when to talk about the future: I'll ask them before they go on holiday.
- In these sentences we use will/won't + infinitive in the main clause: I'll make a decision after I talk to him.
- We use the Present Simple in clauses beginning with before, as soon as, after, until and when: I won't say anything to them until you decide what to do.

TIP • We use when to say we are certain that something will happen. Compare these two sentences:

- A I'll tell Jo when I see her. (I'm certain I will see Jo.)
B I'll tell Jo if I see her. (Maybe I will see Jo.)

6.3 Zero conditional; conditionals with modal verbs and imperatives; in case 6B 3 p48

ZERO CONDITIONAL

- Zero conditionals talk about things that are always true: If you have children, you want them to be happy.
- In zero conditionals both verbs are in the Present Simple: If children study all the time, they don't develop in other ways.

TIP • If and when have the same meaning in zero conditionals: If/When I'm stressed, I don't sleep very well.

ZERO OR FIRST CONDITIONAL

- Compare these sentences:

A If my children get good grades, I take them to the beach.

This sentence is a zero conditional. It talks about something that is always true. (I take my children to the beach every time they get good grades at school.)

B If my children get good grades, I'll take them to the beach.

This sentence is a first conditional. It talks about one specific time in the future. (I'll take my children to the beach if they get good grades in their next exam.)

CONDITIONALS WITH MODAL VERBS AND IMPERATIVES

- We can use modal verbs (should, can, etc.) in the main clause of conditionals: If parents want their children to be happy, they shouldn't put too much pressure on them. If you criticise children for not getting good grades, they can feel like they're failures.
- We can also use imperatives (praise, don't give, etc.) in the main clause of conditionals: If you want to help your children, praise the effort they make.
- In these conditionals we use the Present Simple in the if clause: If you need some help, ask me.

TIP • We can use other modal verbs (must, have to, might, etc.) in conditionals: If you don't understand, you must ask the teacher.

IN CASE

- We use in case to say that we are prepared for something that might happen: Students are scared of answering questions in case they get them wrong. I'll take an umbrella in case it rains.
- In case and if have different meanings. Compare these sentences:

MIKE I'll buy some food in case I get hungry.

Mike is definitely going to buy some food so that he is prepared if he gets hungry in the future.

JAMES I'll buy some food if I get hungry.

James might buy some food, but only if he gets hungry in the future.

When you tweet, you write a message on Twitter for other people to read. Also: a tweet (noun)

When you follow somebody on Twitter, you are automatically sent messages from this person when they tweet.

A link is a connection between two pages on the internet.

7.4 Use of articles: a, an, the, no article 7C 4 p59

- We use a or an:

- when we don't know, or it isn't important, which one: Many of them can't go a day without checking for status updates.
- with jobs: If you're a designer working in Dublin ...
- to talk about a person or thing for the first time: ... you have a new person to add to your collection of friends.

- We use the:

- to talk about the same person or thing for the second/third/fourth, etc. time: But do you really want to be friends with the person?
- when there is only one (or only one in a particular place): Social networking sites are one of the most amazing success stories of the internet.
- with countries that are groups of islands or states: According to a children's charity in the UK ...
- with superlatives: The largest number of active social relationships is 150.*

- We don't use an article:

- for most towns, cities, countries and continents: ... or an engineer who's moving to Egypt ...
- to talk about people or things in general: But what effect is this having on society?
- for some public places (school, hospital, university, college, prison, etc.) when we talk about what they are used for in general: You don't have to be at school or university to use social networking sites.

TIP • We use the with public places when we talk about the building: She works in the school opposite the park. He's gone to the hospital to visit his father.

GRAMMAR

7.1 Ability 7A 4 p55

- These phrases talk about things you can or could do:
be quite/very/really good at (doing sth): She's very good at encouraging people.
be able to (do sth): I was able to give a good performance.
know how (to do sth): He knows how to do some really amazing tricks.
find sth quite/very/really easy (to do): I found some of the tricks quite easy to learn.
manage to (do sth): I managed to do all the tricks without messing them up.
- These phrases talk about things you can't or couldn't do:
not have a clue how (to do sth): I didn't have a clue how to sing opera.
find sth impossible (to do): I found it impossible to breathe and sing at the same time.
be useless at (doing sth): I was useless at learning languages at school.
have no idea how (to do sth): I had no idea how to do any magic tricks.
be no good at (doing sth): I'm no good at doing card tricks.
not be able to (do sth): I was disappointed that I wasn't able to win.

TIPS • We use manage to do sth to talk about something you do successfully, but is difficult.

- We can also say be brilliant/great/excellent/not bad at doing sth and be hopeless/bad/terrible/awful/rubbish at doing sth.
- We can also say find something difficult/hard to do.

+ infinitive (do)	+ infinitive with to (to do)	+ verb+ing (doing)
(not) be able to can could	not have a clue how find something impossible/ quite easy have no idea how know how	be quite/very/ really good at be useless at be no good at manage

TIP • We can also use a noun or a pronoun after be good at, be useless at, etc.: Tim's hopeless at tennis, but Ian's brilliant at it.

7.2 Second conditional 7B 3 p56

- We use the second conditional to talk about imaginary situations: If I lost my laptop, I'd probably lose my job! (I don't think this will ever happen to me.)
- The second conditional talks about the present or future.
- We often use the second conditional to talk about the opposite of what is true or real: If we didn't have WiFi, this place would be empty. (But we have WiFi, so this is an imaginary situation.)

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE

if clause (if + Past Simple)	main clause (I'd, would or wouldn't + infinitive)
If I lost my laptop,	I'd probably lose my job!
If the internet didn't exist,	I wouldn't have a business.

- Compare these sentences:

- A If I have enough money, I'll buy a new laptop.
 This is a real possibility (the person might buy a new laptop).
- B If I had enough money, I'd buy a new laptop.
 This is an imaginary situation (the person can't buy a new laptop).

- TIPS • The if clause can be first or second in the sentence:
We'd lose a lot of customers if our website crashed.
If our website crashed, we'd lose a lot of customers.
- We can say If I/he/she/it was ... or If I/he/she/it were ... in the second conditional: If I was/were rich, I'd buy a big house.
 - We can use might + infinitive in the main clause of the second conditional to mean 'would perhaps': If they turned off their computers, they might make some new friends.
 - We can use could + infinitive in the main clause of the second conditional to mean 'would be able to': If we didn't have online meetings, I could travel a bit more.

QUESTIONS

- We often make questions in the second conditional with What would you do if ... ?: What would you do if you lost your laptop?
- We can also make yes/no questions in the second conditional: If someone asked you to lend them your computer, would you do it?
- The short answers to these yes/no questions are: Yes, I would./No, I wouldn't. We can also say (Yes,) I might.

REAL WORLD

7.1 Indirect and direct questions 7D 3 p60

- In more formal situations we often use indirect questions because they sound more polite: Could you tell me what time it starts? sounds more polite than What time does it start?

indirect question phrase	question word or if/whether	main clause (positive verb form)
Could you tell me	what time	it starts?
Have you any idea	if	he's been invited?
Can you tell me	when	they're arriving?
Do you know	whether	we've booked them a hotel room?

- We use if or whether in indirect questions when there isn't a question word. If and whether are the same: Have you any idea if/whether we asked him to come?
- We don't use if or whether with Do you think ... ?: Do you think we should email everyone again? not Do you think if/whether we should email everyone again?
- In indirect questions, the main verb is in the positive form. We say: Can you tell me when they're arriving? not Can you tell me when are they arriving?

- a landslide when a large quantity of rocks and earth falls down the side of a mountain: The landslide closed the road through the mountains for over a month.

- TIPS • The adjective for storm is stormy: It was a very stormy night.
- We say thunder and lightning not lightning and thunder.
 - Flood* is a noun and a verb: The whole village was flooded.

8.2 Containers 8B 1 p64

COMMON COLLOCATIONS

- a bottle of milk, beer, ketchup, olive oil, lemonade
- a bag of sweets, potatoes, crisps [US: chips]
- a tin of tuna, biscuits, cat food, soup, beans
- a box of chocolates, tissues
- a can of beer, lemonade
- a carton of milk, orange juice, soup
- a jar of honey, jam, marmalade
- a packet of biscuits, sweets, soup, beans, tissues, crisps

TIPS • We usually use a tin for food (a tin of tomatoes) and a can for drink (a can of cola).

- Marmalade* is made from citrus fruit (oranges, etc.).
- Jam* is made from soft fruit (strawberries, etc.).

8.3 Word building (2): prefixes and opposites 8C 6 p67

- We often use the prefixes un-, dis-, im-, in- and ir- to make opposites of words.

prefix	examples
un-	unconscious unusual uncommon unbelievable unselfish unreliable unambitious unhelpful dis-	disappear dishonest disorganised disloyal dissimilar
im-	impossible impatient impolite immature
in-	incorrect inconsiderate informal insensitive
ir-	irresponsible irregular

TIPS • We can use these prefixes to make opposites of adjectives and verbs: unconscious, dishonest (adjectives); undo, disappear (verbs).

- Adjectives beginning with p usually take the prefix im-: patient → impatient.
- Adjectives beginning with r usually take the prefix ir-: responsible → irresponsible.

8.4 Word building (2): other prefixes and suffixes 8C 7 p67

- We often use other prefixes and suffixes to change the meaning of words.

prefix/suffix	meaning	examples
under-	not enough	underestimate underpaid undercharge underuse
re-	do something again	reattach repaid rewrite recharge remarry replay reuse over-	too much	over-optimistic overpaid oversleep overcharge overuse
-ful	with	hopeful painful careful successful playful useful
-less	without	harmless painless sleepless careless useless

GRAMMAR

8.1 The passive 8A 4 p63

	subject	verb	object
active	Earthquakes under the ocean	cause	(tsunamis)
passive	Tsunamis	are caused	by earthquakes under the ocean.

- In active sentences the focus is on the person or thing doing the action (earthquakes under the ocean). In passive sentences the focus is on the result of the action (tsunamis).
- In passive sentences we can use 'by' + the agent to say what or who does the action.
- We often use the passive when we are more interested in what happens to someone or something than in who or what did the action: Droughts often happen because all the trees have been cut down.
- We make the passive with: subject + be + past participle

verb form	be	past participle
Present Simple	am/are/is	caused
Present Continuous	am/are/is being	caused
Present Perfect Simple	have/has been	cut down
Past Simple	was/were	killed
be going to	am/are/is going to be	hit will	will be	flooded
can	can be	caused

- We make negative passive sentences by using the negative form of be: it isn't caused, they haven't been cut down, etc.

TIP • We can use other modal verbs (could, must, should, etc.) in passive verb forms: Many people could be made homeless.

8.2 Quantifiers 8B 6 p65

quantity	plural countable nouns (bottles, tins, etc.)	uncountable nouns (rubbish, stuff, etc.)
nothing	not any no	not any no
a small quantity	not many hardly any several a few	not much a bit of hardly any a little a large quantity	a lot of/lots of loads of plenty of	a lot of/lots of loads of plenty of more than we want	too many	too much less than we want	not enough	not enough
the correct quantity	enough	enough

Not many, hardly any and not much have a negative meaning. Several, a few, a bit of and a little have a positive meaning. Several is usually more than a few.

SOME, ANY, MUCH, MANY

- We usually use some in positive sentences: I've found some coffee.
- We usually use any in negative sentences and questions: There isn't any sugar. Is there any milk?
- We don't usually use much or many in positive sentences: There's a lot of stuff here. not ~~There's much stuff here.~~ There's a lot of old books. not ~~I've got many old books.~~ I've got lots of old books.

- TIPS • We use some and any with plural countable nouns (biscuits, beans, etc.) and uncountable nouns (pasta, milk, etc.).
- We often use some in questions with Would you like ...?: Would you like some coffee?

REAL WORLD

8.1 Warnings and advice 8D 3 p68

- We give warnings when we think something might be dangerous.

asking for advice

Could you give me some advice?
What (else) do you think we should take with us?
What should we do if we get lost?
Do you think it's a good idea to tell someone where we're going?

giving advice

If I were you, I'd buy a new tent.
Make sure you take plenty of warm clothes.
It's a good idea to take some waterproof clothing in case it rains.
Don't forget to take a map.
It's worth taking a compass, just in case.
You'd better take a torch in case you have to walk in the dark.

giving warnings

Don't wear new boots or else you'll get blisters.
Whatever you do, don't lose sight of each other.
Be careful when you're crossing rivers.
Watch out for wolves.

responding to advice or warnings

- That's really useful, thanks.
That's a good idea. I hadn't thought of that.
Right, thanks. That's really helpful.
That sounds like good advice.
- After If I were you, I'd ... and You'd better ... (= you had better) we use the infinitive: If I were you, I'd buy a new tent. You'd better take a torch.
 - After It's a good idea ... and Don't forget ... we use the infinitive with to: It's a good idea to take some waterproof clothing. Don't forget to take a map.
 - After It's worth ..., we use verb+ing: It's worth taking a compass.
 - After Whatever you do, ... we use the imperative (usually the negative imperative): Whatever you do, don't lose sight of each other.

9.3 Body movements and responses 9C 1 p74

TIP • If you have an itch, you want to scratch it.

9.4 Connecting words 9C 4 p75

- Although /ə'lðəʊ/, even though /ɪˈvənðəʊ/, despite, in spite of and however are similar in meaning to but.
- We use although, even though, despite and in spite of to contrast two clauses in the same sentence: Although/Even though we don't enjoy crying, it's actually good for us. Despite/In spite of appearing rude, they could be yawning so they can listen more closely to what you're saying.
- We use however to contrast two sentences. We put a comma (,) after however: Scientists have shown that people are more likely to forgive you if you blush. However, people might not forgive you so easily if you don't blush at all!
- After despite and in spite of we usually use a noun or verb+ing: In spite of this knowledge, ...; Despite appearing rude, ...
- After although and even though we usually use a clause: Although/Even though we don't enjoy crying, ...

TIPS • Even though is usually stronger than although.

• We can put although, even though, despite and in spite of at the beginning or in the middle of a sentence. We usually put however at the beginning of a sentence.

• In spoken English, we often use though /ðəʊ/ instead of although or even though. We usually put though at the end of a sentence: A I enjoyed the film. B Me too. I didn't like the ending, though.

9.5 Health problems, symptoms and treatment 9D 1 p76

health problems	asthma an allergy hay fever flu a migraine an infection a virus food poisoning a cold symptoms	a runny nose a blocked-up nose wheezy sneeze be sick throw up a sore throat /θrəʊt/ a temperature /ˈtemprətʃə/ a cough /kɒf/ a rash diarrhoea a stomach ache /ˈstaməkeɪk/treatment	antibiotics penicillin painkillers paracetamol cough medicine hay fever an illness with symptoms similar to a cold that is caused by flowers or grass in the spring and summer.

a virus /ˈvaɪrəs/ a very small living thing which can cause illnesses, disease and infections.
food poisoning when you eat some food that is bad and makes you ill.
a runny nose when your nose produces liquid all the time, usually when you have a cold.
a blocked-up nose when you can't breathe through your nose.
wheezy when you breathe noisily and with difficulty, particularly when you have asthma or an allergy.
sneeze when you blow air down through your nose suddenly, for example when you have a cold.
throw up (informal) be sick, vomit.
diarrhoea /ˈdaɪəˈrɪə/ when you have to go to the toilet all the time.
a rash a group of small red spots on the skin, often caused by allergies, that you want to scratch.
penicillin /ˈpenɪˈsɪlɪn/ a type of antibiotic.
paracetamol /ˈpærəˈsiːtəml/ a type of painkiller.

TIPS • We can say I've got a stomach ache. or I've got stomach ache. We can also say I've got a toothache. or I've got toothache. and I've got a headache. but not I've got headache.
 We can use be sick to mean 'be ill' or 'vomit/throw up'. In American English, be sick is more common than be ill: Sorry, I can't come to work today. I'm ill. (UK) I'm sick. (US)
 Sneeze is a noun and a verb. When a person sneezes, we often say Bless you!

That's the man who stole my phone!

That's the house where I was born.

GRAMMAR

9.1 Relative clauses with who, that, which, whose, where and when 9A 4 p71

- We often use relative clauses to say which person, thing, place, etc. we are talking about.
- In relative clauses we use:
 - who or that for people: The woman who I was sharing a room with ... I'm the type of person that eats three meals a day.
 - that or which for things: The food that we usually eat contains toxins which stay in our bodies.
 - where for places: I was taken to the guest house where everyone was staying.
 - whose for possessives: The woman whose fasting programme we were following ...
 - when for times: This was also when I started getting really hungry.

TIPS • We usually use who for people (that is also correct).
 • We usually use that for things (which is also correct).
 • We don't use what in relative clauses: ~~The food what we usually eat ...~~ We can use what to mean 'the thing/things that': Now I'm much more careful about what I eat. (= the things that I eat).

LEAVING OUT WHO, THAT, WHICH

- We can leave out who, that or which when it isn't the subject of the relative clause.
- Compare the relative clauses in these sentences:

A I'm the type of person that eats three meals a day.
 In this sentence we must use that because it is the subject of the relative clause.

B The food (that) we usually eat contains toxins.
 In this sentence we can leave out that because it is the object of the relative clause (we is the subject).

TIPS • We never leave out whose in relative clauses.

- We can usually leave out where if we add a preposition at the end of the relative clause: That's the café where I met my wife.
 → That's the café I met my wife in.
- We can only leave out when if the time reference is clear: Monday's the day (when) I play tennis.

9.2 Present Perfect Simple active and passive for recent events 9B 4 p73

- We use the Present Perfect Simple for giving news about something that happened a short time ago, but we don't say exactly when.
World leaders have met to discuss the global economy.
A new report on the environment has just been published.
- We make the Present Perfect Simple active with:
I/you/we/they + 've, have or haven't + past participle
he/she/it + 's, has or hasn't + past participle
The UK has failed to meet its targets.
We haven't met our targets yet.
- We make the Present Perfect Simple passive with:
I/you/we/they + 've, have or haven't + been + past participle
he/she/it + 's, has or hasn't + been + past participle
At least forty people have been arrested.
Some of the items still haven't been examined.
- We often use passive verb forms in radio and TV news reports and newspaper articles.
- When we say the exact time something happened, we must use the Past Simple active or passive: Gareth Jones found the treasure five days ago.

JUST, YET, ALREADY, STILL

- We use just to say something happened a short time ago. We put just after the auxiliary: The ministers have just had a meeting. A new report has just been published.
- We use yet to say something hasn't happened, but we think it will happen in the future. We put yet at the end of the sentence or clause: We haven't met our targets yet. Why haven't we heard anything from the government yet?
- We use already to say something happened some time in the past, maybe sooner than we expected. We put already after the auxiliary: Experts have already examined most of the items. CO₂ has already been reduced by 2.7%.
- We use still to say something started in the past and continues in the present. We put still before the auxiliary: Some of the items still haven't been examined.

TIPS • We don't use just or already in negative sentences: I've just seen him. not ~~I haven't just seen him.~~; The meeting has already finished. not ~~The meeting hasn't already finished.~~
 • We don't use yet in positive sentences: She hasn't told him yet. Has she told him yet? but not ~~She's told him yet.~~
 • We only use still in negative sentences with the Present Perfect Simple: Some of the items still haven't been examined. not ~~Some of the items still have been examined.~~

REAL WORLD

9.1 What doctors say 9D 2 p76

Now, what seems to be the problem?
 How long have you been feeling like this?
 Do you know if you're allergic to anything?
 What have you eaten recently?
 Come back if you're not feeling better in two days.
 Have you been taking anything for them?
 Have you got any other symptoms?
 Right, let me have a look at you.
 I'm just going to take your temperature.
 Here's a prescription for some painkillers.

9.2 What patients say 9D 5 p76

I'm not feeling very well.
 I haven't been feeling very well recently.
 I've got a terrible stomach ache.
 My chest hurts.
 I keep getting really bad headaches.
 I can't stop sneezing.
 I'm allergic to penicillin.
 Do I need some antibiotics?
 How often should I take them?
 Do I need to make another appointment?

- We use I keep ... and I can't stop ... for things that happen lots of times. We don't want these things to happen.
- After I keep ... and I can't stop ... we use verb+ing: I keep waking up at night. I can't stop sneezing.

TIPS • We can use -ache to talk about a pain in your head, tooth, stomach, back or ear (headache, toothache, stomach ache, backache, earache): I've got a terrible headache.
 • For other parts of the body, we use My ... hurts: My knee hurts. not ~~I've got kneecache.~~
 • We can also say I've got a pain in my ...: I've got a pain in my knee.

Language Summary 10

VOCABULARY

10.1 Contacting people 10A 1 p78 get hold of sb contact somebody, often with difficulty: Did you manage to get hold of Mrs Edwards?

let sb know sth tell somebody some information: Let me know when you get there.
be in touch /tʌtʃ/ with sb communicate regularly with somebody by phone, email, letter, etc.: Are you still in touch with any of your old school friends?
lose touch with sb not be in touch with somebody any more, usually because they have moved house, changed job, etc.: I lost touch with Tim after he moved to Australia.
keep in touch with sb or stay in touch with sb not lose touch with somebody: I hope we keep in touch while you're in the USA.
get in touch with sb contact somebody by writing, emailing or phoning them: I'm trying to get in touch with somebody from the office.

TIPS • We can say be/keep/lose/get in touch with somebody or be/keep/lose/get in contact with somebody: I'm still in touch/contact with my old boss.

• We can also say get back in touch with somebody, which means 'communicate with somebody again after a long time'.

10.2 Describing people 10B 1 p80

APPEARANCE

AGE

• We often use in his/her teens/early twenties/mid-thirties/late forties, etc. to talk about someone's approximate age.

TIP • We use The person/man/woman/one with ... + (red) hair, glasses, a beard, etc., but The person/man/woman/one in ... + clothes: She's the woman with long wavy hair and glasses. He's the one in a blue suit.

10.3 Phrasal verbs (3): meanings 10C 3 p82 get out of sth avoid doing something you don't want to do: I tried to get out of the whole thing.

get over sth feel better after you have been unhappy or ill: Olivia got over her last three divorces quite quickly.
go up increase or rise: The number of divorces in the UK is still going up.
look sth up find some information in a book or on a computer: I looked some figures up.
point sth out tell someone some information you think that they don't know or have forgotten: I didn't like to point this out to her.

split up (with sb) end a marriage or relationship: I wondered how long it would be before Olivia and Tony split up.
come across sth find something by accident: I came across a newspaper report.

10.4 Phrasal verbs (3): grammar 10C 4 p83

• Phrasal verbs have two or three words: wake up, look after, get on with, etc. Look at the differences between the four types of phrasal verbs.

TYPE 1 phrasal verbs don't have an object (fall out, split up, go up, etc.):
You two have never fallen out.

TYPE 2 phrasal verbs always have an object (get over sth, come across sth, etc.). The object is always after the phrasal verb:
Olivia got over her divorces quickly.
Olivia got over them quickly.

TYPE 3 phrasal verbs always have an object (look sth up, put sth off, point sth out, etc.). If the object is a noun, you can put it in the middle or after the phrasal verb:
I looked some figures up.
I looked up some figures.

If the object is a pronoun, you must put it in the middle of the phrasal verb:
I looked them up. not Hooked up them.

TYPE 4 phrasal verbs have three words and always have an object (get out of sth, come up with sth, etc.). The object is always after the phrasal verb:
I tried to get out of the whole thing.
I tried to get out of it.

TIP • We can sometimes add a preposition to some type 1 phrasal verbs to make them type 4 phrasal verbs: I've never fallen out with my brother. Georgina has just split up with her boyfriend.

GRAMMAR

10.1 was/were going to, was/were supposed to 10A 5 p79

- We use was/were going to to talk about plans we made in the past which didn't happen, or won't happen in the future. Look at these sentences.
We were going to visit the Bradleys later that year, but we didn't go for some reason.
(They planned to visit the Bradleys, but they didn't.)
We were going to spend our anniversary in the cottage in Wales where we had our honeymoon, but it was already booked.
(They planned to spend their anniversary in the cottage in Wales, but now they aren't going to go there.)
- We use was/were supposed to to talk about things we agreed to do, or other people expected us to do, but we didn't do. Look at these sentences.
Tom was supposed to book the cottage months ago, but he forgot.
(Tom agreed to book the cottage, but he didn't book it.)
I was supposed to call you back, wasn't I? Sorry, Leo, I was out all day.
(Leo expected his mother to call him back, but she didn't.)
- After was/were going to and was/were supposed to we use the infinitive: It was going to be a surprise party.
I was supposed to call you back.

TIP • We often use was/were going to or was/were supposed to to apologise for not doing something. We usually give a reason: Sorry, I was going to call you back last night, but I didn't get home until late.

10.2 Modal verbs (2): making deductions 10B 3 p81

- We often use the modal verbs must, might, could, may and can't to make deductions in the present.
- We use must to talk about something that we believe is true: He must be talking to some guests in the other room. He must know that speech by now.
- We use could, may or might to talk about something that we think is possibly true: He might be in the bathroom. He may want to be on his own for a bit. He could be picking people up from the station. It could be the guy that moved to New York.
- We use can't to talk about something that we believe isn't true: That can't be her real hair colour. He can't be having a cigarette.
- When we know something is definitely true, or is definitely not true, we don't use a modal verb: He's practising his speech in front of the mirror. No, that isn't Derek Bradley.
- To make deductions about states we use:
modal verb + infinitive
He must know that speech by now.

- To make deductions about something happening now we use: modal verb + be + verb+ing
He must be talking to some guests in the other room.

TIP • We don't use can or mustn't to make deductions: It could be him. not It can be him. He can't be a millionaire. not He mustn't be a millionaire.

REAL WORLD

10.1 Asking for, giving and refusing permission 10D 3 p84

ASKING FOR PERMISSION

- Can I (make myself some breakfast)?
May I (use your washing machine)?
Do you mind if I (borrow a jumper)?
Is it OK if I (use your laptop to upload some photos)?
Would you mind if I (borrowed your car some time this week)?
Do you think I could (use your landline to call my parents)?
- After Can I ...?, May I ...? and Do you think I could ...? we use the infinitive: May I use your phone?
 - After Do you mind if I ...? and Is it OK if I ...? we use the Present Simple: Do you mind if I watch TV? Is it OK if I borrow your bike?
 - After Would you mind if I ...? we use the Past Simple: Would you mind if I used your motorbike this weekend?

GIVING PERMISSION

- We usually give permission by saying: Yes, of course.; Sure, go ahead.; Help yourself., etc.
- Do you mind if I ...? and Would you mind if I ...? mean 'Is it a problem if I do this?'. To give permission for these phrases, we usually say: No, not at all. (= It's not a problem for me if you do this.) Compare these conversations.

- 1 A Can I make myself a sandwich?
 B Yes, of course.
 2 A Do you mind if I make myself a sandwich?
 B No, not at all.

REFUSING PERMISSION

- We don't usually say no to refuse permission because it isn't polite.
- To refuse permission politely, we often say Sorry, ... or Actually, ... then we give a reason: Actually, I was just going to put some washing in. Sorry, it's only insured for Rebecca and myself.

TIPS • We can also ask permission for other people to do things: Can John stay for dinner? Is it OK if Luis uses your computer?

- Would you mind if I ...? is a very polite way to ask for permission. We often use this phrase if we don't know the other person very well or if we have a big favour to ask: Would you mind if I stayed for a few days?
- We can also use Could I ...? or Is it all right if I ...? to ask for permission: Could I borrow your pen? Is it all right if I sit here?

be in charge of sth be responsible for a group of people, or an activity: He's in charge of 15 people in his department.

TIP • You can do overtime or work overtime.

11.2 Adjectives (3): jobs 11B 1 p88

A demanding job needs a lot of time and energy.
In a well-paid job you earn a lot of money.
In a badly-paid job you don't earn very much money.
You have a temporary job for just a short time.
You have a permanent job for a long time.
If you have a full-time job, you work every day in the working week (usually Monday to Friday).
If you have a part-time job, you only work part of the week.
If you have a stressful job, you worry about it a lot.
A challenging job is very difficult, but in an enjoyable way.
A rewarding job makes you feel satisfied when you do it well.
In a repetitive job you do the same things again and again.
If you have a lonely job, you work on your own and don't see or talk to many people.
A glamorous job is very exciting and attractive because it is connected with fame or success.
A dull job is very boring.

TIP • We can also say I work full-time, and I work part-time.

a stressful job

a repetitive job

11.3 Reporting verbs 11C 3 p90

invite ask somebody to go to an event (a meal, a concert, etc.): "Would you like to have dinner with us tonight?" → He invited her to have dinner with them.
offer ask someone if they would like you to do something for them: "Can I give you a lift home?" → He offered to give her a lift home.
admit agree that something is true, especially when you don't want to: "It's true. I'm madly in love with you." → He admitted being madly in love with her.
refuse say you won't do or accept something: "I won't drive you home." → He refused to drive her home.
promise tell somebody you will certainly do something: "I'll go on a date with you." → She promised to go on a date with him.
agree accept a suggestion or idea: "OK, I'll have dinner with you." → She agreed to have dinner with him.
suggest say a possible plan, action or idea for other people to think about: "Let's meet at the gallery at seven." → He suggested meeting at the gallery at seven.
remind make somebody think of something they have forgotten: "Don't forget to bring the money." → He reminded him to bring the money.
warn tell somebody about a possible problem or danger, often in the future: "Don't tell anyone about our plan." → He warned him not to tell anyone about their plan.
threaten tell somebody you will hurt, kill or cause problems for them if they don't do what you want: "I'll kill you if anything goes wrong." → He threatened to kill him if anything went wrong.

11.4 Verb patterns (2): reporting verbs

11C 4 p90

- We often use verbs like offer, invite, etc. to report what people say. These verbs are followed by different verb patterns.

invite	remind	warn	+ object + (not) + infinitive with to (sb/sth (not) to do) offer	refuse	promise	+ (not) + infinitive with to ((not) to do) agree	threaten admit	suggest		+ verb+ing (doing)

Rupert invited her to have dinner with his family.
Dom offered to give Kat a lift home.
Dom admitted being madly in love with Kat.

TIPS • We don't have to report every word people say. It's more important to report the idea: "OK, it's true. I was the one who crashed your car." → He admitted crashing her car.

- Some reporting verbs can have more than one verb pattern. For example, after promise, agree, admit and suggest we can also use that + clause: Kat promised (Dom) that she would go out with him. Dom admitted that he was in love with Kat.
- We often use not with warn: Rupert warned Hendrick not to tell anyone about their plan.

GRAMMAR

11.1 Reported speech: sentences 11A 6 p87

- We use reported speech to tell someone what another person said.
- We usually change the verb form in reported speech. Look at the table.

verb form in direct speech	verb form in reported speech
Present Simple I still want to be in the programme.	Past Simple She said she still wanted to be in the programme.
Present Continuous I'm having another operation on Friday.	Past Continuous She said that she was having another operation on Friday.
Present Perfect Simple I've already had one operation.	Past Perfect She told me she'd already had one operation.
Past Simple I was in a car accident.	Past Perfect She said that she'd been in a car accident.
am/are/is going to They're going to start filming soon.	was/were going to I told her they were going to start filming soon.
will I won't be able to walk on it for a month.	would She said she wouldn't be able to walk on it for a month.
can I can't come to the meeting on Monday.	could She told me she couldn't come to the meeting on Monday.
must You must talk to Max.	had to I told her that she had to talk to you.

SAY AND TELL

- To introduce reported speech we usually use say or tell.
- We never use an object (me, her, etc.) with say: He said (that) ...
- We always use an object (me, her, etc.) with tell: He told me (that) ...
- We don't have to use that after say and tell in reported speech.
- Subject pronouns (I, he, etc.) and possessive adjectives (my, his, etc.) usually change in reported speech: "We can't come to your party." → She told me that they couldn't come to my party.

TIPS • The modal verbs could, should, would, might and ought to don't change in reported speech.

- The Past Simple doesn't have to change to the Past Perfect. It can stay the same: "I met him in 2011." → She said she (had) met him in 2011.
- We don't have to change the verb form if the reported sentence is about something general, or something that is still in the future: "I love classical music." → I told him I love classical music.
- We often change time expressions in reported speech: tomorrow → the next day; next week → the following week; last week → the week before, etc.

11.2 Reported speech: questions 11B 4 p88

- We use reported questions when we want to tell someone what another person asked us.
- We don't use the auxiliaries do, does or did in reported questions: He asked if I had any acting work. not He asked if I did have any acting work.
- We use if or whether when we report yes/no questions: "Are you working at the moment?" → He asked me if/whether I was working at the moment.

- We sometimes use an object (me, him, etc.) with ask: He asked (me) whether I was available to start next week.
- The changes in the verb forms in reported questions are the same as reported sentences: "What other parts have you had recently?" → He asked me what other parts I'd had recently.

REPORTED QUESTIONS

He/She asked (me)	question word	subject + verb
He/She wanted to know	if/whether

He wanted to know where I'd studied acting.
He asked me if/whether I was working at the moment.

TIP • The word order in reported questions is the same as in positive sentences: I asked her where her brother was. not I asked her where was her brother.

11.3 Reported speech: requests and imperatives 11B 8 p89

- To report requests, we use:
asked + object + (not) + infinitive with to
He asked me to come to a meeting on Monday.
- To report imperatives, we use:
told + object + (not) + infinitive with to
He told me to be at their offices at ten.
He told me not to accept any more work.

REAL WORLD

11.1 Checking information

11D 3 p92

asking someone to repeat information

Sorry, what did you say (your name) was again?
Sorry, I didn't get all of that.
Could you say it again, please?
And could you tell me (his surname) again?
Sorry, I didn't quite catch that.
Can you give it to me again, please?

checking the information you have is correct

Is that (Crane) with a (C)?
Do you mean (this Wednesday)?
Is that spelt (N-i-e-l-s-e-n)?
Are you talking about (the UK sales conference)?

TIP • We can say I didn't quite catch that, or I didn't quite get that.

TIP • I'm off. = I'm leaving now. Right, I'm off. See you tomorrow.

12.2 Phrases with get 12B 1 p96 get = receive/obtain get something to eat/drink get a job get a message get a present get a phone call get = travel/arrive get home get here/there get around get back from somewhere get to work get = become get lost get depressed/angry get fed up with something get better/worse at something get older

other phrases with get get on well with someone get to know someone get in touch with someone get rid of something get into trouble

- TIPS • We can use other adjectives with get: get upset/tired/annoyed, etc.
• We also use get to mean buy: Could you get me some bread from the shops?

12.3 Word building (3): word families (1) 12C 5 p99

- We often make nouns and adjectives by adding suffixes (-ment, -ing, etc.) to verbs.

verb	noun	adjective
disappoint	disappointment	disappointed, disappointing
enjoy	enjoyment	enjoyable protect	protection	protective care	care	careful, careless attract	attraction	attractive prefer	preference	preferable
entertain	entertainment	entertaining
relax	relaxation	relaxing, relaxed

- We use these suffixes to make nouns: -ment, -ion, -ence, -ation.
- We use these suffixes to make adjectives: -ing, -ed, -able, -ive, -ful, -less.

TIPS • Sometimes the verb and the noun are the same: They really care about the environment. (verb); He puts a lot of care into his work. (noun)

- We often use -able to mean 'can': It's an enjoyable film. = People can enjoy it.
- We use -ful to mean 'with'. We use -less to mean 'without'.

12.4 Word building (3): word families (2) 12C 6 p99

verb	noun	adjective
create	creation	creative pollute	pollution	polluted, polluting employ	employment	employed, employable
embarrass	embarrassment	embarrassed, embarrassing depend	dependence	dependable harm	harm	harmful, harmless predict	prediction	predictable confuse	confusion	confusing, confused reserve	reservation	reserved

GRAMMAR

12.1 Wishes 12A 3 p94

- We often use I wish ... to talk about imaginary situations in the present or the future.
- We often use sentences with I wish ... to talk about the opposite of what is true or real: I wish we had a car. (The woman hasn't got a car, but she would like to have one.)
- To make wishes about states we use wish + Past Simple:
I wish we had a car. I wish I was on a beach somewhere.
- To make wishes about activities happening now we use wish + Past Continuous:
I wish you were coming to the theatre with me.
- To make wishes about abilities or possibilities we use wish + could + infinitive:
I wish I could come with you.
- To make wishes about obligations we use wish + didn't have to + infinitive:
I wish we didn't have to go to this party.

TIPS • We can say I wish I/he/she/it was ... or I wish I/he/she/it were ...:
I wish I was taller. = I wish I were taller.

- We often use the second conditional to give reasons for wishes: I wish we had a car. If we had one, I wouldn't spend half my life waiting for buses.

- Notice the difference between I wish ... and I hope ...:

A I wish you were coming to the party.
(I know that you aren't coming = imaginary situation)

B I hope you're coming to the party.
(I think that you might come = real possibility)

- We can also make sentences with wish with you/he/she/we/they: He wishes he lived somewhere hotter. We wish we could afford a holiday.

12.2 Third conditional 12B 5 p97

- We use the third conditional to talk about imaginary situations in the past.
- We often use third conditionals to talk about the opposite of what really happened:
If I'd stayed at home, I wouldn't have met my husband. (She didn't stay at home and so she went to a party and met her husband.)
If I hadn't lost my job, I wouldn't have started my own business. (He lost his job so he decided to start his own business.)

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE

if clause (if + Past Perfect)	main clause (I'd, would or wouldn't + have + past participle)
If I'd stayed at home,	I wouldn't have met my husband.
If I hadn't started doing this,	I'd have got into a lot more trouble.

TIPS • As with other conditionals, in the third conditional the if clause can be first or second in the sentence. We use a comma (,) when the if clause is first:
If I hadn't won that race, I'd never have become a serious athlete.
I'd never have become a serious athlete if I hadn't won that race.

- We can use could have in the main clause of the third conditional to talk about ability:
If I'd been there, I could have helped you.
- We can also use might have in the main clause of the third conditional to mean 'would have perhaps': If you hadn't got lost, we might have got there on time.
- We don't usually use would in the if clause: If I'd known, I'd have told you. not If I would have known, I'd have told you.
- In spoken English we can say I'd have /'aɪdəv/ or I would've /aɪ 'wʊdəv/ in the main clause: "I would've got into a lot more trouble if I hadn't started doing this."

Answer Key

6C 8 p51

HOW LUCKY ARE YOU?

16-18 points

You're very positive about life and probably think that you're already a very lucky person. When things go badly, you don't worry too much because you know something good is going to happen soon. Why don't you do the lottery next weekend - you might win!

13-15 points

You're quite a lucky person and tend to look on the bright side of life. You know lots of people and have a very busy social life. Try to do something new every month and make sure you have some time to yourself as well.

9-12 points

You think you're lucky in some parts of your life, but not in others, and maybe you worry about the past and the future too much. Try to enjoy the present a little more and listen to your heart when you make decisions, not just your head.

6-8 points

You're not very lucky at the moment and probably expect things to get worse, not better. Why not try to meet some new people and take a few more chances in life? What's the worst that could happen?

FIONA What makes me happy? Well, I love doing yoga, that's very important to me and I do it every day. I'm also a yoga teacher and I teach classes three times a week. I really enjoy teaching and it never really feels like work. And I love spending time with my son Leo, of course. He's nearly seven now and it's wonderful watching him grow up. At the moment he's playing a video game – it's amazing how good he is, he's much better than I am and he beats me every time. Er, what else? Well, I love having a lie-in, which doesn't happen very often, as you can imagine! But last Sunday Leo stayed with his grandparents, so my husband and I didn't get up till midday. It was heaven!

MAXIE Well, um, playing guitar makes me happy. I got my first guitar when I was twelve and now I'm in a band at uni. I started writing my own songs about two years ago and, er, so far I've written about twenty-five songs. Our band isn't famous or anything, but we play every weekend, usually at local pubs or parties, and there's always a really good atmosphere. Oh, and last month I put a video of the band on YouTube and so far it's got over 20,000 hits, which is fantastic! Er, what else? Well, I love visiting new places – that makes me happy too. I've been to six countries so far, and maybe one day we'll play gigs all over the world – now that would be amazing!

CAROLINE What makes me happy? Well, I really enjoy going to art galleries with my twin sister, Mary. We go to an exhibition together once or twice a month and we always have a wonderful time. Another thing that makes me really happy is working in the garden. I've always loved growing plants and flowers, ever since I was a little girl, and this year I've started a small vegetable garden. We often have friends round for dinner and it's nice to eat things we've grown ourselves. But I don't do the cooking, my husband does all that – it's one of the things that makes him happy. I just do the eating! Hm, what else? Well, seeing our grandchildren, of course. They visit us most weekends and we love every minute we spend with them.

SALLY Sorry I'm late. Did you get my text?
PETER Hi, Sally. Yes, I've ordered you the vegetarian pizza.

S Great, thanks a lot.

ERIC Were you working late?

S No, I go to a drama club on Mondays.

ALICE I didn't know you've joined a drama club.

S I only joined a few weeks ago, but I'm really enjoying it.

P So what do you do exactly?

S Well, first we choose a play, then three months later we put it on at the local theatre. We don't get paid or anything, it's just for fun.

A And what play are you working on at the moment?

S It's a comedy called The Best Years of our Lives. It's very funny. I play a confused old lady who's fed up with her husband.

P Well, that shouldn't be too difficult.

S Hey!

E I'd love to come and see you onstage.

A Yeah, me too.

S Hm, I'm not sure about that. I'd feel very nervous if I knew you were all watching me. Anyway, how's your book club going, Eric?

E Oh, it's going very well, thanks.

P So what do you do in your book club?

E Well, every month someone chooses a book and we all read it. Then we meet up a month later at someone's house and talk about what we thought of the book.

S With lots of food and drink, probably.

E Yes, of course. That's the best bit!

A Do you always read the books?

E Yes ... well, I try to, but I don't always finish them. Sometimes I just read the last page to see what happened in the end.

P Well, my brother runs an animation club, which is quite interesting.

S What's that about?

P It's for people who like making animated films – you know, short cartoons, things you might see on YouTube.

A Are you a member?

P No, but I've been to a couple of meetings. They're great fun. People watch each other's films and then talk about how they made them.

S You're interested in that sort of thing, aren't you, Eric?

E Yes, I do some animation on my laptop. Maybe I should go sometime.

P Sure. I'll let you know when the next meeting is.

E Great, thanks.

A Well, I've just joined a glee club.

P Er, what's a glee club?

A Basically it's a club for people who like singing and dancing. We choose some songs and then learn the words and dance steps, and at the end of the year we're going to put on a performance for charity.

P Oh. Are you any good?

A Well, I'm OK at singing, but I'm not the best dancer in the world. They always put me near the back!

E Go on, give us a song, then.

A No, I couldn't sing here, I'd be too embarrassed. Oh, look, here comes the food.

S That was lucky!

REBECCA I'm really looking forward to meeting Lisa's new boyfriend. She was telling me all about him last weekend. He sounds really nice. They're very late, though.

CHARLIE They'll be here soon, I'm sure.

LISA Ah, here they are. Hi, Rebecca. Hello, Charlie. How are you?

R We're fine, thanks.

L And how's the most beautiful baby in the world?

C Hi, you must be Daniel. I'm Charlie and this is Rebecca.

DANIEL Hi, nice to meet you. You live next door to Lisa, don't you?

C Yes, I do.

D How long have you lived in this village?

C Oh, about three years now. It's a really nice place to live – apart from the noisy neighbours, of course.

L Hey! You're the ones with the baby that cries all night.

R Yeah, that's true. So, Daniel, you're from London originally, aren't you?

D Yes, that's right. I moved out to the country about two years ago.

R So where do you live now?

D In Renfield – you know, about 20 miles away.

C Yes, I know it. And how did you and Lisa meet?

D Well, my brother Alex used to share a flat with Lisa's sister Barbara when they were students.

C Barbara went to Liverpool university, didn't she?

L Yes, she did. Anyway, last month Alex invited me and my sister to his birthday party, which is where I met Daniel.

R And what do you do, Daniel?

D I work for a water sports company. I teach sailing, canoeing, diving – that sort of thing.

C You've been diving, haven't you?

L No, I haven't, actually. It sounds a bit too dangerous to me.

D Oh, it's not really, not if you know what you're doing. And what do you do, Charlie?

C I work for Getaway Holidays, you know, the package tour company. It's a boring office job, really, but the money's OK.

D Oh, right.

L Well, I know something you two have got in common.

D Oh, what's that?

L You both support Manchester United.

C Really? Well, you'll have to come round and watch a match sometime.

D That would be nice, thanks. It was a great match yesterday, wasn't it?

C Yes, it was. They played really well – and three brilliant goals.

R Isn't it amazing? You put two men together, and after five minutes they're already talking about football.

D It's how we communicate.

C Yeah, and it means we never have to talk about our feelings.

R Very funny.

L I'm getting hungry. You haven't ordered any food yet, have you?

R No, we haven't. We were waiting for you. Shall we go and get some menus?

L Yeah, good idea. You two can talk about football while we're gone.

R And keep an eye on Harry.

C Yeah, of course ... Why does that always happen? You don't have any kids, do you?

D No, I don't. One day, maybe.

C Well, I wouldn't hurry if I were you. I haven't had a good night's sleep for six months. What's the matter, little man? Do you want mummy to change you when she gets back? Do you?

PRESENTER Welcome to Cover to Cover.

Today we're talking about Carl Honoré's book In Praise of Slow, which tells us that we're all living too fast and working too hard, and that we should all just slow down. With me are two journalists, Kim Mayhew and Rob Davis – both workaholics, of course. Kim, what did you think of the book?

KIM I thought it was very interesting and quite funny in places too.

P And what about you, Rob?

ROB Well, as soon as I finished it, I decided that I must take more time off work.

K Yes, me too. Honoré says people should only work 35 hours a week.

P And do you think that's a good idea?

K Yes, definitely. Firstly, a lot of people are unemployed these days, as we know, so if everyone worked fewer hours, it might create more jobs.

R But according to Honoré, people are already working less in some countries. For example, Germans spend 15% less time at work now than in 1980.

P Honoré also believes that we ought to spend more time with our families.

K And that's already happening in some countries too, isn't it? It says in the book that some French employees are allowed to begin their weekend at 3 p.m. on Thursday.

R Yes, and Honoré also says people can get their best ideas when they're doing nothing. Albert Einstein was famous for just looking into space at his office at Princeton University. And you can't say he didn't have a few good ideas!

P Absolutely. Kim, what else interested you about the book?

K Well, I was interested to read that Americans work 350 hours a year more than Europeans, but in some American companies, employees can sleep whenever they want. Apparently they have special rooms where people can go and relax if they're tired.

P Really? If we had one here, I'd be in there every afternoon!

R Actually, by law people in the UK are supposed to have a break every four hours, but a lot don't, of course. I was also surprised to read that 20% of British people work more than 60 hours a week. We work the most hours in Europe and it's certainly not making us happier.

K Yes, and lots of people have to take work home because they're under a lot of pressure to meet deadlines. Apparently 60% of British people who were interviewed said they didn't take all their paid holiday. Now that's just crazy!

R And these days of course we're able to continue working when we're travelling. You know, on the train or on a plane or whatever.

K Yes, the Japanese even have a word for it – karoshi – which means 'death from working too hard'.

P On that happy note, we'll leave it there.

[words in pink = weak forms]

MAN How many people do you know who have trouble sleeping at night? For many of us insomnia's part of life, and not being able to get to sleep isn't just annoying, it can also be very dangerous. WOMAN Yes, and with us today is sleep scientist, Doctor Angela Moore. Welcome to the programme.

ANGELA Thank you.

W Doctor Moore, how much of a problem is this, do you think?

A Well, we know tiredness can cause accidents. More than fifty per cent of road accidents in the USA are because of people driving when they're tired.

M That's amazing!

A Yes, it is, isn't it? And when you think thirty per cent of people in the UK can have problems getting to sleep or staying asleep, and ten per cent have serious insomnia – that's a lot of accidents waiting to happen.

W So how much sleep do you think people are getting these days?

A Well, a hundred years ago, before electricity, people went to sleep when it got dark and woke up when it got light. But now in our twenty-four-hour society we sleep about an hour and a half less than we did a century ago.

W Well, I've got two teenagers and no one can say they're sleeping less!

A I'm sure a lot of parents would say that. Actually, scientists now believe teenagers need about an hour more sleep than adults.

W Really?

A Yes, it's because their bodies are still growing. Of course, teenagers don't need as much sleep as babies and small children – they need the most sleep. It's actually older people who generally need the least amount of sleep.

W That's very interesting.

A Yes, and another interesting thing about teenagers is their body clock is different, so they naturally want to go to bed and wake up about two hours later than adults.

W So that's why our children aren't very bright in the morning.

A And because they have to get up early for school, this means they can feel exhausted when they get there. Recently a school in the north of England decided to start lessons at ten rather than nine. With a later starting time, fewer students missed school and the exam results in English and maths were much better than the previous year.

M So do you think all schools should start later?

A Well, that's certainly what a lot of sleep experts think nowadays.

M So why do we need sleep?

A We don't really know. Scientists used to think sleep was the only time you had complete rest, but in fact we use about the same amount of energy when we're asleep as when we're sitting on the sofa relaxing.

M Really? That's very surprising.

A Yes, and our brains are very active for some of the time we're asleep. Apparently that's when our brains can organise information they've collected during the day.

W Well, it's been absolutely fascinating talking to you. Thank you for coming in today.

A My pleasure.

Conversation 1

REBECCA Here you are, Lisa. One sugar.

LISA Thanks, Rebecca. Where's Harry?

R Oh, he's having his afternoon nap.

L Right. You look a bit stressed. Is everything OK?

R Well, Charlie and I are having a difficult time at the moment.

L Oh, dear. What's the matter?

R Harry isn't sleeping very well. He wakes up four or five times every night, which means Charlie and I wake up too, of course. The trouble is, Charlie finds it difficult to get back to sleep, so he's always absolutely shattered the next day.

L Hmm, I can see why you're upset. That must be really difficult.

R Yes, it is. And when Charlie gets home from work he's really exhausted and fed up. So we're arguing a lot more than we usually do.

L Oh, dear. What a shame.

R What should I do, Lisa?

L Well, have you tried talking to him about it?

R Yes, but we just end up having another argument. Then he tells me I'm spending too much money and starts getting really angry at me.

L Oh, how awful!

R But I only buy things we need for the house – and for the baby, of course.

L Perhaps you ought to spend more time together – you know, just the two of you. I think you need at least one evening off a week.

R Yes, you could be right. I'll talk to Charlie when he gets home.

L I'd be happy to babysit for you, if you like.

R Oh, that's very kind of you, Lisa, thanks a lot. Uh oh. Sounds like someone's woken up. Back in a minute.

Conversation 2

ANDY Charlie? Have you got the file for the Bradley account?

CHARLIE Oh, er, yeah, here it is.

A Thanks. Are you OK? You look exhausted.

C Yeah, I'm fine. Just having trouble sleeping these days, that's all.

A I'm sorry to hear that. What's the problem?

C Well, Harry isn't sleeping very well. He wakes us up in the middle of the night then we can't get back to sleep.

A Maybe you should sleep in separate rooms. You know, just till Harry's sleeping better. Then you won't wake up so often.

C Well, it's worth a try, I guess. But it's not just that. Rebecca's spending too much money. Not on herself, but she buys lots of things for the house and the baby that we just don't need.

A Well, why don't you talk to her about it?

C I've tried that, but we just start arguing again, and then she tells me I'm working too hard, which is probably true. But I've heard that some people are going to lose their jobs soon, and I don't want to be one of them.

A Yes, I see what you mean. But I really don't think you're going to lose your job. The company needs you.

C Thanks, Andy, that's good to hear. So what do you think I should do?

A Well, I'd take her out for a really nice meal, you know, just the two of you. That's what Fiona and I do when we're having problems and it's always really helpful.

C Yes, that's a good idea. I might try that. Thanks, Andy.

A No problem. Good luck.

C Cheers. Actually, I'll call her now.

REBECCA Hi.

C Hi honey, it's me. Look, do you think we could get a babysitter this evening?

MEGAN I'm a guide for a company that organises hiking tours in the Rocky Mountains in Canada. I'm actually American, not Canadian, but I've lived in this country for about three years and I really love working here. I've worked in the USA and in Europe and I really enjoyed my time there too, but for me there's nowhere like the Canadian Rockies. A lot of our customers have been hiking before, but when they get back to the hotel they often say it's the best experience they've ever had, which is very satisfying. It's not always an easy job – you have to deal with difficult weather conditions and sometimes it can be quite dangerous. Also I have to put up with a few people who do stupid things. For example, three days ago a guy set off on his own into the mountains without telling anyone. He got lost, then fell and broke his leg. Luckily he had GPS on his phone and we were able to rescue him. Actually, I've just been to Banff to pick him up from the hospital. He can't do any more hiking, of course, but at least he'll have a good story to tell his friends when he gets back home.

CLIVE My wife and I started working in the hotel industry 19 years ago, but this is the first time we've run a hotel in a touristy place like the Lake District. We've had this place since 2008 and I'm a bit fed up with it, to be honest. Running a tourist hotel is quite stressful, particularly when people complain about things. It can be difficult for tourists to get around in the summer because of all the cars, but I don't know why they complain to me about it! Also some people think they can check in and out whenever they want. We have to clean the rooms, of course, so if guests don't check out on time it makes life very difficult for us. Another problem is that one of us always has to be here. For example, my wife's gone to see some friends off at Manchester airport, so I have to stay and look after the hotel. And because we're open all year, it's difficult for us to have a holiday together. We've been away a few times, but each time there was a problem at the hotel so we had to come back early. But this December we're closing the hotel and going to South America – we're really looking forward to it.

PRESENTER Good afternoon and welcome to Take a Break. Today we're taking a look at the rise in voluntourism around the world. I'm here with Alison Armstrong from the travel website voluntours.net. Alison, first of all, can you tell all our listeners what voluntourism is?

ALISON Well, er ... it's when people go to another part of the world on holiday, or on a longer trip, and volunteer to work for free in the place they're visiting.

And at the moment it's one of the fastest-growing types of tourism in the world.

P And what kind of holidays are we talking about?

A They can be almost anything, really. Typical examples are helping to build a school in Asia, planting trees in a national park in Australia, or perhaps working on an organic farm in Spain.

P And what sort of people go on these holidays?

A Oh, all sorts of people. These days a lot of students take a gap-year – that is to say, a year off between school and university – and about twenty-five per cent of people in the UK take a year off work between the ages of seventeen and twenty-five. These young people often want to travel the world and do something useful at the same time.

P But it isn't just young people going on these holidays, is it?

A Oh no, absolutely not. There's a huge increase in the number of volunteers in their thirties and forties, and also a lot of retired people too.

P And why do you think this type of holiday's becoming so popular?

A Well, we get so much information about all the problems in the world these days and a lot of people want to do something practical to help. It's also a great way to get to know the people and culture of the place you're visiting.

P Yes, that's a good point.

A And a lot of older people want more from their holiday than just sitting on a beach or going on guided tours. But it can be difficult to meet local people when you stay in tourist hotels, and eat in tourist restaurants.

P OK, but do the volunteers really help the countries they visit?

A If the holiday's well organised, yes, definitely. Tourists still have to pay to go on these holidays, of course, and some of that money is used to help the local community. The tourists also do useful work while they're there and local people enjoy sharing their culture with people from different countries.

P And what about the tourists? Do they have a good time?

A Yes, most of them do, and a lot of people say that it's the best holiday they've ever had. If you read some of the blogs on our website, you'll find that for many people, voluntourism is a life-changing experience.

P Well, it seems like everybody wins. Perhaps I should take my family on one of these holidays next year. Alison, thanks very much for coming in today.

A Not at all.

REBECCA Mmm, these samosas are nice.

Try one.

ELLA Mmm, yeah, they're delicious.

CHARLIE So, are you two looking forward to your trip to India?

MIKE Yeah, we can't wait.

R Where are you flying to?

M New Delhi. It was the cheapest flight we could get.

E You've been to Delhi, haven't you?

R Yes, we went there about 18 months ago.

M Well, maybe you can give us some tips.

C Sure. What do you want to know?

E Well, firstly, do you know any good places to stay?

C Um, well, there are lots of good hotels in Connaught Place – that's right in the centre of New Delhi.

R Yes, the place we stayed in is called The Raj Hotel. It's not too expensive and very comfortable. You can book rooms online.

M Great, thanks. We'll check it out. And what's the best way to get around?

R In Delhi it's probably best to use rickshaws. They're quicker than taxis, and quite cheap.

E OK.

C And to travel to other cities I'd recommend the trains. They're a lot safer than the buses, especially at night.

E Hmm, that's good to know. So what should we go and see – are there any good museums?

R Oh no, don't bother going to the museums. They're not that interesting and there are much better things to see in Delhi.

C Yeah, but you should definitely see the Red Fort in Old Delhi. It was built in the 17th century and it's absolutely huge.

M Right, the Red Fort in Old Delhi. What else is worth visiting?

R Well, there's the Jami Masjid, of course. That's well worth seeing. It's the biggest mosque in India and it's only a few minutes from the Red Fort.

E OK, that sounds good.

C And there's a much older fort about half an hour from the centre.

R Yes, but it isn't really worth visiting, I don't think.

M OK. And what about places outside Delhi?

C Well, it's probably already on your list, but you really must go to Agra to see the Taj Mahal. It's only three hours away by train – you can do it in a day if you start early.

E Yes, we're planning to go there. And, er, what about the food? Do you know any good places to eat in Delhi?

C Yes, there are lots of really good restaurants in Connaught Place. Oh, what was the name of that place we used to go to?
R Oh, yes, I know the place you mean ... I think it's called The Shanti.

C Yes, that's right. It's only a few minutes from the Raj Hotel and the food there was amazing!

M Thanks, that's really useful. Er, have you got any other tips?

R Well, only drink bottled water, of course. And don't drink anything with ice in it. Ice is usually made with tap water, which isn't very safe.

E Yes, I've heard that before.

C And I wouldn't eat any salads because they're often washed in tap water too.

M Yes, that sounds like good advice.

R All this talk of India is making me want to come with you.

C Yeah, me too. Perhaps we can ask Lisa and Daniel to babysit for a month!

E Oh look, here comes our food.

PAUL What are you working on at the moment, Josie?

JOSIE I've been making a TV series called Modern Adventurers.

P That sounds interesting.

J Yes, it's fascinating. The first episode is about a man called Ed Stafford, who became the first person to walk the length of the River Amazon in 2010.

P Wow, that sounds like hard work. How long did it take him?

J About two-and-a-half years.

P You're joking! Why didn't he go by boat?

J Very funny. But that's the point of the series. Why do some people go on these crazy adventures? Just to be the first person to do something?

P Good question. So did this guy – what was his name again?

J Ed Stafford.

P Right. So did Ed Stafford walk the Amazon on his own?

J No, he set off with a friend called Luke Collyer. They'd planned to do the whole walk together, but Luke went home after 68 days.

P I'm not surprised. I wouldn't last 68 minutes!

J No, me neither. Anyway, a Peruvian guide called Cho joined the expedition after Luke had gone back to the UK. Cho had planned to walk with Ed for only five days, but ended up staying with him until the end.

P And what did they eat?

J They mainly lived on rice and beans, which they bought in villages and carried with them. But they also went to parts of the forest that nobody had ever been to before. So they sometimes ran out of food and had to eat whatever they could find.

P So did they just disappear into the jungle for two-and-a-half years?

J No, not really. Every day Ed wrote his blog or uploaded a video of his journey onto his website, and of course he also read messages that people had sent him.

P So how far did he walk in total?

J Well, the River Amazon is about 4,000 miles long, but Ed calculated that he'd walked about 6,000 miles.

P I hope he took some insect repellent.

J Well, if he did, he didn't take enough. He says that during the trip he got 200,000 mosquito and ant bites.

P Really? That's amazing!

J Yes, and he also got 600 wasp stings and 12 scorpion stings.

P Ouch! So what did he do when he'd finished the journey?

J He flew back to England, had a rest, and then a few weeks later he ran four marathons in 27 hours!

P Wow! This guy makes me feel exhausted just hearing about him.

J Well, if you think he's extreme, the second programme is about another modern adventurer called Martin Strel. He was the first person to ...

PRESENTER ... and with the weekend just around the corner, I have with me /ɪ/ in the studio Gabrielle Wallace, from the /ɪ/ excellent website londonfornothing.com, to tell us how to /w/ enjoy London for free.

GABRIELLE Hi there.

P Welcome to the programme, Gabrielle. To /w/ a lot of people, London appears to be /ɪ/ a very /ɪ/ expensive city to visit.

G Well, it can be, but there /ɪ/ are /ɪ/ actually /ɪ/ a lot of things you can do /w/ in the city for free.

P Such as?

G Well, of course you don't have to pay to visit many /ɪ/ of London's museums or /ɪ/ art galleries, such as the British Museum or the National Gallery.

P Right.

G And if you'd prefer to wander /ɪ/ around the city /ɪ/ on your /ɪ/ own, you can download free walking tours onto your phone. My favourite is the tour /ɪ/ of the /ɪ/ area /ɪ/ around London Bridge, which is really /ɪ/ interesting. And all the tours come with a free downloadable map so you don't get lost.

P OK. And is there /ɪ/ anywhere you can hear some free music?

G Yes, there /ɪ/ is, actually. For /ɪ/ example, there's free jazz at the National Theatre six days a week, and if you go to the Royal Opera House at lunchtime on Mondays, you can enjoy some free /ɪ/ opera.

P Really? I didn't know that.

G Yes, and you can also go /w/ and see /ɪ/ a radio /w/ or TV programme being recorded. I've seen a few TV comedies and chat shows being made, and they're /ɪ/ always great fun – and the /ɪ/ audience always gets in for free.

P And how do you get tickets?

G You normally have to /w/ apply /ɪ/ online. There /ɪ/ are various websites that specialise in free tickets.

P Right. And what about more /ɪ/ unusual days out?
G Well, you can visit the Houses of Parliament, of course. Anyone can queue /w/ up and go /w/ in for free, and then you can watch a live debate from the public gallery.

P Hm, I'm sure that would be very /ɪ/ interesting.

G Yes, it can be, and it's worth going just to go /w/ inside the building, which is very /ɪ/ impressive, of course. But if you want to go /w/ on an official tour, you have to pay /ɪ/ unfortunately.

P Right.

G And you can also go /w/ and watch a trial at the /ɪ/ Old Bailey, which is the biggest criminal court in the country. If you get a good case, it can be /ɪ/ absolutely fascinating. But don't forget to take some ID with you.

P And what about if you have to /w/ entertain children for the /ɪ/ afternoon?

G Well, why not take them to /w/ a city farm? There /ɪ/ are /ɪ/ about thirteen in the city, and most of them are free. And at all of these places, children are /ɪ/ allowed to feed the /ɪ/ animals, play with the rabbits, or whatever.

P Gabrielle, thank you for coming in to see /ɪ/ us today. For free, obviously.

G Obviously!

COMMENTATOR And he's just outside the box. He shoots! It's just wide. And there goes the whistle for half time here at Old Trafford ...

CHARLIE That'll be Rebecca and Lisa.

DANIEL Just in time for the second half.

C Hi, honey. We're watching the football.

LISA Hello, you two. Good match?

D Yeah, United are winning two-one.

REBECCA Oh, that's wonderful news. I'm pleased you haven't wasted your afternoon.

C Rebecca isn't very keen on football.

R Well, I just think that most football fans are really rude and aggressive.

C Well, some of them can be quite aggressive at times, I agree, but it's not as bad as it used to be when I was a boy. There was a lot more football violence then.

D Yeah, I agree. On the whole, most fans just want to see a good game and have fun.

C It's not much fun when your team loses, though, is it?

D Yeah, that's true.

L Well, it's the players I have a problem with, not the fans. I can't believe how much they get paid. Some of them get over £200,000 a week, just for kicking a ball around. It's ridiculous.

D Well, I agree that footballers tend to earn rather a lot of money, but you have to remember that football is part of the entertainment industry. Hundreds of millions of people are watching this match all around the world. That's why footballers get paid so much, because so many people want to see them play.

C Yeah, singers and film stars get paid millions every year too, but you don't hear people complaining about that.

R Well, I wouldn't mind so much if they behaved themselves. But every week you read stories about famous footballers getting into fights in nightclubs or um crashing their Porsche into a tree and things like that. That's not very sensible behaviour, is it?

C I agree. But generally speaking, most footballers are just normal people and never get into any trouble. It's only a few who are a bit crazy.

L Well, maybe. But I don't understand why men take football so seriously. Who wants to spend their weekends watching a group of millionaires kicking a ball around? I mean, it's only a game!

D Well, perhaps some people can take it a bit too seriously. But what was it someone once said? "Football isn't a matter of life and death – it's much more important than that."

R Very funny. Anyway, I just don't want Harry growing up and becoming obsessed with football, like you two are.

C Too late. Look what Daniel's bought Harry.

L Daniel!

D Well, you have to get them when they're young. Otherwise he might end up supporting Manchester City!

R Oh, I give up!

L Anyway, are you coming next door to help me with the washing machine? It still doesn't work.

D I'd love to, but the second half is just about to start.

R Come on. Let's leave the boys in peace.

L Yeah, it's hard having three children to look after, isn't it?

TIM OK, let's start with the first place we saw. What did you think of the terraced house in Bishopston?

JO Yeah, I thought it was nice. It seemed slightly bigger than where we live now.

T No, I think it's the same size as our house. It just seemed bigger because it didn't have any furniture in it.

J Yes, you're probably right. I thought the back garden was lovely, and it had a new kitchen.

T Yes, I liked the kitchen too. And it's the least expensive place we've seen so far.

J Yes, that's true.

T Mm. OK, so what about the detached house in Redland?

J Well, it's one of the oldest houses we've looked at, and I like old houses, they've got a lot of character. It's got more space than the other two places.

T Yeah, and it's got a garage, which is useful. But it's quite a long way from the station, which might be a problem.

J Yes, you could be right. And it's a little further away from the city centre than we wanted to be.

T Mm. OK. And what did you think of the flat in Hotwells?

J Well, it's not as big as the other two places.

T Yes, that's true. But it is a flat, not a house. Actually, it was a lot more spacious than I'd expected.

J Yes, it was, wasn't it? I think that's because of those enormous windows.

T Yes, I suppose so. It was different from anything else we've seen.

J And it had the most amazing view. You know, all the way down the river.

T Yes, that was fantastic, wasn't it?

J But it's got the worst kitchen I've ever seen. The cupboards were falling off the wall! And it hasn't got a garden.

T So that's a no, then.

J Yes, I think so. It's just not right for us.

T OK. So what about the other two places? Do you want to go and see either of them again?

J Well, the house in Redland was nice, but the back garden was far smaller than I'd expected, you know, for a detached house. It's as small as the one we've got now.

T And it was much noisier than the other two. It's on a very busy road.

J Yes, that's true.

T That might be a problem, especially at night.

J Right. So you thought the first place we saw was better?

- T You mean the house in Bishopston? Yes, I think so. It's very similar to where we live now, so all our furniture will fit in OK.
- J And it's a bit less expensive than the Redland house.
- T OK, let's go back and see it again tomorrow. Then we can decide.
- J Right. I'll give the estate agent a ring. Have you got their number?

- TIM Right, what's next?
- JO What about this old laptop?
- T Actually, I'm going to give it to my brother. He says it'll be fine for his kids to use. He's picking it up tomorrow evening after work.
- J Yeah, OK.
- T So that goes in ...
- J ... the 'give away' pile, with the books.
- T And what about that old printer?
- J Oh, I think we should throw that out. It doesn't work any more so we can't really give it away.
- T Right. So which pile?
- J Put it next to that old TV and the videos.
- T And what about these old letters? I don't know why you've kept them. You'll never read them again.
- J Hmm ... Yes, you're probably right. OK, I'll throw those away.
- T Right.
- J And what shall we do with all these old photos?
- T Oh, I'm in the middle of going through those.
- J But we never look at them any more.
- T I know, but that's because they're not in order or anything. I'm going to sort out the rest of them at the weekend. Then we can get rid of the ones we don't want.
- J OK, so we're keeping these for now.
- T Yes. So ... that pile.
- J Yes, the one with the suitcase and the lamp. And can we throw out your old CDs?
- T Sorry, I don't really want to get rid of those.
- J But you'll never listen to them again.

- You only listen to music on your MP3 player these days.
- T Yeah, but I want to copy the CDs onto the laptop. Then I can get rid of them.
- J Fine, put them in the 'keep' pile. You really don't like throwing things away, do you?
- T That's not true. I'm definitely going to get rid of this awful jumper. It's really ugly.
- J Er, that was a birthday present from my mother.
- T Oh, was it? Er, OK. I should probably keep it, then.
- J Not if you're not going to wear it.
- T OK, I'll put it on the 'give away' pile. We can take it to a charity shop.
- J And what about your old tennis racket?
- T Actually, I'm going to give that to Julia next door. She's going to start taking tennis lessons.
- J You're joking! That old thing? It's twenty years old! It's going to break the first time she uses it.
- T Oh, it's fine for a nine-year-old.
- J Right, what's next? What about these curtains?

ASHLEY My birthday's on um January 1st, you know, New Year's Day. So it's ... I mean, it's always a bit strange because people kind of forget about my birthday. It's kind of like - Happy New Year! - oh, and er by the way, happy birthday, Ashley! The best ... er my most memorable birthday was in 2000, you know, the beginning of the new millennium. We all ... er me and some friends went to London to watch the fireworks by the river. Apparently there were like three million people there that evening! The atmosphere was absolutely brilliant and it sort of felt as if three million people had all come to my birthday party!

JEAN Well er my most memorable birthday was last year because I was ... um I was a hundred years old! You see, my husband died um 13 years ago, but er you know life goes on, doesn't it? And it was ... um I had a really lovely day. My two daughters organised a party for me and um I didn't have to do a thing. All my family were there, you see, including my four grandchildren and my um seven great-grandchildren. There weren't ... they didn't put 100 candles on the cake, though, it wasn't big enough for that! And er I got lots of lovely birthday cards, including um one from the Queen with a special birthday message inside, which was wonderful.

RUBY I'm er ... I'm a twin, you see, and so every birthday is my sister Daisy's birthday too. I never ... um I didn't enjoy birthdays very much when I was a kid because you know I always had to like share them with my sister. And we ... um we only had one cake between the two of us! After we grew up Daisy moved to Ireland so we like stopped having birthday parties together. And I really missed her - I mean, it just wasn't the same. Anyway, last year it was our 30th so Daisy and I had an old-fashioned birthday party at our parents' house, you know, with balloons and er party games and um ice cream and stuff. And it ... um it was the best birthday party I've ever had! And er we both had our own birthday cakes with our names on, which was fantastic!

STUART Well, I don't like ... er I hate getting older, so I just sort of pretend that it's a normal day. People send me ... um I still get a lot of birthday cards, which is kind of annoying. But the best ... er my most memorable birthday must be my 40th when my brother organised a surprise party for me. I mean, it was nice of him, I suppose, but um I wasn't very happy about it at the time. He had ... um he'd invited some of his friends along, including um a woman called Patricia, who I thought was you know absolutely gorgeous. Anyway, to cut a long story short, Patricia and I spent the whole evening talking and um we started going out together soon afterwards. So er birthdays can be good sometimes, I suppose!

- K I ... I can't remember what they're called, but you use them to mend your clothes. Um, they're made of metal and they've got a hole in the end.
- L Oh, you mean needles.
- K Yes, that's right, needles.
- L They're over there, near the escalator. You'll find all sorts of different types of cotton there too.
- K Oh yes, I can see them. Thanks a lot.
- L Can I help you with anything else?
- K Um, yes, just one more thing. Um ... I'm sorry, I don't know the word for them. Er, you wear them when it's cold outside.
- L Do you mean gloves, you know, you wear them on your hands?
- K No, you wear them on your ears. They look like headphones.
- L Oh, you mean ear muffs. They're on the ground floor, in the accessories department.
- K Right. Um, what are they called again?
- L Ear muffs.
- K OK, well, thank you very much for all your help.
- L No problem. Have a nice day.
- K You too.

- ADAM Hello?
- LILY Hi, Adam.
- A Hi, Lily. How are things?
- L Oh, um not too bad, I suppose. But now the kids are at school, I've been wondering what to do with my time. I get bored being at home all day on my own.
- A So, er what choices do you have?
- L Well, I could go back to teaching, but I'm thinking of doing another degree instead.
- A Really? Wow!
- L Well, if I start teaching again, I'll be exhausted after a year. And I don't know if I want to work in a school all day and then look after three children when I get home.
- A What will you study if you do another degree?
- L I'd like to do fashion design. You know I've always been interested in that kind of thing. I've talked to a few colleges and I don't think it'll be a problem getting in.
- A Well, that's good. But you might not get in this year if you don't apply soon. It's already June.
- L Yes, I know.
- A What does Jack think?
- L Well, he's worried about the money side of things. You know how expensive university fees are nowadays. But unless I do it soon, I'll be too old.
- A Well, have you asked Mum and Dad? They might lend you some money.
- L Yes, that's a good idea. I'll ask them before they go on holiday.
- A Anyway, I don't think you should worry about the money. I think you should do what will make you happy.
- L Yes, you're probably right. As soon as I make up my mind, I'll let you know. So, how are things with you?
- A Yeah, good thanks. Actually, I've just been offered a new job.
- L Really? Where?
- A Beijing.
- L Really? Wow, that's fantastic news! What's the job?
- A The same as I'm doing now, sales manager. They want me to set up a new sales team there.
- L So, are you going to take it?
- A I don't know. I'm not sure I want to live on the other side of the world.
- L Oh, I'm sure you'll enjoy it when you get there.
- A Maybe. I've got a meeting with my boss on Monday about it. I'll make a decision after I talk to him.
- L Well, I think you should take the job. You might never get this kind of opportunity again.
- A But I can't speak a word of Chinese.

- L Well, why don't you do an intensive course before you go? I'm sure the company would pay for it.
- A Yes, that's not a bad idea.
- L Have you talked to Mum and Dad about this?
- A Er, no, not yet.
- L Well, don't worry. I won't say anything until you decide what to do. I know they'll want you to go, though.
- A Yes, probably. Anyway, I'll call you when I know what I'm doing. So, how's Billy getting on at his new school?

EDWARD Charlotte, are you very superstitious?

CHARLOTTE No, not really. Why do you ask?

E I'm reading a fascinating book called The History of Superstitions. Did you know that in Britain, people think that seeing a black cat is good luck, but in nearly every other country in the world it's bad luck?

C That's quite strange, isn't it?
E Yes, I thought so too. And do you know why breaking a mirror is seven years' bad luck?

C No, why?
E Well um the Romans believed that life started again every seven years. If a mirror broke, then people thought the last person who looked at it was very ill and would continue to be ill for the next seven years of their life – you know, until they got a 'new life'.

C OK then – my uncle always carries a rabbit's foot around with him. Why would a rabbit's foot be lucky?

E Hang on, lucky charms are here somewhere – yes, here it is – er, rabbits were believed to help families grow their crops because they lived in the fields and had lots of babies. So they became a sign of fertility and good luck.

C Hmm. Not so lucky for the rabbit, though.

E Yeah, true. So, what superstitions do you believe in?

C Well, let me think ... Oh, I touch wood – but everyone does that, don't they?

E Ah, that's an interesting one. According to this book, thousands of years ago, people used to believe that good spirits lived in the trees and that touching wood called on these spirits and protected people from danger.

C That's interesting. I also do that thing with salt, you know, throw it over my shoulder. I've no idea why, though.

E Ah, that's in here too ... Yes, here it is. Apparently hundreds of years ago salt used to be very expensive and valuable, and was mainly used as a medicine, so spilling it was a really bad thing to do. You throw it over your left shoulder – or the right one if you live in Argentina or Italy – into the faces of the evil spirits behind you, to stop them hurting you.

C Hmm, sounds like an interesting book.

E Yes, it is. You can borrow it when I've finished, if you like.

C Yes, please. Thanks a lot.

IAN Right, are we ready to start? OK, as you know, we're planning to hold a festival in the summer to celebrate the 200th anniversary of our village. Now, we've never done anything like this before, so I'm happy to hear everyone's opinions and suggestions.

REBECCA Perhaps the first thing to discuss is what sort of entertainment we want.

LISA Yes, that seems a good place to start.

DUNCAN May I make a suggestion?

I Yes, of course, Duncan.

D How about having some live music? We could put up a stage on the village green for the weekend.

L Yes, that sounds like a good idea. Who shall we get to play?

R We could hire some professional musicians.

I I'm not sure about that. For one thing, they could be quite expensive.

D What about charging people five pounds each to get into the festival? That would raise quite a lot of money.

R Sorry, I don't think we should do that. I think the festival should be free for everyone.

L Yes, I agree. A lot of people won't come if they have to pay.

D Well, we could ask bands to play for free. There are lots of local bands who'd love to play at a festival, I'm sure.

R Yes, we could put an ad in the local paper and on the website.

I Well, it's definitely worth a try. But we'll still need to raise some money to pay for the stage and the lights, that sort of thing.

L I've got an idea! Let's have a festival raffle and ask people to buy raffle tickets when they come in. Then we can use the money we make to pay for the festival.

D Yes, that's not a bad idea.

R Can I make a point here?

I Of course.

R If we have a raffle, we'll need to buy prizes. So we might not make enough money to pay for the festival.

D Well, why don't we ask local businesses to donate the prizes for free? It would be good advertising for them.

I Yes, that could work. OK, what else could we do?

L Have you thought of asking the school to put on a musical in the daytime?

R That's a brilliant idea! Parents would love that.

I OK. I'll talk to the head teacher this week. And what about food and drink?

D Why don't we make all the food ourselves?

L I'm not sure that's a good idea. I think people in the village will want to enjoy the festival, not make sandwiches all day.

I Well, we can just have stalls selling burgers, chips, sandwiches and stuff – every festival has those.

D Er, can I just say something here?

I Sure, go ahead.

D As it's a village festival, I think we need to involve the people who live in the village in the festival a bit more.

I OK. So how can we do that?

D I suggest we have some competitions, you know, the best cake, the biggest vegetables, the most beautiful pet, that kind of thing. People always love those.

I Yes, that's a great idea! OK, let's just go over what we've got so far.

JUDY I run a company that makes personalised gifts. Basically people send us their photos online and we put them on posters, T-shirts, calendars, mouse mats, that kind of thing. All of our customers order online. If the internet didn't exist, I wouldn't have a business. The most important part of the company is our website because that's how everyone places their order. We'd lose a lot of customers if our website crashed. It's a very cheap business to run, but one thing I don't like about it is that I never talk to customers any more, it's all just online order forms and emails. I'd like to talk to a real customer again, you know, face-to-face.

WESLEY I've owned this café for 12 years and I'd say that the internet is essential for my business. There's an art college across the road and the students come in here all the time, you know, just to have a coffee and check their email or whatever. If we didn't have WiFi, this place would be empty. They don't even need a password to log on. But it does mean people talk less than they used to. Sometimes I look round and nobody's talking to each other, they're all online in their own little worlds. If they turned off their computers, they might make some new friends. But it also means they stay longer and spend more money, so I can't complain, I suppose.

FRANK I'm the sales manager for a sports equipment company and like most people I couldn't live without the internet – or my laptop. I've got all my personal stuff on there and a lot of information about the company too. If I lost my laptop, I'd probably lose my job! One thing that's changed because of the internet is that a lot of my meetings are online nowadays. In some ways they're great, because they save a lot of time. But of course this means I hardly ever travel for work any more. I used to enjoy visiting other parts of the world and staying in nice hotels. If we didn't have so many online meetings, I could get out of the office more often.

GARY Here are your drinks. We were lucky to get a table, weren't we?

JENNY Yes, it's always quite busy in here after work.

SIMON Cheers.

G&J Cheers.

G So how was the meeting?

J Oh, it was quite boring, actually. Marcus went on about sales figures and cutting costs and stuff like that.

G Right. Did you go to the meeting, Simon?

J Oh, don't worry about him, he's probably updating his Facebook page. Saying something fascinating like 'in pub with people from work' or whatever.

S Just because I'm online, it doesn't mean I can't hear you.

G I can see why they don't allow people to go on Facebook in the office.

J Yeah, what did Marcus call it? 'Social not-working.'

G So how often do you go on Facebook, Simon?

S Oh, I don't know. About ten or fifteen times a day, probably.

G Really?

S Yeah. All of my friends are on it and I like to know what's happening to them.

G Are you on Facebook, Jenny?

J Yes, but I don't check it very often any more. I used to do it all the time – it's very addictive. But I was spending hours and hours on it and it wasn't as much fun as it used to be. And in the end, you're still just sitting on your own in front of a computer screen.

G Yeah, I see what you mean.

J Actually, I thought it was damaging my friendships. I always knew what my friends were doing, so I never phoned them up for a chat or arranged to meet up with them. There didn't seem to be a reason to. Now I only check it once a week and try to meet up with friends face-to-face more often.

S So how many friends do you have?

J Do you mean real friends or Facebook friends?

S Er, Facebook friends.

J Oh, I don't know. About a hundred, I think.

S Is that all? I've got ... um, let's see ... seven hundred and sixty-two. And even my sister's rabbit's got over two hundred friends.

G Which means your sister's rabbit is twice as popular as Jenny.

S Exactly. Computers never lie.

J Very funny.

S What about you, Gary? Are you on Facebook?

G No, I'm not, but I'm on Twitter.

J Oh, right. Do you tweet a lot?

G No, but I like reading tweets from film stars and footballers and people like that.

S And what about YouTube?

J Yeah, I love YouTube. I can spend hours watching videos of baby animals.

S Yeah, women love that sort of thing. My favourite YouTube videos are the ones of people having hilarious accidents.

G Well, my wife posts videos of the children so our relatives can watch them.

S Yeah, that's the wonderful thing about the internet. You can use it to share videos of your kids ...

J ... or to tell your Facebook friends it's your turn to buy the drinks?

S What? Oh, yeah, OK then. Same again?

CHARLIE Hello, Tanya. Have you got a minute?

TANYA Hello, Charlie. Yes, of course. Take a seat.

C Thanks.

T Right. How can I help?

C I just wanted to talk about next week's meeting with Sunspot Hotels. As you know, they're very important clients and we need everything to go perfectly.

T Yes, absolutely. Right. Jack and Melissa Johnson from Sunspot are flying over from the States on Monday.

C Can you tell me when they're arriving?

T They're arriving in London from New York at ... let's see ... 15.23.

C Good. Do you know whether we've booked them a hotel room?

T Yes, we have. Jenny's booked them into the Holiday Inn near the airport.

C Fine. And the meeting's on Tuesday morning, is that correct?

T Yes, it is.

C Could you tell me what time it starts?

T It starts at 10 and should finish about 12.30. Then you and I are taking them for lunch at the Rose and Crown. You know, that lovely old pub by the river.

C That's a good choice. And what about all the other people attending the meeting?

T Jenny emailed everyone about it last week.

C I think it's important that Barry Mackenzie should be there. He knows more about the American market than anyone else. Have you any idea if he's been invited?

T Er, I'm not sure.

C Well, perhaps you could check.

T Yes, I will.

C Do you think we should email everyone again? You know, just to remind everyone.

T OK, I'll do that myself this afternoon.

C Great. OK, perhaps we should talk about our presentation. Do you want to talk about the new products, or shall I?

Conversation 2

CHARLIE Hi, darling, I'm home.

REBECCA Hello. Good day at work?

C Yes, not bad, thanks. Mm, that smells good.

R Don't get excited. It's for Harry, not for you. You haven't forgotten about his first birthday party on Saturday, have you?

- C No, of course not. What time does it start?
- R At 3 o'clock, but some people have said they'll be a bit late.
- C Right. Are your parents coming?
- R Yes, of course they are. They wouldn't miss their grandson's first birthday!
- C When are they arriving?
- R On Friday. It's a long way to come and they wanted to make a weekend of it.
- C Right. They're not staying here, are they?
- R No, we thought it would be easier if they didn't.
- C Have we booked them a hotel room?
- R Yes, I did it this afternoon.
- C OK. So, how many people are coming?
- R Er, I'm not sure yet. Some people haven't replied.
- C Should we email everyone again?
- R Yeah, good idea.
- C What about your uncle Bob?
- R What about him?
- C Has he been invited?
- R Of course. I know you don't get on with him, but he's family. Just try not to get into an argument with him this time.
- C I will. Perhaps you can ask him not to break my TV this time too.
- R That was an accident. Anyway, come and see what I've got Harry for his birthday.

- TOM I'm trying to download an attachment, but my laptop keeps crashing. Do you think it's got a virus?

- VAL Hi, James.
- JAMES Hello, Val. Hi, Pete. Come in.
- PETE Hi.
- V Are you ready to go?
- J Er, not quite. Do you want a coffee? I've just put the kettle on.
- V Yes, sure. You get ready, we'll make it.
- J OK. Oh, there's a bit of pasta left if you're hungry.
- V Er, no thanks, we've just eaten. Well, I've found some coffee, but there's no sugar.
- P There's some in that jar by the toaster.
- V Oh yes.
- P Hm. There's enough milk for two cups, but not enough for three, I don't think.
- V It's OK, I'll have it black.
- J And can someone feed the cat? There are plenty of tins of cat food in the cupboard. He has one small tin.
- V Sure. Here you go, kitty. James, where do you put your recycling?
- J Er, in the bin.
- V What, the rubbish bin?
- J Yes, that green one over there.
- V You should recycle things like tin cans. Too much rubbish is just thrown away when a lot of it could be made into something useful.
- J Yeah, you're probably right. I never recycle anything. I'm sorry to say.
- P Well, you're not the only one. Hardly any people in our building recycle stuff. Did you know that Germany recycles over 70% of its rubbish, but in the UK it's still only about 40%?
- J Hm, that's not much, is it?
- V No, it isn't. And there aren't enough places to recycle in this city. And did you know that on average, every person in the UK throws away seven times their own body weight in rubbish every year?
- J Really? Wow!
- V Well, it's never too late to start. There's a lot of stuff in your bin that could be recycled. Look, there's loads of paper and several plastic bottles. The bottles can be made into clothes and the paper is used to make toilet paper. And all these empty cat food tins can be recycled and the metal used for making fridge parts.
- J You seem to know a lot about all this.
- P Well, there's plenty of information on the internet. But it takes time to change people's habits. People are naturally lazy, I think.

- V Yes, too many people just don't make the effort. But the government should do more too. In Germany people have to recycle their rubbish – it's the law. They should do that here too, I think.
- J Yes, I suppose you're right. I've got a few friends who recycle things like you do, but most people I know just throw everything away. But in future I'll recycle what I can. Come on, we're late.
- P Let me get my coat. Won't be a second. We made a little progress there, I think.
- V Yes, I think so. But I think he should recycle that coat. It looks like his cat sleeps on it!

BEVERLY A British tourist has been attacked by a shark off the coast of Texas, making it the eighth shark attack in America this year. We now go to /w/ over live to /w/ Andrew /w/ Evans for a special report. Andrew, I understand that the man didn't do anything unusual to cause this attack.

ANDREW Yes, that's right, Beverly. Mark Skipper, a 49-year-old man from Oxford, was just swimming on his own quite close to the beach when he was attacked.

- B How badly was he hurt?
- A Well, we don't have much information yet, but we know that his leg was bitten quite badly. He was immediately taken to hospital and we're waiting to hear how he's doing.
- B So /w/ Andrew, why /j/ are the sharks coming in so close?
- A Well, Ryan Williamson, who works for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, believes that the /j/ increase in shark attacks is because of what they call dead zones. These are /r/ areas in the /j/ ocean where there /r/ isn't enough oxygen, so /w/ all the fish die.
- B So there /r/ aren't any fish for the sharks to /w/ eat.
- A Exactly. Many /j/ of these dead zones are /r/ actually quite close to the coast, so the sharks come in closer /r/ and closer looking for food.

- B So what turns an area /r/ of the /j/ ocean into /w/ a dead zone? I'm afraid it's us, Beverly, people. There's too much pollution in the sea /j/ and it's killing all the fish. And these dead zones cover fairly large areas – the one we're talking about here, for /r/ example, covers about 5,800 square miles. And are these dead zones only /j/ around the US coast?
- A No, they're not. According to the United Nations, there /r/ are /r/ over four hundred dead zones around the world – that's nearly three times as many /j/ as there were five years ago.
- B So /w/ is the wildlife department in Texas now saying that people shouldn't go swimming?
- A No, they /r/ aren't telling people to stay /j/ out of the water, but they've advised holidaymakers not to go swimming early /j/ in the morning or /r/ in the /j/ evening, because those are the times when sharks feed.
- B Thank you, Andrew /w/ Evans, for that report.

REBECCA So, how can I help?

- LISA Well, Daniel's asked me to go on a hiking holiday in the Lake District with him.
- R Oh, right. That sounds fun.
- L Er, yes, maybe. Anyway, he wanted me to look at his old tent to see if it's still OK.
- R Well, I wouldn't like to be on top of a mountain in that. If I were you, I'd buy a new tent.
- L Yes, maybe you're right. You and Charlie have been hiking a few times, haven't you?
- R Yes, we used to go quite a lot before Harry was born.
- L Well, could you give me some advice? I've never been hiking before and I'm a bit nervous about it.
- R Yes, of course. Well, firstly, make sure you take plenty of warm clothes. It can get really cold at night in a tent.
- L OK.
- R And it's a good idea to take some waterproof clothing in case it rains. Which it probably will – this is England, after all.
- L Yes, Daniel's going to lend me his waterproof jacket. And I've already got a rucksack, a camping stove and a warm sleeping bag.
- R Great! And make sure you wear comfortable walking boots. Don't wear new boots or else you'll get blisters on your feet.
- L Yes, I've got some old boots that are very comfortable.

- R OK, that's good.
- L And what about food? What should we take?
- R Well, dried food and pasta is good because it isn't very heavy to carry. You can camp by a river and use the water to cook with.
- L OK. That's really useful, thanks. What else do you think we should take with us?
- R Well, you'd better take a torch in case you have to walk in the dark. And you'll need it when you're camping too, of course. And take some spare batteries for your torch and your camera.
- L That's a good idea. I hadn't thought of that.
- R And don't forget to take a map. It's easy to get lost in the mountains, particularly in bad weather.
- L Right. And what should we do if we get lost?
- R Well, you can try to use the GPS on your phone, but you can't always get reception, so it's worth taking a compass, just in case. And whatever you do, don't lose sight of each other. If the weather is bad, you and Daniel must stay together at all times.

- L Right, thanks. That's really helpful.
- R Oh, and be careful when you're crossing rivers. They can be more dangerous than they look.
- L Yes, we will. Do you think it's a good idea to tell someone where we're going?
- R Yes, definitely. And when you expect to get back. Then, if you're not back on time, someone can come and look for you.
- L Right. That sounds like good advice.
- R Oh, and one more thing.
- L What's that?
- R Watch out for wolves. There are quite a few in the Lake District, and you don't want one of those coming into your tent at night.
- L Wolves? Are you serious?
- R No, don't worry, I'm only joking. The most dangerous thing in the mountains is always the weather.
- L And Daniel's cooking, probably.
- R Right, I'd better go and pick up Harry from his grandparents. See you later.
- L Thanks, Rebecca. See you!
- R Bye!

MOIRA DIXON Hello, I'm Moira Dixon, and here are today's main news stories.

World leaders have met to discuss the global economy at the World Trade Summit in Hamburg. EU Finance Ministers have asked for more help from the World Bank for countries that are having problems paying off their debts. Outside the conference hall, thousands of people have taken part in a demonstration to protest against the World Bank's economic policies. The demonstration began peacefully, but soon turned violent as protesters tried to enter the conference hall and were stopped by police. At least forty people have been arrested and six police officers have been taken to hospital.

A new report on the environment has just been published. The report shows that the UK has failed to meet its targets to reduce CO₂ emissions. However, environment minister Jack Clarke told reporters that some progress has been made.

JACK CLARKE We haven't met our targets yet, that's true, but we've made good progress. The amount of CO₂ produced by the UK has already been reduced by 2.7% in the last three years, which will help reduce global warming. But we could – and we should – do better, and I'm sure that we will.

MD Over 1,500 ancient gold and silver objects have been discovered by a retired teacher in Wales. 72-year-old Gareth Jones found the treasure five days ago while he was walking around his brother-in-law's farm with a metal detector. Experts say the find, which includes coins, swords and items of jewellery, dates back to the 7th century and could be worth over £10 million. One of the UK's leading archaeologists, Professor Geoffrey Baxter, says that the government needs to act fast to make sure the treasure stays in public hands.

GEOFFREY BAXTER Some of the items still haven't been examined, but this is already the most important archaeological discovery this century. But why haven't we heard anything from the government yet? It's important that these pieces are kept for the nation and eventually put on display in the British Museum. If the government doesn't act soon, some of them might end up in private collections.

INTERVIEWER Welcome back. With me in the studio is Dr Miriam Richards, who's a psychologist at the University of Pennsylvania and has just published a new report on the psychology of lying.

MIRIAM Hi there.

I Now, Dr Richards, why exactly do we lie?

M Well, put simply, we lie because we want to control what other people think of us, and how we see ourselves. The main reasons we lie are to avoid arguments, to protect ourselves from harm or danger, to save face – you know, so that we don't look stupid in front of other people – and of course just to get what we want in life.

I And does everybody lie?

M Yes, I would say that everyone lies at some time or other. And anyone who says that they don't is obviously a liar!

I And how can we tell that someone is lying to us?

M Well, it's often easier to look at the person's body language than to listen to what they're saying. For example, when someone is lying, they'll often avoid eye contact. However, very good liars might make more eye contact than usual to try and make you think they're telling the truth.

I Really?

M Yes, and they often smile a lot too – but they won't be real smiles, of course.

I So how can you tell if a smile is real?

M Well, a real smile uses the muscles around the eyes, but a fake smile doesn't. So if you can't tell if someone's really smiling, then look at their eyes, not their mouth.

I Are there any other ways you can tell if someone is lying?

M Oh yes. When we tell the truth, our eyes tend to move to the right, because the left side of the brain, which stores facts, controls the right side of the body.

I I see.

M Yes, and when we're lying, the right side of the brain, which controls imagination, makes the eyes go left.

I Hmm, that's interesting.

M Yes, and people tend to look up when they're telling the truth, because they're getting information from their brain. If they start lying, they'll look down or straight ahead. When they go back to telling the truth, their eyes will go up again.

I I've also been told that people put their hands over their mouths when they're lying. Is that true?

M Yes, it is. People also touch their noses a lot when they're lying, because that covers the mouth too.

I That's fascinating. And what about white lies?

M Well, of course most people tell white lies when they don't want to hurt people's feelings, for example, er, saying a meal was delicious when it was awful. But some people can also train themselves to become expert liars, like, er, politicians, for example.

I Dr Richards, thanks for coming in to talk to us today.

M My pleasure. And I really mean that!

DOCTOR Hello, Mr Philips. Take a seat.

MR PHILIPS Thank you.

DR Now what seems to be the problem?

MR P I'm not feeling very well. I've got a terrible stomach ache and I keep throwing up.

DR Have you had any diarrhoea?

MR P No, I haven't.

DR How long have you been feeling like this?

MR P Since um late last night.

DR Do you know if you're allergic to anything?

MR P No, not that I know of.

DR What have you eaten recently?

MR P Well, my two children cooked dinner for my wife and me last night. It was our wedding anniversary, you see, and they wanted to surprise us.

DR That was a nice thought. What did you have?

MR P Well, I'm not sure what it was, actually. Some sort of er seafood and pasta dish. They spent a long time cooking it, so you know I felt I had to eat it. It wasn't very nice, to be honest. My wife hardly ate any, so I ate hers too.

DR OK, I think you've got food poisoning. The best thing to do is to rest and don't eat anything for the next 24 hours. After that you can eat things like bread or rice, but no milk or cheese.

MR P Right.

DR And drink lots of water, or black tea with a little sugar in.

MR P OK. Do I need to make another appointment?

DR No, I'm sure you'll be fine, but come back if you're not feeling better in two days.

MR P Thanks a lot.

DR And maybe tell your children that you want to go to a restaurant next year.

MR P Yes, I will. Goodbye.

DR Goodbye.

Conversation 2

DOCTOR Hello, Mr Green. Please sit down.

MR GREEN Thanks. Achooo!

DR What seems to be the problem?

MR G Well, I haven't been feeling very well recently. My chest hurts and I keep getting really bad headaches.

DR Have you been taking anything for them?

MR G Yes, paracetamol, but er it didn't really help much.

DR Have you got any other symptoms?

MR G Yes, I can't stop sneezing. Achooo!

DR Yes, I can see that. And how long have you been feeling like this?

MR G Oh, let me see, it's three days now.

DR Right, let me have a look at you. Say "aaaah".

MR G Aaaaah ...

DR That's fine, thanks. I'm just going to take your temperature. ... Yes, you've got a bit of a temperature, but nothing serious. I think you've got a virus. You need to stay in bed and rest for two or three days.

MR G Do I need a ... a ...

DR A what?

MR G ACHOOO!

DR Bless you!

MR G Thanks. Do I need some antibiotics? I'm allergic to penicillin, by the way.

DR No, antibiotics don't work with viruses, but I'm going to give you something stronger for the headaches.

MR G Oh, right.

DR Here's a prescription for some painkillers.

MR G Thanks a lot. How often should I take them?

DR Every four hours. If you're not better in three days, then come back and we'll do some blood tests.

MR G Thank you, doctor.

DR Not at all. Goodbye.

MR G Bye.

DR Right, who's the next patient?

AchOOO! Oh no ...

PEGGY Hello?

LEO Hi, Mum.

P Oh, hello darling. How are you?

L I'm OK, thanks. Did you get the message I left yesterday?

P Oh, dear, yes I did. I was supposed to call you back, wasn't I? Sorry, Leo, I was out all day. Hope it wasn't important.

L No, it's OK. It's just that, well, Karen and I wondered if you had any special plans for your wedding anniversary this year. You know, as it's your 25th and all that.

P Er, well, we were going to spend our anniversary in the cottage in Wales where we had our honeymoon, but it was already booked. Tom was supposed to book it months ago, but he forgot. So the short answer is no, no plans.

L Right. Karen and I want to organise a party for you. It was going to be a surprise party, but we can't organise it without you.

P What a lovely idea!

L Actually, we want to invite all the people who came to your wedding so we borrowed some of your old wedding photos. But we haven't got a clue who most of them are.

P Well, we've lost touch with most of them. 25 years is a long time.

L What about the best man?

P Oh, Derek Bradley. Yes, he and his wife, Brenda, were our closest friends back then. She was my bridesmaid.

They moved to New York just after our wedding. We were going to visit them later that year, but we didn't go for some reason. Haven't heard from them in, oh, er 15 years or so. I've no idea how to get in touch with them.

L Well, if you let me have all the information you've got, I'll try to get hold of as many people as I can.

P Well, let's see. I'm still in touch with Trevor Jones and his wife, Sheila – they met at our wedding, you know. And then there's Jane Lewis. We used to share a flat together. I think I still have a phone number for her somewhere ...

KAREN You look lovely with your hair up, Mum. And I love that red dress.

PEGGY Thank you, Karen. Have you seen your father?

K Not for a while, no. Anyway, how are you feeling?

P A bit nervous, actually. And where's Leo?

K I'm not sure. He could be picking people up from the station.

K Who's that, Mum? The woman in the flowery skirt with wavy hair and glasses.

P That's Brenda Bradley. She was my bridesmaid.

K That's right. That can't be her real hair colour, though, can it? It looks dyed to me.

P Yes, I think it is. She used to be fair, I think. She must be going grey.

K And who's the woman with the blonde hair in the blue suit? Is that Jane Lewis?

P Yes, it might be. Hang on, she's spotted us.

JANE Peggy! Gosh, it must be, what, 15 years since I last saw you.

P Hi, Jane. You look fantastic!

J Thank you. You too. Um, where's Tom?

P Good question. He must be talking to some guests in the other room. Er so, anyway, what are you doing these days?

LEO Karen!

K Ah, there you are. Have you seen Dad?

L No, why?

K Mum's looking for him.

L Well, he must be around somewhere. He may want to be on his own for a bit. You know, it's a big thing, this party.

K Yes, maybe. ... Hey, who's that?

L Who?

K Him – the guy in the dark suit with curly hair and the moustache. It could be the guy that moved to New York, er, what's his name, Derek something?

L No, that isn't Derek Bradley. He's the tall guy over there, the one in the grey suit.

K With the beard?

L Yeah.

K Oh, right.

L And that's his son, Nick, next to him, with the flowery tie and glasses.

K Look, the man with the curly hair is coming over.

TREVOR Hi, you must be Peggy's daughter.

K Yes, that's right, I'm Karen. Hi. And this is my brother, Leo.

L Nice to meet you.

T Hi, I'm Trevor Jones. Thanks very much for inviting us, it's a wonderful party.

K Glad you're having a good time.

T Have you met my wife, Sheila?

K Er, no, not yet.

T She's over there – the one with red hair in the dark brown dress. We first met at your parents' wedding, you know ...

K Haven't you found him yet, Mum?

P No, I haven't.

K Maybe he's having a secret cigarette somewhere.

P Oh, don't be silly. He can't be having a cigarette. He stopped smoking months ago. Ah, Leo, there you are. Where's your father? He should be here talking to the guests.

L Well, he might be in the bathroom.

P Yes, perhaps. Go and check, will you, Leo?

L Sure, won't be a minute. ... Yes, he's in there. He's practising his speech in front of the mirror. He says he'll be out in a few minutes.

P Oh, honestly, he must know that speech by now. We spent hours going over it last night. Go and get him, will you? I'm going back to join the party.

L Sure. I'm glad we only have to do this every 25 years!

PRESENTER Today I'm talking to Wendy Robinson, whose new book, I Do, is a history of wedding traditions.

WENDY Hello.

P Wendy, first of all, we should star[t] with the most obvious question. When did our ancestors star[t] getting marrie[d] to each other?

W Oh, weddings have been around[d] since the beginning of civilisation, bu[t] they haven't always been as peaceful as they are now. In parts of Europe around[d] two thousand years ago, if there weren't enough single women in the village, men often went an[d] kidnapped a woman from another village.

P Really?

W Yes, and the man always took a close friend with him to help with the kidnapping, which is where the tradition of the 'bes[t] man' comes from.

P That's interesting.

W That's also why the bes[t] man stands next to the groom during the wedding ceremony, so he could protect the bride if her family tried to come and take her back.

P Well, I'm please[d] tha[t] things have moved on a bit since then. An[d] what about wedding rings? Where did they originate?

W That tradition was started by the Ancient Egyptians. An[d] the wedding ring is always worn on the thir[d] finger of the left han[d] because the Ancient Egyptians believe[d] the vein of tha[t] finger was the 'vein of love' an[d] ran directly to the heart.

P Oh, right. An[d] what about wedding cakes?

W Well, they've been around since Ancient Greek an[d] Roman times. The Greeks use[d] to throw small cakes at the bride an[d] groom, while the Romans use[d] to break a cake over the bride's head. Both of these were symbols of fertility – you know, to help the bride have lots of children.

P And am I right in thinking that's why people throw confetti too?

W Yes, exactly. Guests use[d] to throw wheat, rice or nuts coated in sugar over the happy couple to help them have children, and also to wish for a successful harvest. Now, of course, people tend to throw confetti instead.

P OK, so then the happy couple go on their honeymoon. Where did that tradition originate?

W Well, one theory says this started in Babylonia about 4,000 years ago. After the wedding the bride's father gave his new son-in-law all the mead – that's beer made from honey – the man could drink. This was drunk for the next month – and as the calendar was based on the moon, this period of time after the wedding became known as the honeymoon.

P And in the UK, women are traditionally allowed to propose to men on the 29th February. Why is that?

W Ah, this dates back hundreds of years, when the leap year wasn't recognised by law. For this reason, women believe[d] tha[t] they didn't have to follow the usual traditions, so they felt they could ask their men to marry them.

P An[d] what about other traditions, such as ...

REBECCA Morning, Ella. Sleep well?

ELLA Yes, like a log. What's the time?

R About 11.30.

E Really? I've been asleep for nearly 12 hours!

R Well, I'm sure it'll take a few days to recover. It's a long flight from Delhi.

E Yeah, it took about 11 hours, and we didn't sleep at all on the plane. Mike's still fast asleep. I'm starving. Can I make myself some breakfast?

R Yes, of course you can. Help yourself. You know where everything is.

E Thanks. And thanks a lot for letting us stay for a bit, Rebecca. That's really kind of you.

R No problem. Stay as long as you like, it's nice to have the company. Is there anything else you need?

E Er, well, all our clothes are absolutely filthy from all the travelling. May I use your washing machine?

R Actually, I was just going to put some washing in. I need some clean clothes for Harry. But you can use it later if you like.

E Great, thanks.

R So what are your plans?

E Well, I need to look for a job, actually.

W We spent all our money on the India trip.

R You could talk to Charlie. Apparently they need a new PA in the office.

E Really? That's interesting. I'll talk to him about it later. It's much colder here than in Delhi. Do you mind if I borrow a jumper?

R No, not at all. They're in the bottom drawer in our bedroom. Pick whichever one you like.

E Great, thanks a lot. Be back in a minute.

Conversation 2

CHARLIE Oh, Mike, what's it like to be back in the UK?

MIKE Well, it's quite strange, actually. We were only in India for a month, but it feels like we were away for a year. But it's very nice to be back.

C And when are we going to see your photos?

M Oh er they're all still on our camera at the moment. Er, is it OK if I use your laptop to upload some photos?

C Sorry, I left mine at work. But I'm sure Rebecca will let you use hers.

M Thanks a lot. Then I can show them to you and Rebecca later, if you like.

C Yeah, good idea. We could do it after dinner.

M Oh, I have another big favour to ask you. Would you mind if I borrowed your car some time this week? My brother lives about 20 miles away and I haven't seen him for ages.

C Sorry, it's only insured for Rebecca and myself. But we can drop you at the station whenever you like.

M No problem, I just thought I'd ask.

C Is there anything else you need?

M Er, do you think I could use your landline to call my parents? I said I would phone them today and I don't have any credit left on my mobile.

C Yes, of course. Go ahead. The phone's in the front room, by the window.

M Thanks a lot.

C While you do that, I'll get Rebecca's laptop so you can upload those photos.

M Thanks.

ROB Hi, Sue. What are you doing at the weekend?

SUE We're planning to go away.

R Really? Where are you going to?

S We're off to Dublin for a wedding. We have to check in at ten, so we're setting off at eight.

R Well, this weekend I'm going to tidy up my office. I've been putting it off for ages, but I really need to sort it out.

GABI Hello, On The Box. Can I help you?

FIONA Hello. Um, can I speak to Max Foster, please?

G I'm afraid he's in a meeting all day. I'm his PA, Gabi. Can I take a message?

F Er, yes, probably. My name's Fiona Robbins, and I'm going to be in your new TV drama Undercover.

G Oh yes, of course. You're going to be Kat, aren't you?

F That's right, yes. Anyway um I'm afraid I can't come to the meeting on Monday.

G Oh, dear. Why's that?

F Well, um I'm in hospital. I was in a car accident and I've broken my leg.

G Oh, how terrible!

F Yes, I won't be able to walk on it for a month, or so they tell me.

G Poor you! That must be awful!

F Well, it's quite painful, yes. But I've already had one operation. It went quite well, I think.

G Well, that's good news, at least.

F Yes, I suppose so. And I'm having another operation on Friday. I hope it's going to be OK.

Oh, I'm sure it is.

Thanks. Anyway, about Undercover.

I still want to be in the programme, of course, but I don't know what to do.

Well, they're going to start filming soon, I think.

Yes, I know.

Well, um, you must talk to Max. And the sooner, the better, really. Um, can he call you tomorrow?

Yes, please. He can call me on my mobile, which is 07700 900348.

G I told her that she had to talk to you.

Here's her mobile number.

M OK, I'll call [h]im later. What's [h]is number?

G He only gave me his mobile number. Here it is.

M What?! Get [h]er on the phone – now!

GABI I'm sorry, I don't know what you're talking about.

EVA We've been watching you for a while, you know. We've got it all – phone conversations, emails, text messages, bank statements, the lot.

G You're joking! You mean you're a cop?

E Got it in one, mate. And I hope you like prison food, because unless you start giving me some names, you're going to be eating it for the next ten years.

MAX Thank you very much um Eva. That was very good. Thanks, Gabi.

G No problem. See you later.

M Now, Eva, I'd like to ask you a few questions.

E Sure, go ahead.

M Are you working at the moment?

E Er, not at the moment, no.

M Do you have any acting work in the next three months?

E Well, maybe. I've had some auditions for other TV programmes, but I'm still waiting to hear back from them.

M And what was your last acting job?

E I played a nurse in an episode of Ward Six recently – you know, the TV hospital soap. I got hit by a car and ended up as a patient in the hospital I worked in. I died at the end of the episode. But it was a very challenging part.

M OK, that sounds good. What other parts have you had recently?

E Before that, well, I was a schoolteacher in a film called Flowers in Winter. I had the lead role in that. It was quite a demanding role, but very rewarding too. The film's coming out next month, I think.

M Right. And where did you study acting?

E I trained at the London School of Drama for three years.

M Really? Hm, that's good. And the last question. Are you available to start next week?

E Next week? Yes, I think so.

M OK, that's about all. Thanks for coming in. We've got your number, haven't we?

E Yes, it's on my CV – or you can call my agent.

M Fine. We'll let you know by the end of the day. Have you got any questions?

E Yes, I've got a couple, actually. Who are the other actors in Undercover?

JOE So, how did it go?
EVA Oh, quite well, I think. It was quite stressful, though. I had to read from the script, then Max, the producer, interviewed me.
J What did he ask you?
E First he asked me if I was working at the moment.
J And how did you deal with that?
E Well, um I couldn't tell him I was a waitress working part-time in a café, could I? So I said no. Then he asked what my last acting job had been, so I told him about Ward Six.
J That's good. It shows you're a working actress - well, some of the time, anyway.
E Very funny. He also asked if I had any acting work in the next three months.
J And what did you say?
E I told him about the other auditions and said I was very hopeful. That was the best thing to say, don't you think?
J Yes, probably.
E Oh, and he wanted to know where I'd studied acting.
J Uh-huh.
E So I told him about the drama school, of course.
J Did he ask anything else?
E Er ... let me think ... yes, he asked me what other parts I'd had recently.
J You told him about Flowers in Winter, I hope.
E Of course. Then ... guess what?
J What?
E He wanted to know whether I was available to start next week!
J Next week?! So you've got the part?
E Er, no, not exactly - he said he'd let me know by the end of the day. But I have a good feeling about this, I really do.
J Well, I really hope you get it. Will you still love me when you're famous?
E No, I'll start going out with a good-looking man who's got a well-paid, glamorous job!
J Hey!

CD3 - 20

EVA Hello?
MAX Hello, is that Eva West?
E Yes, it is.
M This is Max Foster from On The Box.
E Oh, er, yes, hi!
M Good news! You've got the job!
E Really? Oh, that's wonderful, thank you!
M No problem. Can you come to a meeting on Monday?
E Er, yes, of course. What time?
M Be at our offices at ten. The director and all the other actors will be here too.
E Yes, of course.

M Oh, and one more thing. Don't accept any more work. This is a full-time job and you'll be busy for the next three months, at least.
E No, of course not. Thanks again. Bye.
M Bye.
E Wow! I've got the job!
JOE Congratulations! That's brilliant!
E Yes, I can't believe it! A TV series ... and I'm the main character!
J So what did he say?
E Well, he asked me to come to a meeting on Monday. He wants me to meet the director and the other actors.
J That's great!
E Yes, he told me to be at their offices at ten.
J Excellent. Did he say anything else?
E Yes, he told me not to accept any more work. This is going to last three months, at least.
J Fantastic! So what's your character's name again?
E Kat. I don't know much about her yet, but it sounds like a really challenging part. Apparently she's an undercover cop ...

DARREN [Are you] Sure this is the place, Glenn?
GLENN Yeah. [The] Warehouse on Tudor Street. [At] Seven thirty.
D [It] Looks closed to me. [Do you] Want a cigarette?
G No, thanks, mate. [I] Gave up last week.
D Yeah, right. [Have you] Heard from Kat recently?
G Not since four. She'll call if she needs to. They're late.
D Only five minutes. Maybe they're stuck in traffic or something.
G Maybe. Let's wait a few more minutes.
D Yeah, OK. 'We'll wait and see what happens.
G I'm getting a bad feeling about this.
D Me too. 'Why don't we call Kat? Where is she tonight, anyway?
G [She's] Out on a date.
D A date? You're joking. Who with?
G The son, Dom. [She] Thought she could get some information out of him.
D Information. Right.
G [Have you] Got a cigarette?
D [I] Thought you said you'd given up.
G That was last week. 'Oh, don't forget to turn the camera on when they arrive. We need this on film.
D Yeah, I know. Where are they?
RUPERT Hendrik. At last. I said seven thirty.
HENDRIK Sorry I'm late, Rupert. [I] Had a bit of a problem finding it. Why didn't we meet at the warehouse, like we usually do?
R [The] Cops are watching me, that's why.

H What?
R They've put an undercover cop in the gallery. [A] Girl called Kat.
H You're joking.
R Do I look like I'm joking? That's why I called you back this afternoon from a payphone and told you to meet me here instead.
H [Are you] Sure you weren't followed?
R No, the cops went to the warehouse. Idiots. So, [have you] got the statues?
H [They're] In the van. 'I'll put them in your car myself, if you like.
R Hang on a minute. Are the diamonds inside them?
H [Of] Course they are.
R They'd better be. Or we'll both end up dead.
H Hey, relax. All I want is the money. Er ... where is it, by the way?
R [It's] In the bag. Two million, used ten-pound notes, just like we agreed.
H Perfect. Hey, Rupert, when this is all over, 'would you like to come and visit me in Amsterdam?
R [I] Don't think that's a good idea. But if this works, 'I'll definitely buy some more of your statues. Now help me carry this one ...

KAT I've locked up the gallery, Gloria. Here are the keys.
GLORIA Thanks. Um, Kat, before you go, can I talk to you in the office?
K Of course.
G After you. ... Put your hands on your head. Now!
K What's going on?
G I have a gun pointing at your head. 'If you turn around, I'll kill you.
K Gloria, there must be some mistake.
G There's no mistake, 'Kat' - if that is your real name. We know you're a cop, so let's stop playing games, shall we?
K What are you talking about? Of course I'm not a cop. Whatever gave you that idea?
G I saw you bugging our phone the other night. Now if you don't start telling me the truth, I'll put a bullet between your pretty little ears.
K OK, you're right. 'I work for the SCS. We know what you and Rupert have been doing. But if you help us, I'll make it easier for you.
G 'I'm not going to help the police. I'd rather go to prison.
K They've probably arrested Rupert already, you know.
G I don't think so. We're one step ahead of you. Now sit down and shut up.
DOM Kat, are you there? Kat?
G 'Don't say a word.
D Kat, the taxi's waiting ... where are you? Kat?

ELLA Hello, Getaway Holidays. How can I help you?
MR KRANE Hello, my name's Bob Krane. Can I speak to Tanya Wilson, please?
E I'm sorry, she's out of the office all day. Would you like to leave a message?
MR K Er ... yes, if you don't mind.
E Sorry, what did you say your name was again?
MR K Bob Krane.
E Is that Crane with a C?
MR K No, with a K.
E Right, thank you. And what was the message?
MR K Um, well, your company wants to send customers to our hotels here in Florida and I'd like to meet with her when I come to the UK next week to discuss a contract.
E OK. Shall I ask her to call you?
MR K Actually, I'm flying to London Heathrow on Thursday on other business. I'm only in the UK for 48 hours, so perhaps Tanya could meet me at a hotel near Heathrow for lunch on the day I arrive. I'm on ... er, let's see, British Airways flight BA614 from Miami, which arrives at Heathrow at 11.15 a.m.
E Sorry, I didn't get all of that. Could you say it again, please?
MR K Yes, British Airways flight BA614 from Miami, which arrives at Heathrow at eleven fifteen.
E Flight BA614 from Miami.
MR K That's right.
E And it arrives at eleven fifty.
MR K No, not eleven fifty, eleven fifteen.
E OK, Mr Krane, I'll let her know as soon as she gets in tomorrow.
MR K Thank you very much. Bye.
E Goodbye.
ELLA Hello, Getaway Holidays. Can I help you?
ANDY Hi, it's Andy. How are things?
E Oh, hello Andy. Er, fine, I think. There's a lot to learn, though.
A I'm sure you'll be fine. If you're not sure about anything, just ask Charlie.
E Yes, I will. Anyway, aren't you supposed to be on holiday in Morocco?
A Yes, I am, but I'm not leaving till tomorrow, and there are a couple of things I didn't have time to do before I left on Friday.
E Well, can I help?
A Yes, if you don't mind. Firstly, could you call Rupert Nielson at The Times and tell him that the meeting on Wednesday has been cancelled.
E Do you mean this Wednesday, the twelfth?
A No, next Wednesday, the nineteenth.

E And could you tell me his surname again?
A Nielson.
E Is that spelt N-i-e-l-s-e-n?
A No, it's N-i-e-l-s-o-n.
E Right. Got it.
A And could you check that all our sales reps have been invited to the sales conference?
E Er, are you talking about the UK sales conference?
A No, the European one. It's in Lisbon next month.
E OK. I'll check they've all been invited.
A Thanks a lot.
E Is there anything else I can help you with?
A No, that's all, I think. But if you have any problems, give me a call on my mobile.
E Er, I haven't got your number.
A Oh, right hang on. It's um, 07700 900372.
E Sorry, I didn't quite catch that. Can you give it to me again, please?
A Sure. 07700 900372.
E Thanks. I won't call unless I have to. Have a great holiday!
A Will do. And good luck with the new job! Bye.
E Bye.
A Thanks for waiting. City centre please.

JULIET We've been standing here for nearly twenty minutes.
LENNY Yes, I know. But I'm sure one will be along soon.
J I wish we had a car.
L Yeah, me too, but you know we can't afford one, not until I find a job.
J Yeah, I know, I'm just saying. If we had a car, I wouldn't spend half my life waiting for buses.
L Oh look, here's one. See, I told you.
2
AMANDA Do you fancy a drink? Sally and I are off to the pub.
RYAN Oh, I wish I could come with you. But I have to stay and finish this report.
A Can't you do it tomorrow?
R No, Brian wants it before he goes home. He's off to New York in the morning.
A Well, if you finish it in the next hour or two, give me a call.
R Yes, I will. I could really do with a drink. Anyway, have a good time. Now, where was I?

3
JASON Are you enjoying this film?
TINA No, it's rubbish, isn't it? Actually, I'm sick of sitting here watching telly in this freezing cold flat.
J Yeah. I wish I was on a beach somewhere, you know, relaxing in the sunshine.
T Yeah, we could really do with a holiday, couldn't we? It's a shame we're so broke.
J Do you fancy going for a walk?
T No, I can't be bothered. Let's see what else is on.

4

MOLLY You look nice. I can't remember when I last saw you in a suit.

PATRICK Thanks. But I wish we didn't have to go to this party. I don't really feel up to it.

M Oh, you can't miss your sister's birthday. Anyway, you'll enjoy it when you're there.

P Yes, I suppose so. But let's not hang around for too long after dinner.

M No, of course not. So, which of these dresses should I wear?

P Er ... I don't mind, it's up to you.

M The red one, I think ... or maybe the green one.

5

DYLAN Are you off?

BARBARA Yes, I'm meeting Jackie at the station in a few minutes.

D Well, give her my love.

B Will do. I wish you were coming to the theatre with me.

D You know I'm not really into musicals. Anyway, I've got to finish marking all these exams.

B OK. I'll see you later.

D Have a good time. Bye.

CAROL The most important moment in my life was um the day I met Owen. An old friend was having a party, but the weather was so bad that I nearly didn't bother going. Just think, if I'd stayed at home, I wouldn't have met my husband. Anyway, my friend introduced me to Owen and we got on really well. He was only in London for a few days - he's American, you see - and he was supposed to fly back to Boston the following day. But the next morning Owen called me to say that Heathrow airport was closed because of ice and snow. He'd have flown home that day if the weather hadn't been so bad. Anyway, he invited me out for lunch and we got to know each other a bit better. He flew home the next day, but by that time we were already madly in love. We got married two years later - and the rest, as they say, is history.

ANTHONY For me the, um ... probably the biggest turning point in my life was when I lost my job. I was working for an advertising agency, but they got into financial trouble and had to get rid of some people, including me. I got quite depressed at first, but I was getting fed up with working for a big agency anyway. So I decided to start my own online design company. If I hadn't lost my job, I wouldn't have started my own business, but it's been really successful. I've always fancied working from home, and so I moved to the country and bought a nice little cottage. I wouldn't have left London if I'd stayed with the ad agency. I don't get as much money as I used to, but I'm much happier than I was then.

MICHELLE Well, for me it's probably the day I won my first race. When I was a kid I used to get into trouble a lot at school, and the only thing I enjoyed was running, which I was always quite good at. Then one day my dad took me to the local athletics club. When we got there I found out that he'd entered me for the 400 metres! I was really nervous, but I won by over two seconds. That was the turning point for me. If I hadn't won that race, I'd never have become a serious athlete. I started training really hard and three years later I managed to get into the British youth athletics team. I've got better as I've got older and now I want to compete in the next Olympics. So, yeah, running's changed my life. If I hadn't started doing this, I'd have got into a lot more trouble, I'm sure of that.

PRESENTER Hello and welcome to the programme. Stories of superheroes have entertained us for nearly eighty years, and one of the most popular of these is Spider-Man. Today I'm talking to the author Robin Baker, whose new book, Superhero, tells the story of Spider-Man's creator, Stan Lee. Welcome to the programme, Robin.

ROBIN Thank you.

P Robin, what can you tell us about Stan Lee's early life?

R Well, his real name was Stanley Lieber, and he started working for a company called Timely Comics when he was sixteen. Twenty years later the company - which was now called Marvel Comics - was almost broke, so Lee was asked to invent some new superheroes.

P Which characters did he create?

R First he created a comic called The Fantastic Four, which was very successful and saved the company. This was followed by The Incredible Hulk, The X-Men, and then, er, Spider-Man.

P Where did the idea for Spider-Man come from?

R Well, according to Stan Lee himself, he was in his office trying to come up with a superpower for a new character he'd just created. While he was sitting there, he was watching a fly walking up a wall. Then he thought, wouldn't it be great if my character could walk up walls like an insect? So Spider-Man was born. Actually, he nearly called him Insect-Man.

P Really?

R Yes, but he thought it just didn't sound right. Then he tried Crawling-Man, Mosquito-Man ... and then finally Spider-Man.

P And Spider-Man was rather different to earlier superheroes, wasn't he?

R Yes, absolutely. The character Peter Parker - who's Spider-Man, of course - was a typical young guy. He had problems with girls, he missed appointments, he couldn't pay the rent, that kind of thing. So um even though he had these amazing superpowers, he was still a normal guy with all the problems young people usually have.

P How did he get his superpowers?

R Well, in the original comic Peter Parker was bitten by a radioactive spider at a science museum. This gave him his super strength and his "spider sense", which is his ability to sense danger. And of course he can also climb up the sides of buildings, which is very useful!

P As we've all seen in the films.

R Yes, indeed. And a funny little fact is Stan Lee often appeared in his characters' movies - usually as a hot-dog seller.

P Robin, thanks very much for coming in to talk to us today.

R My pleasure.
